The New-York Times.

VOL. XIX.....NO. 5888. NEW-YORK, FRIDAY, AUGUST 5, 1870. PRICE FOUR CENTS.

THE WAR.

A Severe Fight Reported at Weissenbourg Yesterday.

The Town Taken by Assault at the Point of the Bayonet.

The French Driven Back.—Losses on Both Sides Heavy.

The French Commandant and two Staff Officers Killed.

The Crown Prince Leads the Prussian Troops in Person.

Proposed Important Movement of the French Army To-morrow.

Grammont's Last Circular—He Accuses Bismarck of Falsehood and Cowardice.

Large Decrease of Specie in the Bank of England.

Excitement in Denmark Intense—Popular Sympathy All With France.

TELEGRAPHIC REPORTS.

A Prussian Victory—The Town of Weissenbourg Taken by Assault—Heavy Fighting—The French Leader Killed—The Crown Prince at the Head of the German Forces—Particulars of the Battle.

CARLSRUHE, Aug. 4—6 P. M.—There was hard fighting at Weissenburg, yesterday. To-day a large force of Prussians advanced between Weirsenbourg and Lauterbourg, ten miles into French territory, driving the advanced posts of the enemy, and destroying miles of the railroad between Lauterbourg and Strasbourg, along which, it is supposed, MCMAHON was preparing to advance. The French loss was heavy, including many prisoners.

CARLSRUHE, Aug. 4.—Later.—The Prussian victory at Weissenburg was decisive. The troops engaged were regiments of the Fifth and Eleventh Prussian Army Corps and the Second Army Corps of Bavaria, led by the Crown Prince in person. The French force consisted of Gen. DOUAY's Division of Marshal MCMAHON's corps. Weissenburg and Geisshill, in the rear of that town, were carried by storm at the point of the bayonet after an obstinate resistance. The General who commanded the French in the absence of Gen. DOUAY, was killed, with two officers of his staff. The French encampment, one piece of artillery, 800 wounded prisoners, including many Turkos, fell into the hands of the Prussians. On the German side, Gen. KIRCHBACH was wounded. The Grenadiers and Fifteenth Regiment suffered severely.

[Weissenburg is situated on the Lauter River, which at that point forms the boundary between France and Rhenish Bavaria, or the Palatinate. The Neustadt, Landau and Weissenburg Railroad passes through the town and connects with the road to Strasbourg. Lauterbourg is also situated on the Lauter, but nearer its confluence with the Rhine by twelve miles. There is no railroad laid down on the maps as running between Strasbourg and Lauterbourg. The town is within two miles of the Rhine. Weissenburg was reported as captured by the French on the 3d inst.—ED. TIMES.]

Reconnaissance by McMahon—An Important Move Proposed—Present Position of the Prussian Forces.

STRASBOURG, Aug. 3.—Yesterday, after a Council of War, Marshal MCMAHON, with his Chief-of-Staff, Gen. COUDSON, surveyed the Rhine from Kehl Bridge upward. They visited Brumath, twenty miles north of here, where a cavalry division and part of the First Division of Infantry are encamped. From these movements it is conjectured that MCMAHON, with the African Army is about to cross the Rhine and dash rapidly by the way of Carlsruhe and Heidelberg to Frankfort, and that thence he will endeavor to cut the railroad communicating between Berlin and the Rhine. It is believed he will leave Mayence on the left, while the main army pushes on through the lower Rhine Provinces to Mayence and Coblentz. The forward movement, it is rumored, is fixed for Saturday. It is reported that the Prussians are gathered in force in the South, and that a Baden force is in the Black Forest. Gen. DE GANJAL, in command of the second division of the corps stationed here, vacant by the illness of Gen. DOUAY, dropped dead from apoplexy on the 1st inst.

The Saarbruck Affair—Prussian Account—The Advantages Gained from a French View—Notes from Metz.

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—The Prussian Government furnishes the following account, more in detail, of the affair at Saarbrück: "A feeble garrison held Saarbrück until the French deployed and advanced in three columns. The Prussians then retired to a position north of the town to observe the enemy. In spite of the free use by the French of the Mitrailleuse artillery and Chassepots, our losses were only two officers and seventy men. The loss of the French appeared to be more serious. Our troops were admirably cool."

PARIS, Aug. 4.—The heights taken by the French at Saarbrück form a key to the railway approaches to Treves, hence the importance of the conquest. During the attack the bands played the "Marseillaise."

METZ, France, Aug. 4.—Fourteen Prussian soldiers, captured at the attack on Saarbrück, passed through this city late yesterday afternoon. Part of them were on their way to Belfort and part to Thionville, where they will be imprisoned. The Prussian wounded have been cared for the same as the French.

Another Circular from Grammont—Prussia the Aggressor—Serious Charges Against Bismarck—Two Accounts of the Document.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—The Journal Officiel publishes a diplomatic circular of the Duke DE GRAMMONT on the disarmament. The document, after refuting the statements of COUNT VON BISMARCK, terminates thus:

"If Europe remains armed, if a million of men are on the eve of the shock of battle, it cannot be denied that the responsibility is Prussia's, as she repulsed all idea of disarmament when we assured the proposal to be made and began by giving the example. Her conduct is explained by the fact that at that hour, when France considerably reduced her military contingent, the Cabinet at Berlin was secretly organizing the candidature of a Prussian Prince for the throne of Spain, so provocative of mischief. Whatever calumnies the Federal Chancellor may invent, we fear not; he has lost the right to be believed. The conscience of Europe and history will say, 'Prussia sought this war by imposing upon France, preoccupied with the development of her political institutions, an outrage no nation could accept without incurring contempt.'"

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

The Duke of GRAMMONT has issued another circular, reaffirming that aggressive propositions originated in Berlin. France made none; on the contrary, she commenced her disarmament. Count VON BISMARCK bases his proposals on his anxiety about the plans of Russia, giving the details which the Duke DE GRAMMONT temporarily withholds. The Duke concludes, that owing to the falsehoods BISMARCK has already uttered through fear, he has lost all claim to be believed hereafter.

Danish Neutrality—Popular Clamor for France—Position of Portugal and Hungary—A French Ambassador Cheered by Excited in London—Belgium.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 4.—The Danish Government still struggles hard to preserve neutrality, but the popular excitement is intense and perhaps ungovernable. The sympathy for France among all classes is very marked.

LISBON, Aug. 4.—The Gazeta of this city officially publishes the decree of neutrality on the part of Portugal in the Franco-Prussian war.

PESTH, Aug. 4.—The Diet of Hungary, yesterday, emphatically declared in favor of Austrian neutrality in the Franco-Prussian war.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—It is rumored that Count DE CAUMONT LA FORCE has arrived in London as a special messenger from the Duke DE GRAMMONT, to assure the Government that France will respect the neutrality of Belgium, and it is added that he has met with a cool reception.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 4.—The Chambers are called to meet on the 8th inst. M. JACOBS has been appointed Minister of Finance, and the Baron D'ANETHAN adds the charge of the Department of Public Works, ad interim, to his other duties as President of the Council and Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Refusal of Leopold's Brother to Obey Prussia—The Marseillaise to be the National Air of France—A War Song by Offenbach.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—The Constitutionnel says that the agent of Prince CHARLES of Roumania, in Paris, took an active part in procuring the renunciation of the throne of Spain by his brother, Prince LEOPOLD. The Berlin Government, irritated at the conduct of the agent, have demanded his dismissal, but Prince CHARLES refuses to yield to the demand. The Gaulois says the Emperor will issue a decree making the "Marseillaise" henceforth the national air of France. The French hospital service have 24,000 beds ready for the wounded. The Empress came to the Tuileries today and presided at the Council of Ministers.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—OFFENBACH, the opera-bouffe composer, though a German, has published a French war song entitled, "God Speed the Emperor."

The British Parliament—War Measures Discussed—The Policy of England—Meeting of the Liverpool Board of Trade.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—In the House of Lords, to-night, the Marquis of SALISBURY wished to know when discussion would be opportune concerning the recent negotiations of England with foreign Powers. Earl GRANVILLE replied that the papers with full details of what had taken place were nearly ready, and when they were submitted the Government would be prepared for debate. A bill authorizing the effective organization of the militia forces of the country was presented and read for the first time, after which the House adjourned.

In the House of Commons, to-night, Sir G. S. JERRINGTON gave notice that he should question the Government as to its intentions with regard to Belgium and the protection of her independence. Mr. OTWAY, Under Foreign Secretary, stated in reply to a question that the negotiations for the settlement of the Brazilian claims were progressing; and in response to another demand, objected to the production of old treaties with other Powers for the settlement of Continental affairs, declaring that the modern policy of the British Government was non-intervention therein. The Foreign Enlistment bill was debated in Committee. An attempt to extend its prohibitions to selling or contracting to sell vessels to a belligerent, failed.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 4.—A meeting of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce has been called to consider the expediency of petitioning the Government to prohibit the exportation of arms and munitions.

British Ports Crowded with German Shipping—A Defense of Spain—The Bank of England—Important Action.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The ports of England are rapidly filling with North German vessels, anxious to escape French cruisers. A circular has lately appeared from Señor SAGASTA, defending Spain as innocent of the cause of the trouble between France and Prussia. The document is well received. The official report of the Bank of England, made public today, shows that the amount of specie in vault has decreased £490,000 since the last report. The officers of the Bank of England have just announced a still further advance in the rate of discount of one per cent. The minimum rate is now six per cent. It is asserted that the bank rate was raised for political effect, not from financial necessity.

France vs. Prussia—A Wager Accepted—Berlin's Defenders—Forage Scarce on the Rhine.

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—The officers of the Union Club of this city have accepted a large wager offered by M. THOMAS, of Paris, that the French will be in Berlin on the 15th of August. A Prussian reserve of 100,000 men is encamped in front of Berlin. Forage is scarce in the Rhine Provinces, and the Prussian horse is suffering severely.

Sympathies of Americans in Paris—The Lee-Beauregard Canard—Sheridan's Visit to Europe.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—It cannot be true that the so-called American Legion in Paris will amount to anything. Private letters received here from responsible sources in that city say that the sympathies of Americans there are decidedly with Prussia.....The story that LEE and BEAUREGARD have been refused service in the French Army is wholly gratuitous. LEE is President of a College, and has just been elected President of one of the most important railroad enterprises in Virginia, to which he pledges such of his time and energy as he can spare from college duties. BEAUREGARD is also connected with a railroad, and the Southern papers speak of what he will do this Fall in terms that do not intimate any probability of his desiring to go abroad.....Gen. SHERIDAN, of course, has not indicated a desire to enter the French army, or even to visit it. He knew before he left this country that all foreign officers would be excluded, and his military associates did not understand that he would go to France at present. He does not go abroad with any official mission, but on leave of absence at his own expense, and in his own fashion. He has no orders, but understands the President's views, and will follow his own inclination about making a report when he gets Rome, which may be this Fall, and perhaps not till in the Winter.....The Prussian Legation is advised that many subjects of its Government living in this country will soon report at New-York and sail for home. Numbers of them seem actuated by patriotism, while others go to avoid the conscription of their property.

Sympathy for France—Meetings in Chicago and St. Louis.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—A Scandinavian meeting was held here last night. About 500 Danes, Swedes and Norwegians were present. The meeting was conducted in the Scandinavian language. Resolutions sympathizing with France were passed.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 4.—A meeting of Frenchmen was held to-night, at which sympathy was expressed for their countrymen now engaged in war with Prussia. A committee was appointed to raise money for the benefit of wounded French soldiers.

A German Steamer at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 4.—The North German steam-ship Leipzig, from Bremen, via Southampton, arrived here at 10¼ o'clock this morning.

LOCAL REPORTS.

German Patriotic Aid Societies—Plan for a State Organization.

The Executive Committee of the German Patriotic Aid Society of this City has made the following appeal for the organization of a German Patriotic Aid Society of the State of New-York:

The Executive Committee of the German Patriotic Aid Society of the City of New-York have shown, in their appeal to the Germans of the State of New-York, what it is, in their opinion, very desirable to be done, and need consequently only add, that the State, becomes a systematic co-operation of all Germans who have the national cause at heart would further that cause in the most effective manner. Prompted by this belief, the undersigned Committee has the following propositions to all Germans of the State:

1. That they do not merely make a single collection for the benefit of the wounded and of the widows and orphans of German soldiers fallen in the war, but try to unite in organized aid societies as their respective homes, and to continue in active operation during the war.

2. That they declare the aid societies thus organized to be branch societies of the "German Patriotic Aid Society of the State of New-York."

3. As the City of New-York is the seat of the North-German Consular Council, with which the Executive Committee of the Society will have to be in permanent direct connection, that the Executive Committee of the branch society of the City of New-York be recognized as the general agency of the "German Patriotic Aid Society of the State of New-York."

4. That on the last day of each month the sums collected during the month be remitted to Mr. PHILIP BISSINGER, (No. 12 John-street,) the Treasurer of the Executive Committee of the City, who will be obliged, at the close of the first week of each month, to publish a report of the sums so received from all branch societies, of which report a copy shall be sent to each branch society.

5. That in the various societies, at regular, stated intervals, meetings of the Executive Committee be held to consider ways and means for furthering the objects of the Society, to receive reports of the aid, and generally to entertain propositions, if any there be, concerning the improvement of the State organization in connection with the Executive Committee in the City.

6. That the Secretaries of the different societies be instructed to send, if possible, every week, or at least every other week, a short report concerning the activity of these societies to the Secretary of the Aid Society of the City of New-York, that he may be enabled to keep in a systematic manner the German-American, Anglo-American and European public informed on the activity of the Aid Societies.

7. The funds raised to be used for the purpose of supporting the wounded and families of fallen German soldiers, and from time to time reports about such distribution be made and published.

All German patriotic and societies of the State are requested to deliberate upon the above propositions as soon as possible, and, in case of approval, to notify the Secretary, at No. 160 Fulton-street, corner of Broadway, of it.

Delegates to the Chicago German Convention.

The Executive Committee of the German Patriotic Aid Society or this City, at their last meeting, appointed Hon. EDWARD SALOMON as delegate to the Convention of Delegates from German patriotic aid societies of this country, which will be held at Chicago on the 18th inst. Dr. E. KRACKOWITZER was elected Vice-President of the Committee, and Messrs. M. MEYER, of Hoboken; F. A. SCHROEDER and W. G. TAAKS, of Brooklyn, were appointed members of the Committee. The physician's subcommittee reported that already six physicians had been sent from this port as assistant surgeons in the German Army at the expense of the Society, and that four more were examined and approved. The Treasurer, Mr. PHIL. BISSINGER, reported to the Committee that the subscriptions made with the amounted to $4,418 61, over sixty subscription books have been distributed by him.

Meeting of the Brooklyn German Aid Society.

The Executive Committee of the German Patriotic Aid Society of Brooklyn has organized, by electing the following officers: Messrs. F. A. SCHROEDER, President; P. WEIZEL, Vice-President; THEO. JUENCKE, Treasurer; MAX ARMING, Recording Secretary; G. SCHIMMEL, Corresponding Secretary; W. G. TAAKS, GEORGE KINKEL, LOUIS BURGER, Finance Committee. The Executive Committee has resolved that their Society join the German Patriotic Aid Society of this City, for the aid of wounded German soldiers, and the support of the families of fallen German soldiers in the present European war. They also have made an appeal to the Germans of Brooklyn to organize ward aid societies for raising funds, and that one delegate from each of these ward aid societies be a member of the Executive Committee, which will meet each week. The contributions thus far made by the Germans of Brooklyn, for the purpose stated, amount to about $2,000.

French National Subscriptions.

The Executive Committee of the Frenchmen of this City, appointed for the purpose of making collections for the aid of wounded French soldiers, and for the support of the widows and orphans of those slain in battle during the present European war, met at No. 21 West Houston-street, last evening, Mr. P. A. GERDY presiding, and Mr. L. MEUSIER acting as Secretary. The several members of the Committee turned over the money received by them to the Treasurer, Mr. A. VATABLE, Jr., who has now the sum of $5,051 40 on hand. Among the subscriptions were some made by Germans in the employ of this City, who have contributed both to the German Patriotic Aid Society and to the French Executive Committee. The Committee will meet for a similar purpose every Thursday evening. It is believed that the Frenchmen of this City will make up about $15,000; those of New-Orleans about $15,000; those of San Francisco about $10,000, and those of Chicago, Baltimore, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Cincinnati, together, about $2,500, so that about $40,000, or from 150,000 to 175,000 francs, in gold, will be sent as a testimony of patriotism by the Frenchmen of this country to France. It is intended to send one-third of the money to the International Society for the wounded in the field; one-third to the Aid Society, at Paris, for wounded soldiers, and for families of fallen soldiers, of which the Empress EUGENIE is President, and one-third to a similar society at Paris, whose President is EMILE GIRARDIN.

German Immigration.

Out of the total number of 19,764 immigrants that arrived at this port during the month of July, there were 1,371 Germans against a total number of 25,023 immigrants, with 10,275 Germans among them during the month of July in 1869. From Jan. 1 to July 31, there arrived at this port a total number of 188,544 immigrants, and among them 35,004 Germans, against a total number of 168,211 immigrants, and among them 54,854 Germans, during the same period of last year.

MARITIME LAW.

Declarations Agreed Upon by the Paris Convention of 1856.

The British Foreign Office has published the following copy of the Declaration of Maritime Law agreed upon by the Paris Congress of 1856, and since almost universally accepted by other Powers: The Plenipotentiaries who signed the Treaty of Paris of the 30th of March, 1856, assembled in Conference at Sterling: That maritime law in time of war has long been the subject of deplorable disputes; that the uncertainty of the law and of the duties in such a matter gives rise to differences of opinion between neutrals and belligerents which may occasion serious difficulties, and even conflicts; that it is consequently advantageous to establish a uniform doctrine on so important a point; that the Plenipotentiaries assembled in Congress at Paris cannot better respond to the intentions by which their Governments are animated than by seeking to introduce into international relations fixed principles in this respect; the above-mentioned Plenipotentiaries, being duly authorized, resolved to concert among themselves as to the means of attaining this object; and, having come to an agreement, have adopted the following solemn declaration: 1. Privateering is, and remains abolished. 2. The neutral flag covers enemy's goods, with the exception of contraband of war. 3. Neutral goods, with the exception of contraband of war, are not liable to capture under enemy's flag. 4. Blockades, in order to be binding, must be effective—that is to say, maintained by a force sufficient really to prevent access to the coast of the enemy. 5. Considering that neutrals have the undoubted right to send their ships freely and without hindrance to any port or coast of a belligerent, the Plenipotentiaries engage to bring the present Declaration to the knowledge of the States which have not taken part in the Congress of Paris, and to invite them to accede to it. Convinced that the maxims which they now proclaim cannot but be received with gratitude by the whole world, the undersigned Plenipotentiaries engage to bring the present Declaration to the knowledge of their Governments to obtain the general adoption thereof will be crowned with full success. The present Declaration is not, and shall not be binding, except between those Powers who have acceded, or shall accede to it. Done at the Conference of April, 1856. (Signed) BUOL-SCHAUENSTEIN, RUPPER, WALEWSKI, BOURQUENEY, CLARENDON, CLOWLEY, MANTEUFFEL, HATZFELDT, ORLOFF, BRUNNOW, CAVOUR, DE VILLAMARINA, AALI, MEHEMMED DJEMIL.

WASHINGTON.

The Army Bill—Review of its Principal Provisions—Indian Policy of the Government—Cowardly Assault Upon a Member of Congress—Maryland Politics—Chinese Labor in Maine, &c.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The examination of the new Army bill, at the War Department, shows that the gross amount required for the pay and allowances of the army will be considerably larger than under the former act. Even if all the supernumeraries and officers awaiting orders, numbering together about 400, had been mustered out without pay, the amount which others will receive at the new rates, exceeds the sum required last year for the whole body of officers. These 400 were drawing an average of three-eighths of full pay when the bill passed; now, in case they resign, they receive one year's pay in advance at the increased rate. When Attorney-General AKERMAN's opinion on the unexpended balances first appeared, it was thought the contemplated advance payment to resigning officers could not be made, but it has been determined that the regular appropriation for the pay of the army for the current year can be used for the purpose, although estimates were not made with any such expenditure in view. Still the amount appropriated is large enough to meet this unexpected drain and carry on regularly the payment of troops till Congress meets in December. The provision about relieving officers, performing civil duties, as rapidly as possible, relates to those acting as Indian Agents. The President and Commissioner PARKER have been in correspondence with the representatives of the various Christian denominations, with a view to mourning aid from the missionary organizations of each, and so far as possible, new agents will be selected solely with regard to their fitness and willingness to carry out the friendly policy of the Government toward the Indians. Several of the military agents have written for instructions. The law which has been issued in General Orders declares that any officer exercising the functions of a civil officer shall forfeit his commission. In case those agents cease performing the duties assigned them until relieved by orders they will be liable to trial, and so they do not see their way clear, and ask for special instructions.

BRUTAL ASSAULT WITH A CANE.

Mr. JOSEPH SEGAR, of Virginia, late applicant for a seat in Congress as representative at large, committed a most cowardly assault upon Hon. WM. S. LINCOLN, ex-member from New-York, at the Baltimore depot, at an early hour this morning. It seems that a communication had appeared in a Baltimore paper ridiculing his claims to a seat, and his general conduct around the House in connection with the matter. SEGAR had satisfied himself that Mr. LINCOLN wrote the article in question, and that the latter was expected on the 6 o'clock train from New-York this morning. He concealed himself behind one of the stone columns of the depot, and waited for the passengers to leave the train. As Mr. LINCOLN came out he stepped up behind him and struck him a murderous blow on the head with the large end of a heavy cane. Fortunately the heavy hat worn by Mr. LINCOLN partially checked the force of the blow, and the skull was not fractured, though the scalp was cut a considerable length. SEGAR followed up the attack until taken in charge by the Police. He was arraigned this afternoon on two charges, one of assault, and the second of assault with intent to kill. The Court held him in $5,000 to appear before the Grand Jury. Gen. ROBT. S. WILLIAMS appeared and gave bail.

THE NEGRO VOTE OF MARYLAND.

It is generally believed that the negro vote will give the Fifth Maryland District to the Republicans, and some of them have been trying to induce Ex-Gov. FRANK THOMAS to enter the field again for Congress, but his home newspaper says he is not a candidate and does not desire the nomination. An evening paper here says it is reported that several parties in the shoe trade at Georgetown, who rely on Boston houses for their stock, inasmuch as Chinese labor has already been employed in making up their goods in Massachusetts, have arranged with an agent in San Francisco to send here twenty-five Chinamen for the purpose of pursuing the occupation of shoe-makers.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

SWAMP AND OVERFLOWED LANDS.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office on the 2d inst. transmitted to the Governor of the State of Alabama patents for swamp and overflowed lands inuring to said State under the provisions of the act of Sept. 28, 1850, situated in the Mobile land district, and embracing 75,854 acres.

TAX ON DESTROYED WHISKY.

In the case of a distiller, whose bonded warehouse and contents is accidentally destroyed by fire, it is ruled that the destruction of the spirits is not such a removal as renders the tax due at its occurrence, but that in such cases the tax on the spirits destroyed is not due until one year from the date of the entry bond.

THE RIGHT TO VOTE.

Attorney-General AKERMAN has sent copies of the act enforcing the rights of citizens of the United States to vote, to all the United States Attorneys, Marshals and Clerks of Courts. Several copies were sent to each office.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

It appears from official data, that for the eleven months ended May 31, the imports exceeded the exports by $6,228,220. During the same period of 1869, the excess of imports over exports was $26,055,497.

MR. AKERMAN AND THE GEORGIA CASE.

Attorney-General AKERMAN declines addressing the Southern Republican Club, because in doing so he would have to allude to the Georgia case, which may soon come before him for a legal opinion. It is understood that Mr. AKERMAN favors an election this Fall in that State.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS.

The receipts of Customs for the week ending July 30 were as follows:

New-York	$1,687,194
Boston	217,709
Philadelphia	86,622
Baltimore	180,288
San Francisco to July 23	155,493
Total	$2,371,247

PERSONAL.

President GRANT and Secretary ROBESON will arrive here to-morrow morning in the early train.

Presbyterian Unity.

The Pittsburg Gazette, April 4, says:

"Notwithstanding the adverse action of the General Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church on the subject of Union in Cincinnati last May, it appears that a large number of the ministers and people are determined to enter the United Presbyterian General Assembly. All the ministerial members of the Western Presbytery have united in a call for a meeting for that purpose. The Pittsburg Presbytery unanimously indorsed the conduct of those delegates who voted for union at a special meeting held last Monday."

THE ROPE.

The Death Penalty at Norwalk, Ohio—Execution of Manuel Soor—His Declaration of Innocence to the Last.

From the Toledo Blade, Aug. 3.

At the Spring term of the Court of Common Pleas for Huron County, Judge PEASLEE presiding, MANUEL SOOR was convicted of the charge of murdering JACOB GOODMAN, a peddler, in which employ he was at the time. GOODMAN was a peddler; a Jew by birth, who, from motives of good will and sympathy to one of his own faith and ancestry, gave SOOR employment and pecuniary aid. The murder, if we are informed rightly, was committed in the south-west part of Huron County, near the dividing line between Greenfield and New-Haven townships. SOOR was traveling with GOODMAN in a wagon. When passing the house of a Mr. HARTMAN, SOOR proposed to Mr. H. to water and get over the fence. An iron bar was taken from a lumber-pile and secreted in the wagon. This iron bar was afterward found near where GOODMAN was found lying dead or dying. The wounds of which he died were evidently made by this bar. It appears that SOOR, after dealing the death-blow to GOODMAN, pulled him out of the wagon, and while in the ditch plundered him of his papers and pocket-book. This is the theory of the case as deduced from the evidence given at the trial.

The only motive SOOR could have had for this murder of his friend and benefactor was to plunder him of that money. If he was the guilty, he was guilty of a most cruel, heartless crime; and if innocent of the murder, his fate is one to be greatly deplored. SOOR's incarceration dates from the 10th of October last. The prisoner maintained a cheerful submission to his fate, and conducted himself in a scrupulous observance of every rule of the jail, and with such kindly feeling for his fellow-prisoners, and respect for his keeper, the Sheriff, that the former always called him a "good fellow," while the latter acknowledges that he "never had so good a prisoner under his charge. Naturally buoyant and mirthful, he was slow to believe the fearful fate in store for his prison; and no visitor ever chatted—for his invariable humor seems to bar the grave term converse—with him, but what he or she would truly forget that they were in the sad presence of a doomed murderer; and he was feasted by visitors with as much hospitality and attention as though he were a hero, instead of the inexpressible brand of an assassin. Even the Sheriff's child delighted in passing behind the creaking, chilling iron door, to play with SOOR, and the latter would beg the Sheriff to let the child come to him.

A FAVORITE WITH THE LADIES.

Some of the ladies of the City often called upon the prisoner, and some of them would present him with sweetmeats, bouquets and other tokens of their sympathy and friendship. He was pleased in his last public appearance on the scaffold seemed to concern him as much as the preparation of his soul for the future state, and his last and most earnest request, on bidding the Sheriff good-night, last evening, was that he might be bathed all over this morning. Several days ago he began to arrange for his dying garments, and asked the Sheriff to buy him a new shirt, pantaloons, drawers and socks, and to give him a white coat and vest. The favor was kindly granted, and after the clothes were obtained he showed them to the visitors, in evident satisfaction with the manner in which his wishes had been gratified. His innocence was what he persisted in offering to the last, though he would not allude to the matter without questioning, "My innocence is the last thing I shall say on the scaffold," was his repeated expression. He doubtless had every hope of receiving Executive clemency till Friday last, when a positive refusal was received from Gov. HAYES, in response to the earnest solicitations of the culprit's friends for a commutation. On the receipt of this crushing denial the prisoner showed for the first time a sober, serious and deep appreciation of his condition, and this was all, for not a tear moistened his eye nor a sigh heaved from his breast, but that he was really struggling to repress both was apparent in his countenance.

THE WIFE OF THE CULPRIT.

SOOR said to a reporter that he had had a letter from his wife two weeks ago, giving him his little son, both very affectionate. His wife had it was too bad that her husband should be imprisoned for murder in three weeks after arriving in America, when no black mark had ever been placed against him during all his life at home. While conversing in his cell, SOOR went outside and returning presented our reporter with a scrap of paper sewn on, as he gave to all who were friendly to him, on which was written: "Please accept this as a present from B. SOOR, and may you always think of me." After a pleasant chat, SOOR said: "Will you go and see my house." Our reporter followed him and was taken to the scaffold. SOOR looked upon the latter without emotion and unfeelingly talked about its efficiency. With a warm shake of the hand the reporter and the prisoner parted. SOOR is slenderly built, weighs about 120 pounds, has black hair, small grey eyes, with sharp nose and protruding jaws.

On Monday morning SOOR wrote a letter in German, which he sealed in two envelopes and gave to Constable MAESH, exacting a pledge from the latter to hold it for ten days, and if his wife did not come, to give it to G. JACOBSON, of Norwalk, with instructions to open and publish the same. It is not believed that the mysterious letter contains a confession, but is exciting considerable interest. Last night the prisoner was restless, sitting up most of the time with the guard. At 11 he was in distress, smiting his breast, exclaiming, "Oh, my God! am innocent!" He wanted to see his wife and children. Shortly after 1 o'clock he said, "I will sleep no more till I sleep in my coffin. At 2 o'clock he laid down and slept 20 minutes; at 3 felt very bad, and fainted at 3¼. Then slept five minutes, groaning distressingly. He finally rose, washed himself, and said he wished the job was done. At 5 he commenced wandering around the cell, saying: "I have nine hours more to live, then I go to Heaven, or Buffalo, I guess to Heaven. I must go and see my horse without a saddle." Between 7 and 8 o'clock he was shaved, dressed, and ate a little breakfast. Friends called to see him, and he ascended the scaffold with them, laughed, and said he was ready for business.

THE SCAFFOLD.

This being the first execution which has occurred in this county since its organization, a new scaffold was erected in the jail-yard for the occasion. Being completed, it was erected within the jail yesterday; its position being in the north-east corner, in the passage-way, opposite to that fronting SOOR's cell, which was on the south side of the jail. While this hideous instrument of death was being adjusted, its intended victim looked upon it with the coolness of an uninterested spectator, and would even smile and make humorous comments upon its various parts. When talking about the size of the drop and the distance of the fall, he remarked with a shrug of the shoulder peculiar to himself, "I reckon I can stand it." The cross-timber to which the rope was attached was twenty feet from the ground, and the platform containing the drop was of sufficient height from the brick floor below to allow the victim a fall of over six feet. During the forenoon several beautiful bouquets were presented, which he arranged on the scaffold. The bringing in of the coffin at 10 o'clock was the heaviest stroke and the poor wretch fairly broke down. Getting his Hebrew Bible he kneeled by the coffin, first at the head, and then at the foot, and bowed his head in silent prayer.

After leaving the coffin he almost fainted, but soon recovered. At 12¼ he was cheerful again and with a smile remarked that there was but a brief time remaining. On the arrival of Rev. Mr. MAYER, a Jewish Rabbi from Cleveland, he sent two dispatches, asking the Governor to grant a respite in the name of God and justice, but as every legal recourse by law must take its course. After the dispatch was received from the Governor, the prisoner wrote a letter to his wife telling his fate, and bidding her and his two little children a farewell forever.

THE FINAL SCENE.

As the hour for the execution approached, the streets around the jail were packed with a motley crowd, and when the time arrived their voices could be heard in jail. Until the moment arrived for the condemned man to ascend the scaffold SOOR was conversing soberly with friends. At length Sheriff COLE informed him that the final moment had come, when the prisoner readily proceeded up the corridor by which steps to the gallows were approached. Followed by the Sheriff, Rabbi MAYER and Col. H. KELLOGG as assistants, with elastic step the prisoner mounted the platform. When all were on the Mayor said, "The last words of the prisoner are, that he is innocent." SOOR looked upon the spectators, and, with an unshaken voice, said, "The last words of BENNETT SOOR are, I am an innocent man." Rabbi MAYER bade him farewell, and turned toward the crowd and with tremulous emotion uttered something to himself with considerable excitement. SOOR said in a loud tone, "I have not had an honest trial and have not had my witnesses. God knows that I am accused to be here sentenced by all my friends." The work of pinioning his legs and arms with a small cord was commenced by the Sheriff, when SOOR seized the latter's hand and each kissed the other. SOOR said good by to friends in the crowd below, and the latter said loudly in return, God bless you SOOR, after kissing Col. KELLOGG and one or two others who stood by, stood erect, and with a sublime countenance looked upon the work of binding his limbs, yielding the latter whenever necessary to make the ropes secure. When the numerous ropes were adjusted and his arms were securely fastened behind him, he jokingly said, "Many ropes—they make me dead sleepy." As the cap was being drawn over his head he told the Sheriff to give his respects to his family. On being asked if he had any more to say, he again affirmed his innocence. After the cap was tied he said: "God bless you all! good bye!" and in one minute after the Sheriff sprung the drop, and SOOR was with his Maker. At the close of fifteen minutes the pulse ceased, and in twenty-five minutes after the fall, the last physicians, Drs. READ and FOSS, pronounced the body dead. Being cut down, an unsuccessful attempt was made to resuscitate it by a galvanic battery. It was then coffined and buried in Wevalk Cemetery. Fearing that there would be ruined by the coming then pursued, the Cincinnati Club made overtures to the Cricket Club, which were accepted, and the Cincinnati Club became sole proprietors of the Union Grounds, assuming the indebtedness and giving to the Cricket Club the privilege of playing on the grounds one day in each week.

In November, 1868, after assuming the liabilities of the Union Grounds, the Cincinnati Base-ball Club was in debt in the sum of $9,000, a portion of which consisted of notes in bank, given to pay for the building of the Grand Duchess, &c. The Club felt that it was its duty to pay off a note of $5,000 upon which the directors of the Cincinnati Base-ball Club, and of the Union Cricket Club, who had kindly indorsed it, were held personally responsible. At a meeting of the Club a committee was appointed to solicit subscriptions, and they were authorized to dispose of $5,000 worth of stock. They succeeded in selling only about $3,000 of stock, that amount was used to pay the liabilities of the Club and the salaries of players which had fallen due.

In 1869, at the beginning of the season, the Club were indebted for the Union Grounds in the sum of $6,000, and for additions to that it had contracted for a professional nine, at a cost of about $6,000, for the ensuing season. All this accrued before the 15th day of November, 1869, and in addition there was the rent of the Union Grounds. So that on March 3, 1869, the liabilities of the Club amounted to between $15,000 and $16,000, all of which had to be paid before Nov. 15, of that year.

The Club started on an Eastern trip. The managers were sanguine that it could be made a success. A subscription was started and about $500 raised for the purpose of defraying expenses. The members of the nine were given such money as they needed, and they started on their trip, the President having about $260 and his tickets in his pocket. When they reached New-York the funds were entirely exhausted, but the trip proved to be a success, and they returned to Cincinnati having netted about $1,700. This sum was afterward increased, by receipts on the Union Grounds, to $2,200.

Various other trips were taken during the year, to one of which to Chicago and Milwaukee, realized $600; one to California, in the neighborhood of $1,000; and games were played, at which there was a very large attendance, at the Union Grounds. At the close of the season, after the nine were paid off, an indebtedness of about $1,900 remained, out of the $15,000 or $16,000 of debt due at the opening of the season; consequently they have really cleared off during the year a debt of over $14,000.

The skating season was a failure and money had to be raised in some way. A gentleman of the Club advanced $1,400, $900 of which was appropriated to paying the salaries of the players, and $500 for the rent of the Union Grounds. When the New-Orleans trip was projected this same gentleman furnished part of the funds. This trip was not a success, and before the Club started on their Eastern trip their indebtedness to this gentleman amounted to in the neighborhood of $2,000. That trip was a success, the amount realized being $6,863 05, the expenses $2,863 05, leaving a net profit of $7,102 72.

The accounts of the President, which were now submitted, showed a balance in his hands of $2,023 67. In addition to this the Treasurer had in his hands the sum of $1,500 in cash and $500 in United States bonds.

The President was gratified to be able to make such a showing as this. After passing through a hard and severe struggle the Club now found itself in a condition better in all respects, financially and otherwise, than any other club in the country. There had been complaints made by many members of the Club that the financial condition was not made known to them. The reason that this was not done was because the officers did not deem it expedient that the financial condition of the Club should be known to the public, or perhaps to many of its members. For that reason the Executive Board and the executive officers were at pains to keep to themselves the finances of the Club until it could be improved up to its present standard, which they were confident could be attained. For that reason the finances of the Club were kept quiet as they had been.

Mr. CHAMPION then read the resignation of THOS. G. SMITH as Director, and P. JOYCE as Secretary of the Cincinnati Base-ball Club. The reading of the resignation was received with profound silence.

The Chairman having announced that the resignations were before the house, and that the question was on their acceptance, Mr. WULSIN arose and offered the following as a substitute:

Whereas, Messrs. A. B. CHAMPION, J. P. JOYCE and THOS. G. SMITH have tendered their resignations respectively as President and Secretary of the Club; and

Whereas, Through their untiring exertion, signal ability, nerve and perseverance they have been the main instruments in raising our Club to its present prominent position, and to a condition of financial strength and safety rarely enjoyed by like organizations; and

Whereas, Their management has reflected credit upon themselves and the Club,

Resolved, That we earnestly request these gentlemen to withdraw their resignations, and continue the Club in the enjoyment of their invaluable services till the end of their present terms.

The resolutions were adopted amid a perfect storm of applause.

Messrs. CHAMPION, J

at the clock at Fifth-avenue, and was then on the same side of the street with Mr. NATHAN'S residence.

Q.—Did you hear any alarm that morning before the time you saw these young men? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did a whistle, or anything of that sort, attract your attention? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Do you remember seeing a man named PATRICK GOYER, a porter in the Fifth-avenue Hotel? A.—Yes; I saw him sweeping off the walk.

Q.—Before you saw these men on the stoop? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Did he make any alarm of any kind? A.—He was calling me when I heard the alarm.

Q.—Then he gave the first alarm? A.—No, Sir; the first alarm I heard was from these young men.

Q.—You recognize one of the young men who was standing on the stoop that night as Mr. FREDERICK NATHAN, now in Court. A.—Yes.

Q.—Who was the other? A.—WASHINGTON NATHAN.

Q.—Were the inmates of the house you saw that morning besides the two sons? A.—I don't think I saw any one except the woman in the basement.

Q.—At what hour previous to this alarm, at a quarter to six, had you examined that house? A.—Half-past four o'clock.

Q.—Did you examine the door or try it? A.—When I went past the door at a quarter to six I examined it; that was about four or five minutes before the alarm; I had just passed the house, and was going toward Sixth-avenue when I heard the alarm.

Q.—So that when you passed the house on your way to the Sixth-avenue you noticed the front door, and you swear it was closed? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—At half-past four o'clock you tested the door by taking hold of the handle? A.—Yes.

Q.—At any time during the night did you examine the front of the house so as to ascertain whether the front door was open or not? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was the condition of the second story—the apartments in which the murder occurred? A.—I did not take any notice of them until I went there in the morning. The two windows had screens, one of which was raised twelve or fourteen inches; they had ordinary fly-screens.

Q.—Were the windows open? A.—Yes.

Q.—Were any of the shutters closed? A.—No, Sir; I was the first person that entered the house that morning except the inmates.

Q.—Was there any light burning in the room in which Mr. NATHAN slept, or in the adjacent room? A.—There was a light burning in the room in which he slept, and in the other room the door was kept open, and the light was in the window, and turned in edward the wall without being concealed from the street.

Q.—From the position of the light toward the window, if it were burning all night, could it be seen from the street? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—At any time during the night had you seen that light? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did you look to see whether it was burning or not? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Walking at the opposite side of the street would you have been likely to see a light, if it burned there? A.—Yes.

Q.—When you entered the room did you notice what doors were open leading to the room? A.—Yes.

Q.—What were they? A.—There was the door leading from the front room into the library; Mr. NATHAN was lying with the principal part of his body on this front room; the door leading into the hall was open also; I opened one of the back room doors myself.

Q.—How many doors were there between Mr. NATHAN'S room and the house-keeper's? A.—I think there were two; one of these rooms was open, but the door leading from Mr. NATHAN'S room to the passage was closed; that was the one I opened.

Q.—At that time who were present in the room? A.—I think Mr. FREDERICK NATHAN was the only one present.

Q.—You know where the other inmates of the house were? A.—The other brother, I think, was in the hall.

Q.—How long were you in there before the other officer came? A.—Fifteen minutes.

Q.—Did this porter from the hotel go with you? A.—I don't recollect whether he was there or not; I don't think I requested him to go with me; there were a lot of men came in the front room, but how far they came into the house I can't say.

Q.—When you first entered the house you saw this instrument they call a dog? A.—I don't know whether it was when I first passed the hall or when I returned; my attention was called to it by Officer KELLY. (The "dog" found in the residence of Mr. NATHAN was here produced and identified by the witness.)

Q.—What portions of it were stained with blood? A.—One of the ends of it.

Q.—Any portions of this round part covered with blood? A.—In the middle of it there were some spatters on it, I do not see.

Q.—How long were you on that post? A.—Two or three months, off and on.

Q.—Have you any knowledge of the occupants of that house for the past months? A.—Nothing more than that I saw an old gentleman standing on the stoop at different times.

Q.—Were you aware that Mr. NATHAN was in the country? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Was your attention ever directed to that house as a house that a family had vacated for a time? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Then you only gave that house the attention you usually give to all houses? A.—Yes, Sir; I examined the door at a quarter before six o'clock when I went and it was closed.

Q.—Between half past four o'clock and a quarter to six was there any difference in the position of that door? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Had you seen carriages standing on the street at any time that night? A.—I saw a carriage standing at No. 103 Twenty-second-street.

Q.—Do you know what is the character of that house? A.—It is a house of prostitution.

Q.—During the time you were on your post that night did you meet any person on the street whose appearance or actions attracted your attention? A.—No, Sir.

Mr. RUSSELL.—How many nights before this fatality? A.—For three months, nine nights, four nights, but for a period of three months I was on it regularly.

Q.—How long would it take you to walk your post? A.—When trying the doors it would take me three hours.

Q.—When you passed the house at a quarter to six, the door was closed? A.—Yes.

Q.—When after was your attention called to the fact whether it was opened or closed? A.—I heard somebody speak about the door being open.

Q.—When was that? A.—Some time during the morning.

Q.—Who made that statement to you? A.—I cannot recollect, but I think it was one of Mr. NATHAN; he said, when he came down one of the doors was open; I then told him it was opened when I passed back; he said he could not swear whether the door was closed or not.

Q.—Did the conversation then stop? A.—I don't think there was any more said about it.

Q.—Did it not attract your attention as being somewhat peculiar when he said he found that door open when you found it was closed? A.—The door was closed and I cannot be mistaken on that; it was broad daylight; I had gone to the other side of the street between half past four and a quarter to six o'clock, but I can't tell the hour.

Q.—Was there any portion of the shutter between the light and this front room? A.—There was no shutter closed.

Q.—When you and the Mr. NATHANS entered the room was there anybody with you? A.—I don't recollect; I don't know that there was any one else entered the room until the officer came.

Q.—You had not brought any one else besides the officer and these young men there? A.—No Sir; I could not tell when Capt. BURDEN came.

Q.—What was the position of the body? A.—He was lying on his back; the chair was turned up.

Q.—Did you notice whether there was any blood on that chair or not? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did you notice how the safe was? A.—I did not notice whether the key was in it or not.

Q.—Did you see the drawer of the safe? A.—I saw it on the bed.

FOREMAN.—After entering from the hall you saw immediately the body? A.—Yes, I saw it as quick as I went in; I looked over the bed and saw the body lying beyond.

Mr. FELLOWS.—When you picked up this "dog," did you notice if there were any drops of blood on the marble tiling? A.—I did not take notice.

Q.—Did you observe whether the blood upon the end of the "dog" was dried? A.—It was.

Q.—Did you notice any impression of bloody footsteps in the hall or on the stairs? A.—I saw them on the stairway and on the hallway going into the room; these were Mr. NATHAN'S tracks.

Q.—Did you notice whether these footsteps were ascending or descending? A.—I observed none ascending.

Q.—Did you at any time observe on the stairs ascending bloody footsteps? A.—No. I saw them on the hallway and on the stairway.

Q.—At any time did you see marks of blood going from the foot of the stairs to the front door? A.—Yes.

Q.—Which way? A.—Toward the door and none in the other direction.

Q.—Did you see any blood upon the door handle or nob? A.—No, Sir, these footprints were the only marks of blood.

Q.—When you entered the room did you notice the condition of the bed? Was there any blood upon it? A.—None that I saw; there were some coppers upon it.

Q.—Was there any mark of blood upon the drawer? A.—I did not examine it.

Q.—Did you look round the floor in the direction of the passage leading to the back room where the housekeeper slept, or in the direction of the passage way on the left side which went to the back room, to see if there were any marks of blood?

Q.—Did you see the clothing Mr. NATHAN was supposed to take off the night before? A.—I saw the pantaloons, shirt and vest.

Q.—Did you examine them to see if there was any blood upon them? A.—I saw that afterward but not at that time; they were lying on the chair middle ways in the room against the wall; I saw Mr. FREDERICK NATHAN take up these clothes; I asked him if the gentleman had any watch or pocket-book, and if the pocket-book had any money in it; he took up the waistcoat and found it was gone; I did not see if there was any marks of blood upon it; he took up the pantaloons and had a pocket-book in his hand but I could not say if he took it out of it; I did not see any blood on the pantaloons, but if it was in any considerable quantity I would have noticed it.

Q.—Was the shirt examined by you or him in your presence? A.—I noticed Mr. FREDERICK NATHAN walked across the floor and kicked his foot against the shirt.

Q.—Were there any studs upon it? A.—No.

Q.—Was there any blood on the bosom? A.—None whatever.

Q.—Did you observe whether there was a gold button on the neck of it? A.—Yes, and there were sleeve buttons on the wrists; I think they were fastened as though the hand had been drawn through the sleeves.

Q.—Did you see Mr. NATHAN step on it? A.—No; I saw him kick it.

Q.—You noticed no spots of blood on the carpet of that room except in the neighborhood of the body? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Any blood upon the furniture? A.—No, except some I saw on the wall close to the door.

Q.—Was the blood on one side or both sides? A.—On one side.

Q.—You noticed a chair about the centre of the room? A.—Yes, Sir; next to the table, with the back of the chair facing east, in the direction of the front door.

Q.—Did you notice that chair at the time? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did you notice a pool of blood immediately south of the chair; close to it? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Did you observe any blood upon the hearthstone? A.—I didn't see any.

Q.—Did you observe a chest of carpenter's tools? A.—Only one tool—a saw, a screwdriver, and a hammer.

Q.—Did you examine them? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—How were they lying; in an orderly or disorderly way? A.—Orderly.

Q.—I understood you to say that you found the housekeeper in the basement? A.—Yes, Sir; in the kitchen.

Q.—Did she seem to be aware of any disturbance? A.—Oh, she heard of the excitement; the excitement woke her up, I believe.

Q.—What was she doing when you found her in the kitchen? A.—I didn't take notice.

Q.—When you and the Mr. NATHANS entered the room was there anybody with you? A.—I don't recollect; I don't know that there was any one else entered the room until the officer came.

Q.—You had not brought any one else besides the officer and these young men there? A.—No Sir; I could not tell when Capt. BURDEN came.

Q.—What was the position of the body? A.—He was lying on his back; the chair was turned up.

Q.—Did you notice whether there was any blood on that chair or not? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did you notice how the safe was? A.—I did not notice whether the key was in it or not.

Q.—Did you see the drawer of the safe? A.—I saw it on the bed.

FOREMAN.—After entering from the hall you saw immediately the body? A.—Yes, I saw it as quick as I went in; I looked over the bed and saw the body lying beyond.

Mr. FELLOWS.—When you picked up this "dog," did you notice if there were any drops of blood on the marble tiling? A.—I did not take notice.

Q.—Did you observe whether the blood upon the end of the "dog" was dried? A.—It was.

Q.—Did you notice any impression of bloody footsteps in the hall or on the stairs? A.—I saw them on the stairway and on the hallway going into the room; these were Mr. NATHAN'S tracks.

Q.—Did you notice whether these footsteps were ascending or descending? A.—I observed none ascending.

Q.—Did you at any time observe on the stairs ascending bloody footsteps? A.—No. I saw them on the hallway and on the stairway.

Q.—At any time did you see marks of blood going from the foot of the stairs to the front door? A.—Yes.

Q.—Which way? A.—Toward the door and none in the other direction.

Q.—Did you see any blood upon the door handle or nob? A.—No, Sir, these footprints were the only marks of blood.

Q.—When you entered the room did you notice the condition of the bed? Was there any blood upon it? A.—None that I saw; there were some coppers upon it.

Q.—Was there any mark of blood upon the drawer? A.—I did not examine it.

Q.—Did you look round the floor in the direction of the passage leading to the back room where the housekeeper slept, or in the direction of the passage way on the left side which went to the back room, to see if there were any marks of blood?

Q.—Did you see the clothing Mr. NATHAN was supposed to take off the night before? A.—I saw the pantaloons, shirt and vest.

Q.—Did you examine them to see if there was any blood upon them? A.—I saw that afterward but not at that time; they were lying on the chair middle ways in the room against the wall; I saw Mr. FREDERICK NATHAN take up these clothes; I asked him if the gentleman had any watch or pocket-book, and if the pocket-book had any money in it; he took up the waistcoat and found it was gone; I did not see if there was any marks of blood upon it; he took up the pantaloons and had a pocket-book in his hand but I could not say if he took it out of it; I did not see any blood on the pantaloons, but if it was in any considerable quantity I would have noticed it.

Q.—Was the shirt examined by you or him in your presence? A.—I noticed Mr. FREDERICK NATHAN walked across the floor and kicked his foot against the shirt.

Q.—Were there any studs upon it? A.—No.

Q.—Was there any blood on the bosom? A.—None whatever.

Q.—Did you observe whether there was a gold button on the neck of it? A.—Yes, and there were sleeve buttons on the wrists; I think they were fastened as though the hand had been drawn through the sleeves.

Q.—Did you see Mr. NATHAN step on it? A.—No; I saw him kick it.

Q.—You noticed no spots of blood on the carpet of that room except in the neighborhood of the body? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Any blood upon the furniture? A.—No, except some I saw on the wall close to the door.

Q.—Was the blood on one side or both sides? A.—On one side.

Q.—You noticed a chair about the centre of the room? A.—Yes, Sir; next to the table, with the back of the chair facing east, in the direction of the front door.

Q.—Did you notice that chair at the time? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did you notice a pool of blood immediately south of the chair; close to it? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Did you observe any blood upon the hearthstone? A.—I didn't see any.

Q.—Did you observe a chest of carpenter's tools? A.—Only one tool—a saw, a screwdriver, and a hammer.

Q.—Did you examine them? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—How were they lying; in an orderly or disorderly way? A.—Orderly.

Q.—I understood you to say that you found the housekeeper in the basement? A.—Yes, Sir; in the kitchen.

Q.—Did she seem to be aware of any disturbance? A.—Oh, she heard of the excitement; the excitement woke her up, I believe.

Q.—What was she doing when you found her in the kitchen? A.—I didn't take notice.

Q.—Did she seem to be aware of any disturbance? A.—Oh, she heard of the excitement; the excitement woke her up, I believe.

Q.—What was she doing when you found her in the kitchen? A.—I didn't take notice.

Q.—Did you observe whether there was a gold button on the neck of it? A.—Yes, and there were sleeve buttons on the wrists; I think they were fastened as though the hand had been drawn through the sleeves.

Q.—Did you see Mr. NATHAN step on it? A.—No; I saw him kick it.

Q.—You noticed no spots of blood on the carpet of that room except in the neighborhood of the body? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Any blood upon the furniture? A.—No, except some I saw on the wall close to the door.

Q.—Was the blood on one side or both sides? A.—On one side.

Q.—You noticed a chair about the centre of the room? A.—Yes, Sir; next to the table, with the back of the chair facing east, in the direction of the front door.

Q.—Did you notice that chair at the time? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did you notice a pool of blood immediately south of the chair; close to it? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Did you observe any blood upon the hearthstone? A.—I didn't see any.

Q.—Did you observe a chest of carpenter's tools? A.—Only one tool—a saw, a screwdriver, and a hammer.

Q.—Did you examine them? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—How were they lying; in an orderly or disorderly way? A.—Orderly.

Q.—I understood you to say that you found the housekeeper in the basement? A.—Yes, Sir; in the kitchen.

Q.—Did she seem to be aware of any disturbance? A.—Oh, she heard of the excitement; the excitement woke her up, I believe.

Q.—What was she doing when you found her in the kitchen? A.—I didn't take notice.

Q.—You did not examine the character of the fastenings of those doors? A.—No, Sir; I didn't take no notice of it.

Q.—By Mr. RUSSELL.—Which of the NATHANS was it that you had the conversation with about the doors being open when you went by at a quarter to six? A.—I don't remember; they were both present.

Q.—When you picked up the dog in the hall, did you notice whether there was any blood there in the hall where it lay? A.—I didn't remember whether there was or not.

By the CORONER.—You stated you discovered blood on the front door of the apartment. Will you describe the character of it—its size? A.—Blood about as big around as that, (witness exhibits his arm;) his shirt bosom was bloody in front, and some here on the bottom; there appeared to be a kind of spot of blood on the bottom, and round here on the front.

Q.—Did it look as if he had been leaning over the body? A.—He might have been leaning over, on something or other.

Q.—Did you observe any blood on the shirt of WASHINGTON NATHAN? A.—No, Sir, I didn't see any.

Q.—The last time you passed the door, about how far was you from the door when you heard the alarm? A.—Probably one hundred feet.

By District-Attorney FELLOWS.—Q.—Was the housekeeper in bed when you went in there? A.—No, Sir; she had got up.

Q.—You stated that the excitement woke her? A.—I should judge so; she told me so after ward.

Q.—Only one door was open there—these doors were closed—that excitement was severe that would have alarmed her. A.—She told me that young Mr. NATHAN came down stairs and hollered in the room and woke her up.

Q.—She informed you that the noise she heard in the hall woke her? A.—Either from the hall or the room; I don't know which.

Q.—When you passed the door on your way to the Sixth-avenue you noticed the front door, and you swear it was closed? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—At half-past four o'clock you tested the door by taking hold of the handle? A.—Yes.

Q.—At any time during the night did you examine the front of the house so as to ascertain whether the front door was open or not? A.—Yes.

Q.—How long were you on that post? A.—Two or three months, off and on.

Q.—Have you any knowledge of the occupants of that house for the past months? A.—Nothing more than that I saw an old gentleman standing on the stoop at different times.

Q.—Were you aware that Mr. NATHAN was in the country? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Was your attention ever directed to that house as a house that a family had vacated for a time? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Then you only gave that house the attention you usually give to all houses? A.—Yes, Sir; I examined the door at a quarter before six o'clock when I went and it was closed.

Q.—Between half past four o'clock and a quarter to six was there any difference in the position of that door? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Had you seen carriages standing on the street at any time that night? A.—I saw a carriage standing at No. 103 Twenty-second-street.

Q.—Do you know what is the character of that house? A.—It is a house of prostitution.

Q.—During the time you were on your post that night did you meet any person on the street whose appearance or actions attracted your attention? A.—No, Sir.

Mr. RUSSELL.—How many nights before this fatality? A.—For three months, nine nights, four nights, but for a period of three months I was on it regularly.

Q.—How long would it take you to walk your post? A.—When trying the doors it would take me three hours.

Q.—When you passed the house at a quarter to six, the door was closed? A.—Yes.

Q.—When after was your attention called to the fact whether it was opened or closed? A.—I heard somebody speak about the door being open.

Q.—When was that? A.—Some time during the morning.

Q.—Who made that statement to you? A.—I cannot recollect, but I think it was one of Mr. NATHAN; he said, when he came down one of the doors was open; I then told him it was opened when I passed back; he said he could not swear whether the door was closed or not.

Q.—Did the conversation then stop? A.—I don't think there was any more said about it.

Q.—Did it not attract your attention as being somewhat peculiar when he said he found that door open when you found it was closed? A.—The door was closed and I cannot be mistaken on that; it was broad daylight; I had gone to the other side of the street between half past four and a quarter to six o'clock, but I can't tell the hour.

Q.—Was there any portion of the shutter between the light and this front room? A.—There was no shutter closed.

Q.—When you and the Mr. NATHANS entered the room was there anybody with you? A.—I don't recollect; I don't know that there was any one else entered the room until the officer came.

Q.—You had not brought any one else besides the officer and these young men there? A.—No Sir; I could not tell when Capt. BURDEN came.

Q.—What was the position of the body? A.—He was lying on his back; the chair was turned up.

Q.—Did you notice whether there was any blood on that chair or not? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did you notice how the safe was? A.—I did not notice whether the key was in it or not.

Q.—Did you see the drawer of the safe? A.—I saw it on the bed.

FOREMAN.—After entering from the hall you saw immediately the body? A.—Yes, I saw it as quick as I went in; I looked over the bed and saw the body lying beyond.

Mr. FELLOWS.—When you picked up this "dog," did you notice if there were any drops of blood on the marble tiling? A.—I did not take notice.

Q.—Did you observe whether the blood upon the end of the "dog" was dried? A.—It was.

Q.—Did you notice any impression of bloody footsteps in the hall or on the stairs? A.—I saw them on the stairway and on the hallway going into the room; these were Mr. NATHAN'S tracks.

Q.—Did you notice whether these footsteps were ascending or descending? A.—I observed none ascending.

Q.—Did you at any time observe on the stairs ascending bloody footsteps? A.—No. I saw them on the hallway and on the stairway.

Q.—At any time did you see marks of blood going from the foot of the stairs to the front door? A.—Yes.

Q.—Which way? A.—Toward the door and none in the other direction.

Q.—Did you see any blood upon the door handle or nob? A.—No, Sir, these footprints were the only marks of blood.

Q.—When you entered the room did you notice the condition of the bed? Was there any blood upon it? A.—None that I saw; there were some coppers upon it.

Q.—Was there any mark of blood upon the drawer? A.—I did not examine it.

Q.—Did you look round the floor in the direction of the passage leading to the back room where the housekeeper slept, or in the direction of the passage way on the left side which went to the back room, to see if there were any marks of blood?

Q.—Did you see the clothing Mr. NATHAN was supposed to take off the night before? A.—I saw the pantaloons, shirt and vest.

Q.—Did you examine them to see if there was any blood upon them? A.—I saw that afterward but not at that time; they were lying on the chair middle ways in the room against the wall; I saw Mr. FREDERICK NATHAN take up these clothes; I asked him if the gentleman had any watch or pocket-book, and if the pocket-book had any money in it; he took up the waistcoat and found it was gone; I did not see if there was any marks of blood upon it; he took up the pantaloons and had a pocket-book in his hand but I could not say if he took it out of it; I did not see any blood on the pantaloons, but if it was in any considerable quantity I would have noticed it.

Q.—Was the shirt examined by you or him in your presence? A.—I noticed Mr. FREDERICK NATHAN walked across the floor and kicked his foot against the shirt.

Q.—Were there any studs upon it? A.—No.

Q.—Was there any blood on the bosom? A.—None whatever.

Q.—Did you observe whether there was a gold button on the neck of it? A.—Yes, and there were sleeve buttons on the wrists; I think they were fastened as though the hand had been drawn through the sleeves.

Q.—You did not examine the character of the fastenings of those doors? A.—No, Sir; I didn't take no notice of it.

Q.—By Mr. RUSSELL.—Which of the NATHANS was it that you had the conversation with about the doors being open when you went by at a quarter to six? A.—I don't remember; they were both present.

Q.—When you picked up the dog in the hall, did you notice whether there was any blood there in the hall where it lay? A.—I didn't remember whether there was or not.

By the CORONER.—You stated you discovered blood on the front door of the apartment. Will you describe the character of it—its size? A.—Blood about as big around as that, (witness exhibits his arm;) his shirt bosom was bloody in front, and some here on the bottom; there appeared to be a kind of spot of blood on the bottom, and round here on the front.

Q.—Did it look as if he had been leaning over the body? A.—He might have been leaning over, on something or other.

Q.—Did you observe any blood on the shirt of WASHINGTON NATHAN? A.—No, Sir, I didn't see any.

Q.—The last time you passed the door, about how far was you from the door when you heard the alarm? A.—Probably one hundred feet.

By District-Attorney FELLOWS.—Q.—Was the housekeeper in bed when you went in there? A.—No, Sir; she had got up.

Q.—You stated that the excitement woke her? A.—I should judge so; she told me so after ward.

Q.—Only one door was open there—these doors were closed—that excitement was severe that would have alarmed her. A.—She told me that young Mr. NATHAN came down stairs and hollered in the room and woke her up.

Q.—She informed you that the noise she heard in the hall woke her? A.—Either from the hall or the room; I don't know which.

Q.—When you passed the door on your way to the Sixth-avenue you noticed the front door, and you swear it was closed? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—At half-past four o'clock you tested the door by taking hold of the handle? A.—Yes.

Q.—At any time during the night did you examine the front of the house so as to ascertain whether the front door was open or not? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was the condition of the second story—the apartments in which the murder occurred? A.—I did not take any notice of them until I went there in the morning. The two windows had screens, one of which was raised twelve or fourteen inches; they had ordinary fly-screens.

Q.—Were the windows open? A.—Yes.

Q.—Were any of the shutters closed? A.—No, Sir; I was the first person that entered the house that morning except the inmates.

Q.—Was there any light burning in the room in which Mr. NATHAN slept, or in the adjacent room? A.—There was a light burning in the room in which he slept, and in the other room the door was kept open, and the light was in the window, and turned in edward the wall without being concealed from the street.

Q.—From the position of the light toward the window, if it were burning all night, could it be seen from the street? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—At any time during the night had you seen that light? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did you look to see whether it was burning or not? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Walking at the opposite side of the street would you have been likely to see a light, if it burned there? A.—Yes.

Q.—When you entered the room did you notice what doors were open leading to the room? A.—Yes.

Q.—What were they? A.—There was the door leading from the front room into the library; Mr. NATHAN was lying with the principal part of his body on this front room; the door leading into the hall was open also; I opened one of the back room doors myself.

Q.—How many doors were there between Mr. NATHAN'S room and the house-keeper's? A.—I think there were two; one of these rooms was open, but the door leading from Mr. NATHAN'S room to the passage was closed; that was the one I opened.

Q.—At that time who were present in the room? A.—I think Mr. FREDERICK NATHAN was the only one present.

Q.—You know where the other inmates of the house were? A.—The other brother, I think, was in the hall.

Q.—How long were you in there before the other officer came? A.—Fifteen minutes.

Q.—Did this porter from the hotel go with you? A.—I don't recollect whether he was there or not; I don't think I requested him to go with me; there were a lot of men came in the front room, but how far they came into the house I can't say.

Q.—When you first entered the house you saw this instrument they call a dog? A.—I don't know whether it was when I first passed the hall or when I returned; my attention was called to it by Officer KELLY. (The "dog" found in the residence of Mr. NATHAN was here produced and identified by the witness.)

Q.—What portions of it were stained with blood? A.—One of the ends of it.

Q.—Any portions of this round part covered with blood? A.—In the middle of it there were some spatters on it, I do not see.

Q.—How long were you on that post? A.—Two or three months, off and on.

Q.—Have you any knowledge of the occupants of that house for the past months? A.—Nothing more than that I saw an old gentleman standing on the stoop at different times.

Q.—Were you aware that Mr. NATHAN was in the country? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Was your attention ever directed to that house as a house that a family had vacated for a time? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Then you only gave that house the attention you usually give to all houses? A.—Yes, Sir; I examined the door at a quarter before six o'clock when I went and it was closed.

Q.—Between half past four o'clock and a quarter to six was there any difference in the position of that door? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Had you seen carriages standing on the street at any time that night? A.—I saw a carriage standing at No. 103 Twenty-second-street.

Q.—Do you know what is the character of that house? A.—It is a house of prostitution.

Q.—During the time you were on your post that night did you meet any person on the street whose appearance or actions attracted your attention? A.—No, Sir.

Mr. RUSSELL.—How many nights before this fatality? A.—For three months, nine nights, four nights, but for a period of three months I was on it regularly.

Q.—How long would it take you to walk your post? A.—When trying the doors it would take me three hours.

Q.—When you passed the house at a quarter to six, the door was closed? A.—Yes.

Q.—When after was your attention called to the fact whether it was opened or closed? A.—I heard somebody speak about the door being open.

Q.—When was that? A.—Some time during the morning.

Q.—Who made that statement to you? A.—I cannot recollect, but I think it was one of Mr. NATHAN; he said, when he came down one of the doors was open; I then told him it was opened when I passed back; he said he could not swear whether the door was closed or not.

Q.—Did the conversation then stop? A.—I don't think there was any more said about it.

Q.—Did it not attract your attention as being somewhat peculiar when he said he found that door open when you found it was closed? A.—The door was closed and I cannot be mistaken on that; it was broad daylight; I had gone to the other side of the street between half past four and a quarter to six o'clock, but I can't tell the hour.

Q.—Was there any portion of the shutter between the light and this front room? A.—There was no shutter closed.

Q.—When you and the Mr. NATHANS entered the room was there anybody with you? A.—I don't recollect; I don't know that there was any one else entered the room until the officer came.

Q.—You had not brought any one else besides the officer and these young men there? A.—No Sir; I could not tell when Capt. BURDEN came.

Q.—What was the position of the body? A.—He was lying on his back; the chair was turned up.

Q.—Did you notice whether there was any blood on that chair or not? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did you notice how the safe was? A.—I did not notice whether the key was in it or not.

Q.—Did you see the drawer of the safe? A.—I saw it on the bed.

FOREMAN.—After entering from the hall you saw immediately the body? A.—Yes, I saw it as quick as I went in; I looked over the bed and saw the body lying beyond.

Mr. FELLOWS.—When you picked up this "dog," did you notice if there were any drops of blood on the marble tiling? A.—I did not take notice.

Q.—Did you observe whether the blood upon the end of the "dog" was dried? A.—It was.

Q.—Did you notice any impression of bloody footsteps in the hall or on the stairs? A.—I saw them on the stairway and on the hallway going into the room; these were Mr. NATHAN'S tracks.

Q.—Did you notice whether these footsteps were ascending or descending? A.—I observed none ascending.

Q.—Did you at any time observe on the stairs ascending bloody footsteps? A.—No. I saw them on the hallway and on the stairway.

Q.—At any time did you see marks of blood going from the foot of the stairs to the front door? A.—Yes.

Q.—Which way? A.—Toward the door and none in the other direction.

Q.—Did you see any blood upon the door handle or nob? A.—No, Sir, these footprints were the only marks of blood.

Q.—When you entered the room did you notice the condition of the bed? Was there any blood upon it? A.—None that I saw; there were some coppers upon it.

Q.—Was there any mark of blood upon the drawer? A.—I did not examine it.

Q.—Did you look round the floor in the direction of the passage leading to the back room where the housekeeper slept, or in the direction of the passage way on the left side which went to the back room, to see if there were any marks of blood?

Q.—Did you see the clothing Mr. NATHAN was supposed to take off the night before? A.—I saw the pantaloons, shirt and vest.

Q.—Did you examine them to see if there was any blood upon them? A.—I saw that afterward but not at that time; they were lying on the chair middle ways in the room against the wall; I saw Mr. FREDERICK NATHAN take up these clothes; I asked him if the gentleman had any watch or pocket-book, and if the pocket-book had any money in it; he took up the waistcoat and found it was gone; I did not see if there was any marks of blood upon it; he took up the pantaloons and had a pocket-book in his hand but I could not say if he took it out of it; I did not see any blood on the pantaloons, but if it was in any considerable quantity I would have noticed it.

Q.—Was the shirt examined by you or him in your presence? A.—I noticed Mr. FREDERICK NATHAN walked across the floor and kicked his foot against the shirt.

Q.—Were there any studs upon it? A.—No.

Q.—Was there any blood on the bosom? A.—None whatever.

Q.—Did you observe whether there was a gold button on the neck of it? A.—Yes, and there were sleeve buttons on the wrists; I think they were fastened as though the hand had been drawn through the sleeves.

Q.—You did not examine the character of the fastenings of those doors? A.—No, Sir; I didn't take no notice of it.

Q.—By Mr. RUSSELL.—Which of the NATHANS was it that you had the conversation with about the doors being open when you went by at a quarter to six? A.—I don't remember; they were both present.

Q.—When you picked up the dog in the hall, did you notice whether there was any blood there in the hall where it lay? A.—I didn't remember whether there was or not.

By the CORONER.—You stated you discovered blood on the front door of the apartment. Will you describe the character of it—its size? A.—Blood about as big around as that, (witness exhibits his arm;) his shirt bosom was bloody in front, and some here on the bottom; there appeared to be a kind of spot of blood on the bottom, and round here on the front.

Q.—Did it look as if he had been leaning over the body? A.—He might have been leaning over, on something or other.

Q.—Did you observe any blood on the shirt of WASHINGTON NATHAN? A.—No, Sir, I didn't see any.

Q.—The last time you passed the door, about how far was you from the door when you heard the alarm? A.—Probably one hundred feet.

By District-Attorney FELLOWS.—Q.—Was the housekeeper in bed when you went in there? A.—No, Sir; she had got up.

Q.—You stated that the excitement woke her? A.—I should judge so; she told me so after ward.

Q.—Only one door was open there—these doors were closed—that excitement was severe that would have alarmed her. A.—She told me that young Mr. NATHAN came down stairs and hollered in the room and woke her up.

Q.—She informed you that the noise she heard in the hall woke her? A.—Either from the hall or the room; I don't know which.

Q.—When you passed the door on your way to the Sixth-avenue you noticed the front door, and you swear it was closed? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—At half-past four o'clock you tested the door by taking hold of the handle? A.—Yes.

Q.—At any time during the night did you examine the front of the house so as to ascertain whether the front door was open or not? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was the condition of the second story—the apartments in which the murder occurred? A.—I did not take any notice of them until I went there in the morning. The two windows had screens, one of which was raised twelve or fourteen inches; they had ordinary fly-screens.

Q.—Were the windows open? A.—Yes.

Q.—Were any of the shutters closed? A.—No, Sir; I was the first person that entered the house that morning except the inmates.

Q.—Was there any light burning in the room in which Mr. NATHAN slept, or in the adjacent room? A.—There was a light burning in the room in which he slept, and in the other room the door was kept open, and the light was in the window, and turned in edward the wall without being concealed from the street.

Q.—From the position of the light toward the window, if it were burning all night, could it be seen from the street? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—At any time during the night had you seen that light? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did you look to see whether it was burning or not? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Walking at the opposite side of the street would you have been likely to see a light, if it burned there? A.—Yes.

Q.—When you entered the room did you notice what doors were open leading to the room? A.—Yes.

Q.—What were they? A.—There was the door leading from the front room into the library; Mr. NATHAN was lying with the principal part of his body on this front room; the door leading into the hall was open also; I opened one of the back room doors myself.

Q.—How many doors were there between Mr. NATHAN'S room and the house-keeper's? A.—I think there were two; one of these rooms was open, but the door leading from Mr. NATHAN'S room to the passage was closed; that was the one I opened.

Q.—At that time who were present in the room? A.—I think Mr. FREDERICK NATHAN was the only one present.

Q.—You know where the other inmates of the house were? A.—The other brother, I think, was in the hall.

Q.—How long were you in there before the other officer came? A.—Fifteen minutes.

Q.—Did this porter from the hotel go with you? A.—I don't recollect whether he was there or not; I don't think I requested him to go with me; there were a lot of men came in the front room, but how far they came into the house I can't say.

Q.—When you first entered the house you saw this instrument they call a dog? A.—I don't know whether it was when I first passed the hall or when I returned; my attention was called to it by Officer KELLY. (The "dog" found in the residence of Mr. NATHAN was here produced and identified by the witness.)

Q.—What portions of it were stained with blood? A.—One of the ends of it.

Q.—Any portions of this round part covered with blood? A.—In the middle of it there were some spatters on it, I do not see.

Q.—How long were you on that post? A.—Two or three months, off and on.

Q.—Have you any knowledge of the occupants of that house for the past months? A.—Nothing more than that I saw an old gentleman standing on the stoop at different times.

Q.—Were you aware that Mr. NATHAN was in the country? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Was your attention ever directed to that house as a house that a family had vacated for a time? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Then you only gave that house the attention you usually give to all houses? A.—Yes, Sir; I examined the door at a quarter before six o'clock when I went and it was closed.

Q.—Between half past four o'clock and a quarter to six was there any difference in the position of that door? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Had you seen carriages standing on the street at any time that night? A.—I saw a carriage standing at No. 103 Twenty-second-street.

Q.—Do you know what is the character of that house? A.—It is a house of prostitution.

Q.—During the time you were on your post that night did you meet any person on the street whose appearance or actions attracted your attention? A.—No, Sir.

Mr. RUSSELL.—How many nights before this fatality? A.—For three months, nine nights, four nights, but for a period of three months I was on it regularly.

Q.—How long would it take you to walk your post? A.—When trying the doors it would take me three hours.

Q.—When you passed the house at a quarter to six, the door was closed? A.—Yes.

Q.—When after was your attention called to the fact whether it was opened or closed? A.—I heard somebody speak about the door being open.

Q.—When was that? A.—Some time during the morning.

Q.—Who made that statement to you? A.—I cannot recollect, but I think it was one of Mr. NATHAN; he said, when he came down one of the doors was open; I then told him it was opened when I passed back; he said he could not swear whether the door was closed or not.

Q.—Did the conversation then stop? A.—I don't think there was any more said about it.

Q.—Did it not attract your attention as being somewhat peculiar when he said he found that door open when you found it was closed? A.—The door was closed and I cannot be mistaken on that; it was broad daylight; I had gone to the other side of the street between half past four and a quarter to six o'clock, but I can't tell the hour.

Q.—Was there any portion of the shutter between the light and this front room? A.—There was no shutter closed.

Q.—When you and the Mr. NATHANS entered the room was there anybody with you? A.—I don't recollect; I don't know that there was any one else entered the room until the officer came.

Q.—You had not brought any one else besides the officer and these young men there? A.—No Sir; I could not tell when Capt. BURDEN came.

Q.—What was the position of the body? A.—He was lying on his back; the chair was turned up.

Q.—Did you notice whether there was any blood on that chair or not? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did you notice how the safe was?

THE WATER FRONT.

Meeting of the Pier Commissioners—Repairs and Improvements Proposed—A New Plan Submitted.

At the usual weekly meeting of the Commissioners of Docks, held yesterday afternoon, all the members of the Board were present. A representative of the Long Island Steamboat Company was present, to explain the non-existence of any platform for passengers at Pier No. 24, the Superintendent of the Board having reported said pier as having no platform of the kind required as passenger landings. Some discussion ensued as to the best method of remedying the defect. This was left for Superintendent WESTON to adjust. Mr. HUNT reported from the Executive Committee with reference to the docks used by the street-cleaning contractors. The parties offending having agreed to remove the cause of complaint, the Committee was discharged from the said matter. L. STEVENS' petition to be allowed to build a bulk-head between Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth streets, was denied. The same action was taken with reference to other and similar requests, on the ground that the Board was considering plans for improving the water front of the City. The petition of the Washington Base-Ball Club was denied. ANDREW JOHNSON was allowed to build a sea-foot platform at the foot of Fourteenth-street, North River, at owner's expense, he paying $100 per annum rental; the report of the Auditing Committee for the month of July was made by Mr. WEBB and accepted; the Board has in the Tenth National Bank, some $71 disbursed in July, $62,109 18; several communications were read and referred to the Executive Committee; Gen. MCCLELLAN sent a request to have an office assigned for the draughtsman to the Chief Engineer. A resolution offered by Mr. HENRY, empowering the Superintendent of Supplies to purchase any and all materials necessary with which repairs of all piers where it would not cost more than $5,000, was debated and finally adopted. The following piers will be operated on at once: Bulkhead at Fifteenth-street; piers at Fifty-fifth, One Hundred and Thirty-first and One Hundred and Forty-eighth-streets, East River; Piers Nos. 1 and 2, North River, between Piers Nos. 6 and 7, 11 and 12, 18 and 19, 21 and 22; foot of Corlears-street; Piers Nos. 41 and 42; foot of Cherry-street. The cost of repairs already determined on will amount to $15,947.

Mr. DOW read a long paper on his method for improving the water front of the City. He proposed to build a bulk-head from Jones's Hook and the foot of Broad-street, making two or three large basins, with surrounding warehouses, admitting vessels of all descriptions and sizes to pass through at high tides of stated periods of the day or night. According to this plan the wharves and piers are to be fixed, with stone and cobble-pave with earth, making solid ground for buildings and streets, except at the ship passage-ways, which are to be crossed by bridges of 40 to 75 feet long. One hundred feet is to be the width of the central street, the stores and warehouses on each side being 50 feet deep. Five hundred feet is to be the width of each crossway. The plan seems to have the advantage of being the most expensive of any yet proposed.

After considerable general discussion the plan was ordered on file. The Board then went into executive session.

Proposed New Buildings.

The following is the list of new buildings proposed since the last report and for the week ending Thursday, Aug. 4, 1870:

GRANITE FRONTS.

One, Masonic Hall, north-east corner of Sixth-avenue and Twenty-third-street, 140 by 91.8 feet; five stories; trustees of the Masonic Hall and Asylum Fund, owners.

KNOW-NOTHING FRONTS.

Two first-class dwellings, north side of Fifty-seventh-street, 200 feet east of Fifth-avenue, 25 by 70, basement and four stories; C. KIMBER and J. A. WAKE, owners.

One first-class dwelling, east side of First-avenue, 75 feet south of Thirty-fifth-street, 24 by 50 feet, two stories; JOSEPH SEDGWICK, owner.

One apartment house, Twenty-seventh-street, 75 feet south-east of Second-avenue; front, 24 feet; Broadway, 100 feet; Fifth-avenue, 50 feet; eight stories; PARAN STEVENS, owner.

One store and tenement, No. 199 Orchard-street, 25 by 55 feet, five stories; JOHN SCHLEICH, owner.

One first-class dwelling, 101 and 103 Lexington-street, 50 by 70 feet, five stories; AMOS R. ECO, owner.

BRICK FRONTS.

One second-class dwelling, south side of Thirty-first-street, 190 feet west of Tenth-avenue, 16.8 by 21, three stories; JOHN FORD, owner.

First-class tenement-house, south side of Fifty-fifth-street, 75 feet west of Second-avenue, 25 by 65, four stories; HENRY J. BURCHELL, owner.

One tenement-house, west side of Tenth-avenue, 50 feet south of Fifty-fifth-street, 25 by 50, two stories; CHRISTIAN KUCHLER, owner.

Four stores and tenements, south-west corner of Second-avenue and Fifty-fifth-street, 25 by 55, four stories; HENRY J. BURCHELL, owner.

Two stores and tenements, north-west corner of Third-avenue and One Hundred and Fifty-first-street, 25 by 45, four stories; CHARLES H. REMAK, owner.

Two stores and tenements, north-west corner of One Hundred and Fifty-first-street and Mott-street, 25 by 45, four stories; ADAM HARKMAN, owner.

One store and tenement, north side of Forty-first-street, 250 feet east of Eleventh-avenue, 25 by 50, two stories; PATRICK DOLAN, owner.

One store and tenement, No. 521 Broome-street, 18 by 28, three stories; P. BURKE, owner.

One store and tenement, west side of Eleventh-avenue, 25 feet south of Fifty-second-street, 25 by 75, basement and four stories; ALDRICH DUBA, owner.

One store and tenement, north side of Forty-sixth-street, 275 feet east of Eighth-avenue, 25 by 75, three stories; ROBERT AULD, owner.

One store and tenement, No. 146 East Broadway, 25 by 50, five stories; MATHEW MAWLER, owner.

One factory, No. 542 Sixth-street, 40 by 94, five stories; DANIEL GUGGISBERG, owner.

One stable, north side of Twenty-second-street, 75 by 25, two stories; E. B. WESLEY, owner.

One stable, south side of One Hundred and Fortieth-street, 400 feet west of Eleventh-avenue, 40 by 40, two stories; PRINCE C. PIERCE, owner.

One stable, south side of Fortieth-street, 125 feet west of Tenth-avenue, 50 by 30, two stories; DAVID STEVENSON, owner.

One stable, north side of One Hundred and Sixteenth-street, 175 feet east of Third-avenue, 24 by 20, two stories; J. S. DALY, owner.

One stable, No. 28 Lafayette-place, rear, 35 by 47, two stories; O. R. POTTER, owner.

FRAME BUILDING.

One second-class dwelling, Fort Washington, 60 by 46, three stories; W. H. SMITH, owner.

RECAPITULATION.

Total number buildings	34	Apartment house	1
Granite front	1	Tenement-houses	9
Brown-stone fronts	6	Stores and tenements	14
Brick fronts	26	Stores	1
Frame building	1	Dwellings	11
First-class dwellings	3	Factory	1
Second-class dwellings	2	Stables	5

Unsafe Buildings.

Since the last report, and for the week ending Thursday, Aug. 4, 1870, the following buildings have been reported as unsafe, in the particulars annexed, at the office of JAMES M. MACGREGOR, Superintendent of the Department of Buildings:

Unsafe Generally.—Nos. 427 and 429 West Thirty-fourth-street, THOMAS MOSORLEY, owner; No. 79 West Houston-street, E. A. HAMMOND, owner; Nos. 170 and 172 Forsyth-street, JOHN DICKERSON, owner; No. 11 Whitehall-street, MATTHEW PHILLIPS, owner; No. 230 Hudson-street, (rear,) JOHN DOLAN, owner.

Unsafe Walls.—Nos. 50 and 52 Park-street, front walls, Mrs. WICKHAM, owner; Nos. 322 Grand-street, gable wall, J. W. QUINCY, agent; No. 24 Twenty-eighth-street, north wall; No. 26 Twenty-eighth-street, north wall, J. M. GORMAN, owner; No. 161 Laurens-street, north wall, A. JOURNEAY, owner; No. 207 William-street, E. H. STRANGE, owner.

Unsafe Floors.—No. 73 Goerck-street, floors, beams and ceilings, P. MCGORNICK, owner.

Unsafe Chimneys.—No. 89 Park-street, H. LUDLOW, owner; No. 95 Park-street, HERBERT VALENTINE, owner; No. 97 Park-street, WILLIAM NEALE, owner; No. 109 East Broadway, J. VROOM, owner; Nos. 204 and 244 Grand-street, P. CORNBROOKE, agent; No. 243 and 245½ Grand-street, JOHN CROMWELL, agent; No. 293 Grand-street, J. W. QUINCY, agent; No. 175 Franklin-street, A. ROHNER, lessee.

Music at the Battery.

The Department of Public Parks announce that, if the weather be fine, there will be music by the Central Park Band at the Battery, today, from 6 to 8 o'clock P. M. The following is the programme:

PART I.

1. March, "Wearing of the Green"	Gratulis
2. Overture, "Scotch"	Bishop
3. Galop, "Oxford"	Godfrey
4. Waltz, "Homage"	Kuehner

PART II.

5. Grand Selection, "English Songs"	Boose
6. Polka, "Sisette"	Coote
7. Air, "The Harp that Once"	Moore
8. Waltz, "Songs of Spring"	Kuehner

PART III.

9. March, "Irish Airs"	Gratulis
10. Galop, "Whirlpool"	Parow
11. Scotch Air, "Annie Lyle"
12. March, "Grand Duchess"	G. Wiegand

Popular Airs.

The Greenville Clubbing Affray—Result of the Coroner's Inquest—The Boy Master Committed to the County Jail.

On Wednesday evening, Corner BURNS, of Jersey City, held an inquest in the village of Greenville, on the New-Jersey Central Railroad, upon the body of the boy AUGUSTUS THAU, whose death on Tuesday evening from the effects of injuries received in an altercation with a comrade, was reported in these columns on Wednesday. The inquest, which was not concluded until a late hour on Wednesday night, developed some additional particulars which places the case in a new light. According to the testimony of the witnesses, the circumstances of the affray were as follows: The deceased and his playmate, JOHN BUTLER, (the former aged twelve, and the latter ten years,) were playing ball together on Monday afternoon, when a quarrel grew out of the fact that the ball had been thrown into a pool of mud. THAU, who was the larger of the two boys, struck BUTLER with his fist. The latter ran away, carrying his ball-bat. A short time afterward, having met his mother, he started to walk home with her. They met young THAU, whom Mrs. BUTLER scolded severely for his attack upon her son. While she was speaking to THAU, young BUTLER stepped out from behind her and, walking up to his late assailant, dealt him a blow upon the head with the bat. THAU fell senseless, and was soon afterward carried to his home, where he died, as already reported, from the effects of a fractured skull. The testimony went to show that Mrs. BUTLER, so far from aiding her son in his attack, as had been believed, had done all in her power to prevent a fight between the boys. Young BUTLER's own story agreed with that of the other witnesses, and is in substance identical with the foregoing.

The jury rendered a verdict that the "deceased came to his death from the effects of a blow from a ball-bat, inflicted by JOHN BUTLER." The lad was committed to the County Jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

NAUTICAL NOTES.

A Brilliant Time Anticipated at the Yachting Contest on Monday—Prospects of Another Race Between the Cambria and Dauntless—The Regatta.

The scene in the Lower Bay on Monday next, on the occasion of the great race for the Queen's Cup, will probably be an universally lively one, and will be witnessed with eager interest on the part of the public. The event will be regarded as a very conspicuous one in the annals of American yachting, and will be hailed with delight by the beautiful vessels to repeat its victory, for the present holders of the English cup. Upward of seventy-five beautiful crafts will be present in line at the starting point of the lower extremity of Staten Island, ranging from the large schooners of more than 200 tons, like the Alarm and Fleetwing, to sloops of thirty tons and thereabouts, like the fast-sailing Vesta. Numerous steamers, with chartered excursionists on board, will proceed to the course, and will help to make the nautical spectacle more animated. It is uncertain whether the famed Dauntless will make her appearance among the contesting yachts. Her owner, Vice-Commodore BENNETT, has announced that his chances of winning over the Cambria are very small, unless favored with a stiff wind, and this he hesitates about sailing on that account. Mr. ASHBURY is also doubtful about gaining the Cup with the Cambria for the same reason. The first-named gentleman, it is understood, made a proposition to Commodore ASTOR for another match between their two celebrated yachts, but the latter declined to sail sixty miles to windward and back, which distance was proposed by the challenger. It is not unlikely, however, that another race will be witnessed between the Dauntless and Cambria, before the latter returns to England, which will afford a great considerable enjoyment to those who intend participating in it. The start will be made about the 10th inst. A great deal of uneasiness is now felt in regard to the yacht Sappho, which left Queenstown Harbor on the 5th inst., four days after the departure of the fleet for this port, and should therefore have made the twenty-eighth day of her passage out, but she is likely to be signaled at Sandy Hook at any moment.

JOHN REAL.

The Last Night of his Life—How the Condemned Man Spends His Time—The Last Appeal Unavailing.

Yesterday JOHN REAL made his final preparations for death in expiation for the murder of Officer JOHN SHERIDAN, over two years ago. The family of the prisoner, consisting of his father, mother, brother, sister and some of his personal friends, spent the greater part of the day with their doomed relative. In obedience to the orders of Warden JOHN STACOM, Keeper CUNNINGHAM, the inside clerk and usual custodian of the condemned row of cells, kept his iron gate constantly locked all day yesterday in order that no one should be able to intrude upon the necessary privacy of the condemned. The scene in the lower corridor, yesterday, was a very solemn one. JOHN REAL was apparently the calmest person in the prison. The prisoner was attended by several Catholic priests during the day, who, at times, led the unfortunate man to kneel to God to obtain that forgiveness he had failed to obtain on earth.

The gallows was very rapidly erected in the yard, yesterday morning, and on its completion presented the same appearance as upon previous occasions. The awning and the box for the pulleys and the weight over it, there was also the usual row of seats for the Sheriff's Jury and the members of the Press were there, and there needs to be no further description. Miss FOSTER, the matron of the prison, had the gallows at her very window all day; and each of the women as were so unfortunate as to be committed to her care, yesterday, were obliged to pass under the cabalistic frame on their way to their cells.

In order to prevent any confusion by the appearance of prisoners in the prison yard while the execution is in progress, Justice SHANDLEY had directed the down-town Captains not to bring their prisoners to the Tombs Court until o'clock today, by which time the murderer will have paid the full penalty of his crime.

A reply was received during the day from Gov. HOFFMAN, in response to the last appeal for respite made by the Catholic clergymen, who have interested themselves in the prisoner's fate. The Governor refused, in the most positive language, to interfere any further in the case.

THE SUPREME COURT.

Revision of the Rules—A Convention at Albany.

In accordance with section 13, of the act of the Legislature of 1870, in relation to the Supreme Court, which provides that a convention to revise the rules, to consist of the General Term Justices, the Chief Judges of the Superior Courts of Cities, the Chief Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the City of New-York and of the City Court of Brooklyn, shall be held on the first Wednesday in August, 1870, and every two years thereafter, a Convention met in the Capitol at Albany, on Wednesday last, at which the following Judges were present: First Department, Judge INGRAHAM; Second Department, no representation: Third Department, Judge MILLER, Judge PARKER, Judge POTTER; Fourth Department, Judge MULLIN, Judge JOHNSON, Judge TALCOTT; Chief Judge, BENDIX, of the City Court of Brooklyn, and Chief Judge VERPLANCK, of the Superior Court of Buffalo. The Convention organized by appointing Judge INGRAHAM, President, and Judge VERPLANCK, Secretary. On motion of Judge TALCOTT, it was resolved that it be referred to the Presiding Justices of each department, and to the Chief Judge of the Superior Court of New-York, to revise the present rules of the Supreme Court, and to report at the next meeting of the Convention. Judge TALCOTT moved that the Chief Judges of the local Courts communicate their views in reference to rules specially applicable to their Courts to the said Committee. Agreed to. On motion of Judge MULLIN it was resolved that the Committee on Rules be instructed to report to the Convention; at any adjourned meeting, such amendments of the statutes relating to the practice of their Courts as they shall deem necessary, in order to have a thorough amendment of the rules and practice of the Court. On motion of Judge NELSON it was resolved that when the Convention adjourn, it be to meet at the Capitol in Albany, on the third Tuesday of December next. It was further resolved that the Chairman of the Committee on Rules be authorized to convene the Committee at such times as may be deemed advisable.

Dr. Grindle Again in Trouble—A Suspicious Case.

On Wednesday last the Board of Health received a notice from Dr. HENRY D. GRINDLE that a child had been still-born in his lying-in asylum, at No. 139 West Twenty-sixth-street. As the doctor's business is a very peculiar one, the Board of Health sent the case to Coroner FLYNN for investigation. Dr. SHIRE proceeded to the house and demanded admission, when it was refused, and Dr. GRINDLE assaulted the Deputy Coroner, who called a policeman and gave him into custody, and the prisoner remained in a Police Station all Saturday. Yesterday Coroner FLYNN held an inquest at the house and obtained the testimony of a Mrs. MARY MANN, who had given birth to the child. She stated that she was the wife of WM. H. MANN, a lawyer having an office at No. 343 Pine-street, and that she resided at No. 120 East Sixteenth-street with a Mrs. BROWN, but had removed to Dr. GRINDLE's establishment on the 16th ult. The Coroner also ascertained that nearly two days were occupied in the confinement, and Dr. SHIRE expressed the opinion that Dr. GRINDLE had been guilty of gross negligence. If nothing worse, GRINDLE was held to await the action of the Grand Jury in the sum of $5,000, and he remains in the nominal custody of Messenger HALEY until the bail is forthcoming.

Attempted Wife-Murder in Jersey City.

Yesterday morning AMOS MOORE, a resident of No. 40 Monmouth-street, Jersey City, was arrested on a warrant issued by Justice ALLEN, upon the complaint of a neighbor of the former, who charged him with attempting to murder Mrs. MOORE on Wednesday evening. The testimony laid before Justice ALLEN proves that the ruffian's attack upon his wife, who was suffering from a severe illness, was of the most brutal character. He first knocked her down with his fist—having received some slight provocation—and then avowing his intention to take her life he beat and kicked her, stamped upon her with his heels and lacerated her nose, lips and ears with his teeth.

The cries of the victim brought the neighbors to her rescue, but the fiendish husband escaped arrest. He was apprehended, however, by Constables FARLEY and O'KEEFE, yesterday, and Justice ALLEN, in default of $2,000 bail, committed him to the County Jail for trial.

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES.

Stealing and Dishonoring of Stolen Checks—Violation of Health Ordinances—Sudden Death—Police Court Cases.

MICHAEL BOYD, porter for Messrs. PATON & Co., at No. 341 Broadway, was arrested, yesterday, by Detective FIELD, of the Fifth Ward, and arraigned before Justice SHANDLEY, at the Tombs, on a charge of larceny, in his said capacity, of a lot of "Dees Marks," valued at $137.

The prisoner confessed the fact, and stated that he had sold the property to JULIUS METZLER for $70, the latter knowing it to be stolen property, which he persuaded B. JELLY that it was offered at his pawn-shop, No. 46 East Houston-street. The Magistrate held both of the prisoners for examination on the complaint of Messrs. PATON & CO., the senior member of the despoiled firm.

JOHN F. SCOTT, editor of the paper Contest, was arrested yesterday on the complaint of Lieut. KEYD REID, Deputy Health Officer of the Fourth, on a charge of violating Section 81 of the Ordinances in removing his vessel from the Quarantine to the Battery, without permission, and after he had been ordered to remain for five days longer. The offense was committed on the 18th of July, and the vessel came from Rio Janeiro, there being considerable danger of infection. When the defendant was arraigned before Justice SHANDLEY he was required to find $1,000 bail to await trial at the General Sessions.

The following sudden deaths occurred yesterday: LOUIS BERGMAN, at No. 18 West Forty-fifth-street; HANNAH JACKSON, at 28 Broadway; HUGH DUGAN, at No. 25 Second-avenue; PETER ZAUNER, at One Hundred and Forty-second-street, near Eighth-avenue; GEORGE CONKRIGHT, at No. 206 North Fifth-street; LEHMANN ——, a native of Germany, aged forty-two years, was held for examination by Justice SCOTT, at the Essex Market Police Court, yesterday, to answer a charge of having stolen twelve yards of velvet, valued at about $70, from the factory of Messrs. ——, where he was employed. The defendant said he was not guilty of justification, that he had a claim against his employers.

ELIAS MEYERS, who was employed by Messrs. JAMES FAGAN & Co., steam-packing box manufacturers, at Nos. 285 and 287 Sixth-street, as clerk, to collect orders and to count money, was held by Justice SCOTT, at the Essex Market Police Court, yesterday, under $500, to answer a charge of having embezzled the sum of $100 belonging to his employers.

GEORGE EIDEL, a native of Germany, aged forty-nine years, was held by Justice SCOTT, at the Essex Market Police Court, yesterday, under $500 bail, to answer a charge of having stabbed JACOB SCHNEIDER, residing at No. 264 East Houston-street, in the breast, with a carving-knife, on the 16th inst.

WM. MULLADY, a printer, aged seventeen years, was held by Civil Justice FOWLER, of the Third Judicial District, to await the action of the Grand Jury, in default of $1,000 bail, in the Jefferson Market Police Court, yesterday, under $2,000 bail, to be tried at the Court of General Sessions for felonious assault and battery. He was charged with having stabbed JOHN WRAY, living at No. 276 Bowery, three times on the head on the 23d ult.

A fire was discovered shortly after morning in the basement of the iron-foundry and frame buildings of VAN TASSEL & CO., Nos. 622, 624 and 626 West Thirty-third-street. A damage amounting to $1,000 was done, which is covered by a policy for $5,000 in the Columbia Insurance Company.

AT 3:45 P. M., yesterday, a fire broke out in the shed in Eighty-first-street, near Third-avenue, occupied by WILLIAM FISCHER, for the storage of lumber, which, together with a two-story and attic frame house adjoining, occupied by CHRISTIAN KERES, was totally destroyed. The loss of each party was about $1,000. The flames were fully inserted in the Germania. Both buildings were owned by THOMAS FERRIS, and were valued at $1,500.

JAMES MCMANUS, of No. 166 Chrystie-street, at an early hour yesterday morning, got into a Third-avenue car at Park-row and Ann-street, to go home, but, falling asleep, and drunk, awoke on the car finally trenched Eighty-fourth-street, leaving the car at that point, he was followed and assaulted by man who had also been in the car, and who, after inflicting three severe scalp wounds upon him, fled before he could be arrested. The wounded man was cared for by the Police.

JAMES BOATMAN was found in Mulberry-street, yesterday morning, with a severe one on the head which he had received at the hands of some unknown person. He was taken to his home by the Police.

A quarrel occurred at an early hour, yesterday, at the corner of New-Chambers and Greenwich streets, during which one HENRY F. JOHNSON received a severe cut over the right temple at the hands of MICHAEL GRIFFIN, who escaped before the arrival of the Police.

While some men were at work, yesterday, in the sewer, Seventy-fifth-street and Tenth avenue, a derrick fell, breaking the leg of THOMAS HEALEY and injuring JOHN REYNOLDS and WM. MCCANN severely on the head. They were taken to St. Luke's Hospital.

Chess in Detroit—An Interesting Game.

The subjoined game was played recently by Mr. MAX JUDD, of Detroit, and Mr. HASKEL D. SMITH, of Jackson, Mich.:

LOPEZ GAMBIT.

MAX JUDD. White.	H. D. SMITH. Black.
1. P to K 4.	P to K 4.
2. P to B 4.	P to B 4.
3. Q to K 2.	P to Q 3.
4. P to K B 4.	P takes P.
5. K Kt to B 3.	B to K Kt 5.
6. P to Q B 3.	Q Kt to to Q 2.
7. P to Q 4.	B to Q Kt 3.
8. Q Kt to K 5.	Q to K 2.
9. Castles.	Castles Q R.
10. P to Q R 4.	P to Q R 4.
11. P to Q Kt 4.	P takes P.
12. P to Q R 5.	B to R 2.
13. P to R 6.	P to Q Kt 4.
14. B to Q 5.	Kt to Q Kt 3.
15. B to Q B 6.	B to R 3.
16. Q takes Q Kt P.	Q to K 3.
17. P takes P.	K Kt to K 2.
18. B takes B ch.	R takes B.
19. Q Kt to Q 2.	P to Q B 3.
20. K R to Q B.	Q R to B 2.
21. Q to Q 3.	P to K Kt 4.
22. P takes P.	P to B 5.
23. R to K Kt.	P to K 6.
24. P to K 5.	P takes P.
25. Q Kt to Q 4.	Q to Kt 3.
26. P takes P.	Kt at K 2 to Q 4 (a)
27. Kt to Q 6 ch	K to Kt.
28. Q takes Q.	B P takes Q.
29. B to Q B 3.	P to Q 3.
30. K to Q B.	Kt takes Kt.
31. R takes K	B takes B ch.
32. R takes B.	K to B 2.
33. R takes P.	Kt takes P.
34. R to Q 6.	R takes R.
35. P takes R.	R to Q.
36. P to Q 7.	R to Q P.
37. Kt to B 7.	R to K B.
38. P to Q 7.	Kt to B 3.
39. P to Q 8 Queens.	Kt takes Q.
40. Kt takes Kt.	Black resigned.

(a) If P to K R 3, white checks with Kt and exchanges Queens.

The Reward of Crime—Severe Sentence in the Court of General Sessions.

In the Court of General Sessions, yesterday, Judge BEDFORD presiding, GEORGE MCDOUGAL was convicted of petit larceny from the person, and sentenced to the State Prison for five years.

JAMES MURTHA, alias James Kane, pleaded guilty to burglary in the third degree, and was sentenced to the State Prison for four years and six months.

JOHN SHERIDAN pleaded guilty to petit larceny from the person, and was sentenced to the State Prison for three years.

ROBERT REILLY pleaded guilty to an attempt to commit grand larceny, and was sentenced to the State Prison for two years and six months.

THOS. MCLOUGHLIN pleaded guilty to burglary in the third degree, and was sentenced to the Penitentiary for three years.

JAMES G. PEICE pleaded guilty to an attempt to commit burglary in the third degree, and was sentenced to the State Prison for two years and six months.

The Steam-boat Inspection Service.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I noticed your editorial article in today's paper under the head of "Steam-boat and Railroad Disasters." Are you not a little harsh in condemning the entire "steam-boat inspection service" from the fact that explosions and disasters occur on the Mississippi River?

When Western steam-boat owners adopt the style of machinery in use here (and there is no objection to it except its cost) steam-boat traveling will be as safe in all parts of the country as it is here. Statistics show that more than 100,000,000 passengers were carried by steam vessels during the year 1869 on the waters of the Atlantic coast, this side of the capes of Virginia, without the loss of a single passenger from any defect of hull or machinery. And if you will compare the present statistics with those previous to the passage of the Inspection law I think you will admit that steam-boat inspection has some "conceivable efficiency."

When Western steam-boat owners use larger cylinders, smaller wheels and a lower pressure of steam they will study their own interests and the greater security of the traveling public.

ENGINEER.

Meeting of the Board of Aldermen.

The Board of Aldermen met yesterday afternoon, Alderman THOMAS COMLEY, President, in the chair. There were present Aldermen Irving, Jerome, McKeever, O'Neil, Diamond, Mitchell, Sittenting, Welsh, Plunkitt, Reilly and Weltman. A large number of resolutions relating to the paving and sewering of streets were laid over. A resolution was read authorizing the Metropolitan Fire Extinguishing Company to lay pipes and tubes through every street, pier and alley in the City, and on motion, was referred to a Select Committee, the President appointing Aldermen REILLY, WOLTMAN and IRVING as members of such Committee. A resolution was also read and concurred in, relating to the death of Assistant Alderman HENRY ECCLES, of the Ninth District, and eulogizing his character as a man and a faithful and efficient public officer, after which the Board adjourned until Thursday, the 11th inst.

A resolution was read and laid over, providing for the rescinding of a resolution passed some time since, authorizing those in charge of the Croton Aqueduct to put up gates and fences and directing that the Commissioners of Parks take charge of the City property.

BASE-BALL.

Union vs. Atlantic—Game Postponed.

The game announced to be played between the Union and Atlantic Clubs at Brooklyn, yesterday, did not take place, owing to the rain. These clubs will not now play together until they meet in the series of grand matches for the championship. All previous skirmishes have been but mere "social" or practice games.

Union vs. Rockford—Contest Today.

These clubs will play a game together at Trenton, today, on which occasion a fine contest may be anticipated. Trains will leave for the ground at 2 P. M. and 7½ P. M.

Athletic vs. Forest City, of Rockford.

The Athletics, after defeating the Cincinnati and Chicago nines, were yesterday defeated by the Forest Citizens of Rockford, a result rather of the folly of going into a match with too much confidence of winning. The Athletics thought they had a "soft thing" after beating the easy defeat of the same nine by the Mutuals and Harvards.

The Grand Match on Saturday.

The grand match between picked nines of New-York and Brooklyn, arranged for the benefit of the family of the late Mr. PECOUR, promises to be a very fine contest. The two cities will be represented by associate players, and after the ball match there is to be a grand match at Le Compte's Hotel, Fort Hamilton. Commodore KANE, owner of the Dauntless are to be guests of Mr. CAMERON on the occasion. The match takes place on Saturday, at 3 P. M., on the Union Grounds.

Lacrosse.

The game to be played on the Union Grounds, Saturday, at the Pecot benefit, will prove very interesting and exciting. It will be Brooklyn vs. New-York—the white caps representing Brooklyn and the reds New-York. The first twelve who are to do battle for the Club against the crack organizations of the Dominion will be chosen from those playing of this day's game. The Club leaves for Montreal on the 18th inst. On Saturday they will throw their new Club flag (recently presented by a prominent banker) to the winds for the first time. We understand Mr. ASHBURY, of yacht fame, will honor the occasion by hoisting the flag. He will then also be installed as Patron of the national game of the United States and Canadas.

Confidence Operators Arrested.

GEORGE BAKER and MICHAEL WELSH were arrested in Jersey City, last evening, on a charge of having attempted to defraud an immigrant, LOUIS SCHAEFER by name, out of $200. SCHAEFER was about to sail for Europe, and was on his way to the vessel when WELSH introduced himself as a fellow-countryman. They had not but a few minutes together when BAKER stepped up and presented to WELSH a bill, amounting to $200. WELSH had no ready cash with him; would SCHAEFER cash a draft on London? SCHAEFER was in the act of speaking, when Detective STRATFORD, who had watched the proceeding, took the two operators into custody. SCHAEFER could not stay to press the charge, and they were discharged. They were immediately rearrested on suspicion of having some months ago defrauded an immigrant on his way to California, and are held for examination.

Defrauding the Revenue by Disfiguring Stamps.

A distiller in Hoboken named MCGINNESS was arrested by United States Detective MCDOUGH on a charge of attempting to defraud the revenue by disfiguring the gauger's stamps on his liquor-barrels. Commissioner MERSHEAD, of Jersey City, held him to answer in $5,000 bail. The detective had discovered two barrels of whisky, the stamps upon which had been tampered with, in a saloon on the Paterson Plank-road, kept by one LOUIS GUILLAUD. Upon inquiring he was informed that they had been purchased from the accused. On searching his establishment a number of barrels were discovered upon which the gauger marks had been disfigured.

A New Railroad in New-Jersey.

The organization of the Longwood Valley Railroad Company was completed on Tuesday, Aug. 2, at a meeting of the directors held at Dover, N. J. The following are the officers elect: President, CHARLES MCFARLAN, Dover; Treasurer, JOHN D. CHAMPLIN, JR., New-York; Secretary and Attorney, J. M. REIGHBOUR, Dover; Executive Committee, CHARLES MCFARLAN, J. D. CHAMPLIN, M. G. MOSES. The survey will begin next week, under direction of EDWARD CAMPFIELD, Chief Engineer. The line runs from a point on the New-York State line near Stirling, to a point on the Morris and Essex Railroad, a short distance west of Dover.

LAW REPORTS.

COURT CALENDAR—THIS DAY.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.
Held by Bedford, J.

No.		No.
1	The People vs. Patrick Kearney; robbery.	9	The People vs. Simon Bernard; grand larceny.
2	The People vs. John Anderson; robbery.	10	The People vs. James Conway, Michael Ward, and others; grand larceny.
3	The People vs. Frederick Segner; felonious assault and battery.	11	The People vs. William Harney; larceny from the person.
4	The People vs. John O'Brien; felonious assault and battery.	12	The People vs. Louis Best; larceny from the person.
5	The People vs. Edward Cooper; obtaining goods by false pretenses.	13	The People vs. Paul Kelly; rape.
6	The People vs. Joseph Gregory; grand larceny.	14	The People vs. Adam Lenz; rape.
7	The People vs. John Burke; grand larceny.	15	The People vs. Daniel McGrath, Thomas McGrath and William Brown; robbery.

DECISIONS.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM—AUG. 4.

By Judge Freedman.

Fowler vs. Brownfield; motion denied with $10 costs, and temporary injunction dissolved.

THE WAR OF THE BILL-POSTERS.

Amos F. Eno vs. Thomas Kane.—In this case the plaintiff asked for relief by way of injunction against the defendant, restraining him from trespassing on certain bill-posting devices to which he (plaintiff) claimed an exclusive right. The injunction had been granted by Judge FREEDMAN, covering nineteen different premises described in plaintiff's complaint, and denied as to three, because the license was revocable at will, and had been revoked; as to one because there was no proof of authority in the clerk who gave the permission; as to one because there was no proof of authority in the lessee, and as to another for the reason that no such fence as that described in the complaint existed.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS.

Sales at the Stock Exchange—Aug. 4.

FIRST BOARD—10½ A. M.

$1,000 U. S. 5-20 C., '65, new	108⅞	150 N. Y. C. & Hud. R.	91⅞
500 do. small	108⅞	25 do.	91⅞
15,000 U. S. 5-20 C., '67	108⅝	100 do.	91⅝
1,000 U. S. 5-20 R., '67	108⅝	400 do.	91⅝
10,000 Tenn. 6s, n.	60	20,000 N. Y. C. & Hud.
20,000 do.	59¾	Certs.	91⅞
1,000 Va. 6s, C.	39⅝	300 Erie	20⅝
5,000 Georgia 6s, '70	81⅛	400 do.	20¾
1,000 N. C. special tax	24⅞	200 Reading R.	93
5,000 M. C. & A. 6s	25	200 do.	93⅛
2,000 Ala. 5s, n.	49¾	200 do.	93⅜
1,000 St. L. & I. M. 7s, 1st	100	200 do.	93⅝
2,000 Erie 2d M.	77	200 L. S. & M. So. R.	69⅜
5,000 Ill. Cen. R. bds	91⅜	100 do.	69⅝
5,000 Mich. S. & N. I. 7s	85	100 do.	69¾
5,000 Mar. & Ft. W. 1st, 7s	93	100 do.	69⅞
5 Com. Nat. Bank	103½	400 Harlem R.	13⅜
200 Mer. Mining Co.	1½	100 Harlem R. pf.	33
200 Manhasset Pf.	10	200 Mil. & St. P. R.	84⅝
100 do.	9¾	200 do.	84¾
16 West. Un. Tel.	94	100 Tol. W. & W.	46
100 Del. & Cly. R.	100½	300 Rock. R. & M. R.	84
100 Stonington R.	91½

SECOND BOARD—12½ AND 2½ P. M.

$10,000 U. S. 6s, '81 C.	118½	25 Am. M. U. Ex. bs.	64
7,000 U. S. 5-20 C., '65	108⅞	100 N. Y. C. & H. R. R.
10,000 do.	110⅛	bs. cash	92⅝
20,000 do.	109⅞	10,000 N. Y. C. & H. C.	97⅝
20,000 U. S. 5-20 C.	108⅝	20 Erie Railway	20⅜
20,000 do.	108⅞	300 Reading R.	93¼
20,000 U. S. 10-40 C.	107⅜	11 Mich. Cen.	117½
105,000 U. S. 5-20 C., '67	109⅜	20 do.	118
20,000 do.	109⅜	13 L. S. & M. S. R.	69⅝
10,000 do.	109⅜	100 Panama R.	135
50,000 U. S. 6s Cur.	111	25 do.	135
50,000 Tenn. 6s, n.	60	100 Chi. & N. W.	85
4,000 Missouri 6s	90⅜	300 Tol. W. & W.	46
100 Mariposa Pf.	10	100 Pitts. Ft. W. & C. G.	98⅜
100 W. U. Tel. b. a. 94	94⅛	100 M. & St. Jos. Pf.	85⅝
25 do.	94	100 C., C. & I. Con.	17⅜

THURSDAY, AUG. 4—P. M.

The

The New York Times.

NEW-YORK, FRIDAY, AUGUST 5, 1870.

Amusements this Evening.

WALLACK'S THEATER, Broadway, corner 13th-st.
OUR COUSIN GERMAN. Leading characters by Messrs. Joseph E. Sheridan, Joseph Leonard, Miss Emily Mestayer, Miss Maddox, Miss Fowler.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE, 8th-av., corner 23d-st.
HIRKA, THE NATIONS, and GRAND BALLET. Leading character by Miss. Kathi Lanner.

SAN FRANCISCO MINSTREL HALL, No. 585 Broadway.
LA SOMNAMBULA, (Burlesque Opera.) NEGRO COMICALITIES, SONGS, &c.

Terms of the New-York Times.

MAIL SUBSCRIBERS.

The DAILY TIMES, per annum, including the Sunday Edition.....$12
The DAILY TIMES, per annum, exclusive of the Sunday Edition.....10
The Sunday Edition, per annum.....2
The SEMI-WEEKLY, per annum.....5
Two copies, one year.....9
Five copies, one year.....20
An extra copy to getter-up of club, and a splendid steel engraving of the late HENRY J. RAYMOND.
The WEEKLY TIMES, per annum.....3
Five copies, one year.....13
Ten copies, one year.....25
An extra copy to getter-up of club, and a splendid steel engraving of the late HENRY J. RAYMOND.
Twenty copies, one year.....50
An extra copy to getter-up of club, and splendid steel engraving of the late HENRY J. RAYMOND.
The European Edition, per annum, postage extra.....3
Subscriptions to circles of our editions received for a less length of time than one year at the yearly rates.
The Semi-Weekly and Weekly mailed to clergymen at the lowest club rates.
Additions may be made to clubs at club rates.
These prices are invariable. We have no traveling agents. Remit in drafts on New-York or Post Office Money Orders if possible, and where neither of these can be procured send the money in a registered letter.
Address H. J. RAYMOND & CO.,
TIMES Office, New-York.

To Advertisers.

Advertisers in the TIMES are requested to bring in their notices as as early an hour in the day as possible. If received after Six o'clock, it will be impossible to classify it properly, and it will be inserted in the appropriate column next morning.

☞ For the accommodation of up-town residents, advertisements for insertion in the TIMES will be received at No. 84 West 23d-st., junction of Broadway and 6th-av., and at No. 49 East 125th-st., between Broadway and 4th-av., at the same rates as are charged at office of publication.

☞ Messrs. DERBIG, HARJES & Co., Bankers, No. 9 Rue Scribe, Paris, are the accredited agents for the NEW-YORK TIMES in that city.

Notice.

We cannot notice anonymous communications. In all cases we require the writer's name and address, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.
We cannot return rejected communications, nor preserve manuscripts, unless specially requested so to do.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE WAR.

The importance of the French victory at Saarbrück, it is claimed, is due much to the fact that the heights form a key to the railway approaches to Treves. Fourteen Prussian soldiers, captured in the attack, passed through Metz on Wednesday. The Prussian wounded, it is said, receive the same care as the French. During the action the French bands played the "Marseillaise." In the Prussian accounts of the affair the garrison at Saarbrück is termed feeble; the forces held the city until the French advanced in three columns, when they retired to a position north of the town to observe the enemy. The German loss is stated to be two officers and seventy men, and the troops are said to have been admirably cool. A reserve of 100,000 men are encamped in front of Berlin. The Union Club of that city have accepted a heavy wager laid by M. THOMAS, of Paris, that the French would enter the Prussian capital on or before the 15th inst. Forage is scarce in the Rhine Provinces, and cavalry horses are suffering thereby. On Wednesday, Gen. MCMAHON, accompanied by his Chief of Staff, made a survey of the Rhine, from Kehl Bridge to Brumuch, twenty miles distant, and it is conjectured that he, with the "African" Army, will soon make a rapid advance, crossing the river at Carlsruhe, and strike for Frankfort. The movement, it is reported, will be made on Saturday.

GRAMMONT has issued another circular in Paris, in which he reaffirms that aggressive propositions came from Berlin, and charges BISMARCK with falsehood, uttered, as he says, through fear. The Empress presided at the Council of Ministers, at the Tuileries, yesterday. NAPOLEON, it is said, will issue a decree making the "Marseillaise" the national air of France. OFFENBACH has composed a war song entitled "God speed the Emperor." The French Hospital Service has 24,000 beds already prepared for the wounded. Prince CHARLES of Roumania, it is reported in Paris, refuses to accede to the demand of Prussia to remove his agent in that city, because he took an active part in procuring the renunciation of the Spanish crown by LEOPOLD, the father of the Prince. The official report of the Bank of England made public yesterday, shows a decrease in specie of $400,000 since the last report. The rate of discount has been still further increased one per cent, more, it is stated for political effect than financial necessity. English ports are rapidly filling with German vessels anxious to escape French cruisers. A circular has recently appeared which is well received in London, in which Señor SAGASTA defends Spain from the charge of having been the cause of the war. The arrival of Count DE CAUMONT LA FORCE in London is rumored, with a special message from GRAMMONT assuring the Government that France will respect the neutrality of Belgium. His reception, it is added was a cool one. In the British Parliament last night, the debates were constantly interrupted with questions pertaining to the war, but no definite replies were made by those authorized to speak for the country. A meeting of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce has been called to consider the policy of a petition to the Government to prohibit the exportation of arms and ammunition.

Portugal has officially declared neutrality in the contest. The Hungarian Diet, on Wednesday, declared in favor of Austrian neutrality. A dispatch from Copenhagen states that the Danish Government is struggling to maintain a neutral position, but that the popular clamor is in favor of France, and the excitement, perhaps, ungovernable. The Belgian Chambers have been called to meet on Monday next.

Although perhaps unnecessary, a dispatch from Washington officially reiterates the statement that Gen. SHERIDAN applied for a leave of absence and went abroad merely as an observer of events, and as a private individual. The North German steamer Leipzig arrived at Baltimore yesterday, from Bremen. A Scandinavian meeting was held at Chicago on Wednesday evening, at which resolutions favoring France were adopted.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

The Earl of KIMBERLY was waited upon in London on Wednesday by a deputation from Newfoundland, asking that the British troops now in the Province might remain as a protection in case of a Fenian raid. They were given to understand that the provinces must protect themselves....The ministerial Whitebait dinner at Greenwich, usual before the adjournment of Parliament, is to be omitted this year....The Petroleum bill pending in the House of Lords will, if passed, it is said, almost break up the traffic....A cotton broker of Liverpool, said to be well known in this country, is reported to have absconded with liabilities amounting to $30,000....Proposals for a line of weekly steamers, to take the place of the German lines, have been opened at Antwerp, and the Belgian Government says it is ready to accept the first satisfactory offer....A large meeting was recently held at Madrid, Spain, at which the Society for the Abolition of Slavery was reorganized. CASTELAR was elected President....A Lisbon dispatch states that Don FERNANDO has accepted a proffer of the crown of Spain.

GENERAL.

A dispatch from Jackson, Miss., states that Hon. ALEMEY T. MORGAN, (white,) a lawyer of some ability and a Republican Senator in the State Senate, was married on Wednesday night to Miss CARRIE HIGGINS, (colored,) at that place. The ceremony was performed by a colored clergyman, and the event created some excitement. MORGAN was a Colonel of a Michigan regiment during the war.

Rumors of an overissue of stock of the Parkersburg branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railway to the amount of $300,000 are current in Baltimore, and JOHN L. CRAWFORD, the Secretary of the Company, has resigned his office.

The returns of the recent elections in Kentucky come in slowly, but as far as heard from the Democrats in most instances have elected their tickets.

The Treasurer of Dodge County, Nebraska, yesterday, advertised for sale all the Union Pacific Railway lands in the county, for non-payment of taxes.

Fifteen students graduated at the University of Vermont, at Burlington, yesterday. At the Alumni dinner on Wednesday, Judge EMMENDOF, of this City, presided.

JOHN BALDY and WILLIAM DUNCAN, on trial for the past two days in Philadelphia, for an assault on a Miss JARVIS, a few weeks ago, were both convicted, yesterday, and each sentenced to thirty-two years' confinement in the Penitentiary, and to pay a fine of $5,000, the full penalty of the law, for their crime.

The Republican State Central Committee, which met at Saratoga Springs yesterday, decided that the State Convention should be held at that place on the 7th of September.

The Boston, Hartford and Erie Railway Company yesterday raised the money due for the lease of the Norwich and Worcester Railroad, and deposited it in Boston.

Archbishop PURCELL is to be tendered a grand reception, at his home in Cincinnati, on his return from the Ecumenical Council. A meeting was held in that city, on Wednesday evening, to make the necessary arrangements.

The Central Executive Committee of the Conservative Party of Virginia have issued an address recommending that no Congressional nominations be made until the State is redistricted.

A man named JAMES W. BREEN entered the office of W. A. SANDICK, at Louisville, Ky., at 10 o'clock on Wednesday evening, and attempted to shoot him. The latter defended himself, and in the melee BREEN received two pistol wounds which will probably prove fatal. No cause is assigned for the attempted assault.

A riot is reported to have occurred at Harrodsburg, Mercer County, Ky., on Monday evening, in which one white man and three or four black men were killed, and over twenty others wounded.

In a game of base-ball at Rockford, Ill., yesterday, the Forest City, of that place, defeated the Athletics, of Philadelphia, by a score of fifteen to ten.

The Columbus woolen mills, located at Columbus, Ohio, were destroyed by fire yesterday morning. Loss, $40,000; insurance, $25,000. A man named MARK NEWMAN was killed during the fire by falling off a wall.

The annual exposition of textile fabrics was opened at Indianapolis, on Wednesday, with every indication that it would be a success. Addresses were made by a large number of gentlemen. On the same day the fifth annual Fair of the Tobacco Trade Association was held in Cincinnati. It was well attended, and the results satisfactory.

The temperance people of Michigan held a mass Convention in Detroit, on Wednesday, and placed in nomination a full State ticket for the coming State election.

The noted trotting mare Lady Thorn fell from a bridge, while being led into a car at Rochester, yesterday, and dislocated her hip. The accident, it is said, will probably disqualify her for the turf.

Hon. WM. S. LINCOLN, ex-member of Congress from this State, was assaulted yesterday at Washington, at the depot, by Hon. JOSEPH SEGAR, ex-member of Congress from Virginia. The assault was made with a cane, and was caused by alleged calumnious statements made by LINCOLN against SEGAR in regard to the re-charter of the Fredericksburg and Alexandria Railway. The latter was arrested, and held to bail in the sum of $5,000, which was furnished.

Yesterday was the fourth day of the Long Branch Races. Although greeted with a lively thunderstorm the attendance was large. Enquirer won the Robins Stakes; McKinney the Two-year Old Purse; R. B. Connolly the Selling Race, and Rapture the Gentleman's Cup.

The inquest in the case of BENJAMIN NATHAN was begun by Coroner ROLLINS yesterday. The Police officers and workmen acquainted with the event of the murder were examined before the jury by Assistant District-Attorney FELLOWS, after which the inquest was adjourned to Monday next.

At the regular meeting of the Dock Commissioners, yesterday, a new plan for the improvement of our water front was submitted by Mr. DOW and ordered on file.

The annual State Fair this year, will in completeness of arrangements equal, if not excel, any before held. No side-shows or candy venders will be allowed on the ground, and no cattle will be permitted to run at large. The fair will commence on Sept. 30, and continue four days on the grounds at Waverly.

The property belonging to the City of Morristown is under seizure made by the Sheriff of the County to satisfy a judgment of $1,100, obtained by Mr. JACOB VANATTA.

France on Her Defense.

There are people who profess to see in warfare the one point on which the human race have made absolutely no progress. The hordes of primitive men who, on the strength of a more fatal kind of flint arrow-heads than their neighbors, made war on an adjacent tribe, furnish, in the opinion of such critics, an exact counterpart to the modern nations, who no sooner possess an improved fire-arm than they show an unbridled haste to try its effect on the field of battle. Admitting the radically barbarous principle that underlies all warfare, it is a very noticeable fact that each successive outbreak of hostilities finds the belligerents more desirous than ever of setting themselves right with the rest of the world in regard to the purity of the motives that impelled them to fight. Of the two nations now engaged in actual conflict, France has assuredly been the most severely arraigned at the bar of civilization and humanity. Even in quarters where she might reasonably have expected sympathy on the score of previous alliance and mutual services, the flimsy pretext on which she entered into the quarrel has caused other grounds on which it may have become inevitable to be lost sight of, and thus she has been forced to occupy, in the estimation of other nations, the position of actual aggressor, and therefore of the Power directly responsible for the contest now in progress.

The attempts already made by the French Government to vindicate the technical justice of its declaration of war against Prussia have been but partially successful. They have all virtually resolved themselves into the statement that the growing ascendency of Prussia was dangerous to the freedom of Germany, to the existence of Austria, to the safety of France, and, therefore, to the peace of Europe. The Germans have already given the most emphatic rebuff to foreign intervention in their affairs by hastening to enroll themselves without reserve or hesitation under the banner of the King of Prussia. Austria has probably already begun to pray to be saved from such exhibitions of friendly concern, and Europe generally has unequivocally expressed its conviction that France would have had a much stronger claim to the title of a peace-maker had she accepted the mediation of neutral Powers which was so strongly pressed upon her. Apparently chafing under what they consider a grievous misapprehension, the French Cabinet return once more to the task of self-defense, and to judge by the sample transmitted by telegraph, have omitted another elaborate vindication of the position whose ultimate settlement now rests with the strongest battalions.

All unprejudiced observers have already concluded that France has a much stronger case against Prussia on the general basis of a rivalry which only the sword could settle, than on any special point on which she chose to join issue with that Power. The diplomacy of Berlin has, in fact, been more than a match for that of Paris, and the somewhat declamatory sentences quoted from the Duke of GRAMMONT'S circular do not tend to raise our estimate either of the ability or the candor of the late foreign policy of France. It is doubtless perfectly true that proposals for mutual disarmament were made by France to Prussia, but most people will be inclined to think, as Count BISMARCK seems to have done, that the sincerity of these proposals was open to question. "Preoccupied" as she may have been "with the development of her political institutions," the fact is now patent to the world that France has been steadily preparing for a great struggle, and that when the moment arrived she was in a more advanced stage of preparation than Prussia. It is obvious that her readiness to fight had a pretty intimate connection with her opinion as to the outrage "which no nation could accept without incurring contempt." In fact, the present attempt at labored defense, like those that have preceded it, only serves to show that good as the general grounds of the quarrel may in many respects have been, its special occasion was, on the part of France, ill-chosen.

The Mystery Not Unsolved.

The Coroner's investigation, yesterday, contributed little to the solution of the mystery which still enshrouds the Nathan murder. But it threw some additional light upon points that have been controverted, upset some stories that have been industriously circulated, and to a certain extent cleared the way for the more exhaustive inquiry which has yet to come.

First, as to the two carpenters who were at work in the house on the day preceding the murder. Both seem completely absolved from suspicion. They fully explain their whereabouts, verify their statements clearly, and pass unscathed through a very searching investigation. Their testimony is in other respects interesting. The early statements in regard to the ease with which, during the day time, ingress and egress might be effected, unobserved, are confirmed. There seems, indeed, to have been an inexplicable remissness in this respect on the part of those charged with the safe keeping of the house. And, entrance once effected, the facilities for concealment were unusually great. Coalbins down-stairs, closets and a tank upstairs, were available without difficulty. These witnesses never saw in any part of the house the iron "dog" with which the murder is supposed to have been effected. The allegation that it had been used some time previous by ship carpenters who were employed to caulk the stable floor, is disproved.

Yet more prevalent rumors respecting Mr. WASHINGTON NATHAN are corrected by the testimony of the patrolman, whom the sons, FREDERICK and WASHINGTON, jointly called after the discovery of the murder. They were together upon the door-steps at the time—both undressed. The socks of one were blood-stained, and his shirt-front was largely smeared with blood. But it was FREDERICK, not WASHINGTON, whose socks and shirt were thus stained. So far as the policeman saw, WASHINGTON was without spot or stain. We do not adduce the fact to transfer from one brother to the other the horrible suspicion which sensation-mongers have persistently cultivated, but to correct an almost universal misapprehension upon a point concerning which there has been believed to be no room for doubt. A suggestive fact, now for the first time stated, is that the bloody foot-prints which formed so distinct a track down stairs and across the marble floor of the hall to the front door—all led one way. There were no foot-steps tending upstairs, or elsewhere than toward the door. The stories about distinct finger-marks, or other traces of blood, here and there, are now pronounced fiction. The door itself was closed a few seconds before the patrolman was called in. He had just passed the door, and saw that it was shut. One of the sons—the officer cannot say which—seems to have had a different opinion, which, however, he did not attempt to maintain against the policeman's positive statement. The same officer passed the house at 1½, and again at 4½, on the same morning, and on both occasions, having tried the door, as required by the rules of the force, found it fast.

Three hours, it will be observed, elapsed between the two periods at which the officer passed the house. The extent of his beat made more frequent passing-by impossible. The circumstance strikingly exemplifies the inadequacy of the present force to meet the obvious wants of the City. A locality that for three consecutive hours, at the most critical part of the night, is without the visits of a policeman, affords inviting ground for burglar or assassin.

The Coroner has still before him the most essential features of his inquiry. These he must scrutinize and expose with great care, and, withal, fearless impartiality, or his work will be held to be undone. It is to be regretted that an adjournment of the inquiry until Monday has been rendered necessary, for certainly much very important evidence is even now available. The sooner all the facts of the case are made known the better. Up to this moment the official contributions to the stock of positive knowledge upon the shocking subject have been scanty and inconclusive.

Weapons of the Two Armies.

Nothing is more natural than that reports precisely contradictory of each other should reach us concerning the efficiency of the weapons of the French and Prussian Armies. We printed on Wednesday a telegraphic dispatch epitomizing an article from the London Times, in which it is argued that the French arm, the Chassepot, on account of its fouling speedily, will prove far less effective than the needle-gun. On the same page we printed extracts from the Parisian namesake of this journal, the Temps, setting forth that the needle-gun must necessarily, from its construction, foul sooner than the Chassepot, and that consequently the French must possess in this respect an immense advantage. The comparative merit of the two weapons will soon be, if it has not already been, put to a crucial test. In the meantime it is hardly necessary to point out that in all human probability the Prussian Government has made numerous secret experiments with the Chassepot, and that it is quite certain the French authorities have done the same thing by the needle-gun. Some years have elapsed since both weapons were invented, and that the two armies now facing each other would ultimately have to confront them has been nearly as certain as that the sun shines. It is absurd under such circumstances to suppose that the qualities of either gun are to burst upon the leaders to whom they are opposed, in the nature of a surprise.

The finesse attributed to the Berlin Government as regards the explosive bullets of the Baden troops, should also be taken with grains of allowance. As the story is related by the Metz correspondent of the Siècle, Prussia contemplates in this matter an act of perfidy that would gain her the reprobation of the whole civilized world. Baden, we are told, refused to sign the agreement by which the five Great European Powers bound themselves not to use the explosive bullet. The theory of civilized war consists, not in killing your enemy, but in putting him hors de combat. Ordinary projectiles wound far oftener than they kill, so that with them this end is attained. But with the explosive balls every man hit is killed. Now, Prussia and France are debarred from using these terrible implements, but Baden, who fights side by side with Prussia, can use them at pleasure. It is threatened, in retaliation, that France will use a similar projectile, the exact nature of which has been kept a secret, but which is said to be fearfully destructive. We believe that neither side will use explosive bullets at all; since, apart from any considerations of humanity, the injuries inflicted by both would neutralize each other, while a common odium would rest on both.

The opinion seems for the moment to be gaining ground that the new weapons, instead of hastening, will have a tendency to postpone decisive results. It is thought that, inasmuch as the old theory of the writers on war, imputing the advantage to the assailant, is rendered obsolete by these weapons, which, it is claimed, rather throw superiority on the side of the defense, a campaign must consist of sieges and tactical combinations, rather than of swift and conclusive engagements in the open field. No such lightning movements as those of NAPOLEON the Great, which, beginning at Jena and Auerstadt, Oct. 14, 1806, placed him in Berlin in less than a fortnight after, are now, it is urged, to be looked for. Already reports reach us from both sides that the Prussian troops are intrenching themselves, and fringing their elaborate system of fortresses by earthworks such as were found so useful in our late civil war. If it be true that the French field artillery is as superior as by some it is supposed to be, the wisdom of this precaution becomes manifest. It has been thought that the mitrailleuse, which discharges perhaps forty bullets through as many tubes, would really prove no more effective than an ordinary cannon that should throw an equal number of missiles through a single tube; and the allegation is doubtless true that the experience of previous wars tends to lessen expectation of great results from complicated forms of light artillery. On the other hand the affair of Saarbrück, if we can trust the French accounts, shows that the new arm may prove of vital consequence at decisive moments of the war. The unlooked for hesitancy prior to a general engagement may be owing to a variety of causes, and apprehension of the unknown powers of the mitrailleuse may possibly be among the number.

A New Solution of the Educational Problem.

Bold as have been the experiments of English legislation during the past five years, it would be difficult to find among them a measure more original and comprehensive than the new Education bill which has just passed through the House of Commons. For thirty years it has been the disgrace of England that she stood alone among the progressive nations of the world in having no truly national scheme of education. The State afforded, indeed, a certain proportion of aid to schools established by the various religious denominations, but it made no provision for that steadily increasing part of the population which these failed to reach. The squabbles of Anglicans, Secularists and Dissenters have hitherto rebuked impossible the adoption of a truly comprehensive scheme of national education, and but for the advent to power of an exceptionally strong Liberal Cabinet, the settlement of the question might even yet have been indefinitely postponed. To Mr. FORSTER, who holds in Mr. GLADSTONE'S Ministry the virtual rank of Minister of Education, belongs the chief credit of the inception and successful passage of the present bill, which is, in many respects, a highly interesting legislative experiment.

Its most notable feature, and the one that has been productive of the greatest amount of discussion, is its mode of meeting the religious difficulty. In the words of an English journal, it places "every creed and every country of all creeds at liberty to exert itself on himself to the uttermost to propagate its or his opinions at discretion; to attract if it can the whole youth of the district to listen to its ideas;" while all sects are "equally forbidden to oppress the conscience of any wise, desiring education, fear the spiritual influence of those who bestow it." Let any sect, association or individual establish a public school, and they have only to comply with certain provisions as to school-pence, the hours of religious instruction, and the requisites of Government inspection, to claim from the State one-half of their annual expenditure. The quality and availability of their secular instruction being satisfactory, they are allowed to communicate any religious teaching, or none at all. If the former, it must be given at certain hours defined by Government; and under what is called a "time-table conscience clause," parents may at such times secure the absence of their children. In localities where no such denominational schools exist, or where the accommodation provided by them is deemed by the central authority inadequate to the wants of the population, the rate-payers are to be summoned to elect a School Board to supply the want by the erection of fresh schools, and to manage their affairs when erected. Into the election of these Boards a principle new to English legislation has been introduced—that of cumulative voting. Every elector has a right to vote for such number of members as may be required to constitute the Board, or to fill up vacancies that may occur in it, but he can put the entire weight of his vote to the credit of a single candidate, or otherwise distribute it as he sees fit. By such a plan of minority representation, all parties can enter into the constitution of the School Boards, and the local rates which they are empowered to levy will thus be contributed with greater willingness. In these schools, which will be supported half by local taxation and half by State funds, no religious creed or formula can be taught, and the reading of the Bible, "without note or comment," is the only directly religious exercise provided for. Even at this, the operation of the conscience clause provides for the voluntary abstention of children, should their parents so desire.

Another and highly important feature of the bill is the permission it accords to every duly elected School Board to make the attendance of children in their district compulsory. This is acknowledged as a purely tentative clause, and its extension or abrogation will depend very much on the results of its early enactment. To provide against the local authorities nullifying the intention of the bill by penuriousness or incapacity, the Education Department reserve the power of dissolving the School Board of any district when they see fit, and ordering a new election. In the event of continued inefficiency, they have the power of taking into their own hands the educational affairs of any district and of managing them by a Board appointed by themselves. Altogether the bill is of a character at once so sweeping in its reforms, and yet so eminently constructive in its aims, as to mark a new phase of British legislation, and to form in its future operation a subject of extreme interest to all friends of political and social progress.

The Weather and the Public Health.

The records of the Board of Health for last week showed an excess of 351 deaths over the corresponding period of last year. This increase is more than accounted for by the further statement that 340 children under two years of age died from Summer complaint, and eighty-five persons from sun-stroke, or the direct effects of heat. The same proportionate results are observed in Philadelphia, and therefore there is a basis of investigation into the influence upon health of the heated terms through which we are passing, irrespective of mere locality. It will be noticed that if the exceptional mortality from the two causes named be deducted from the general result in this City, the number of deaths would be less than usual at this time. The conclusion to be arrived at is, that while persons of weak physical condition are peculiarly susceptible to attack, those of average healthfulness are enabled to sustain the unusual strain upon the system caused by the present heated term. In other words, those who succumb to the heat are in too low a physical condition to resist congestion of the brain, by the healthy activity of their circulation and the soundness of their nervous system. This depressed state of the body, this weakness, may be due to a variety of causes. In adults it may come of the constant, though not necessarily excessive, use of alcoholic stimulants, by which the tissues and blood are kept in a state of chronic inflammation, which is slowly though surely destructive of their substance. A certain proportion of the victims to excessive heat are young persons to whom a resort to stimulants cannot be attributed. But there are other errors of diet which are extremely serious, and to which young people give little attention. The close confinement, also, in unhealthy workshops, and in ill-ventilated and crowded houses, is likely to be very hurtful at the period when youth is changing into manhood; and physical mischief is done which deprives the sufferer of the power to rally from the exhaustion produced by atmospheric heat.

In the case of very young infants, the influence of bad and insufficient air and ill-selected food must necessarily be more fatal. These are always in operation, but when the weakness inseparable from want of rest and the great drain of perspiration is added, there is a mortality which is alarming. The figures which the New-York and Philadelphia Boards publish on this point convey a lesson which ought not to be disregarded; and the remark also applies to the large amount of sickness and death from sunstrokes. They show that there is an unduly large proportion of population which is in a deteriorated and feeble condition in these cities. Under ordinary circumstances, and where the individual is favorably situated in respect of air and diet, the mere state of the atmosphere has comparatively little effect. But the long list of mortality brought to notice week after week, while at the same time no epidemic diseases are apparent, is a fair proof of the large number of persons who are not so situated. And this forms a sad commentary upon the misery and discomfort which are continually warring upon the crowded population by which we are surrounded.

Progress of the War.

In our cable dispatches will be found some suggestive items, showing the growth of a conviction that it will be next to impossible to localize the present struggle between France and Prussia. The sensitive indicator of English sentiment presented in the price of consols is one evidence of the increasing strength of the national apprehension that a position of neutrality will be short-lived, while the nervous anxiety shown in both Houses of Parliament to get a clue to the foreign policy of the Government, if, indeed, it has any, furnishes another. The English Press has exhibited a perfectly surprising unanimity on the question of England's irrevocable obligations to preserve at all hazards the independence of Belgium, and when contrasted with the pusillanimous foreign policy of the nation during the last decade, it sounds somewhat strangely to hear the British fleet again spoken of as "the second line of European defense." That the French envoy who is reported to have gone to London to assure the English Government that Belgium is in no danger of being annexed just at present, should have received a "cool reception," is extremely probable. France was on paper as much a party to the guaranteed neutrality of Belgium as England was, and a message like that sent by the Duke of GRAMMONT is pretty nearly equivalent to a declaration by one partner in a business concern to another that, although he had once intended to rob him, he had now changed his mind, and that, therefore, he may dismiss all apprehensions.

The rapid outline, given in another dispatch, of the presumed destination of Gen. MCMAHON and his Algerians, seems more distinguished by boldness than probability. A "dash by Carlsruhe and Heidelberg" means running the gauntlet of the troops centred around the fortress of Mannheim; and, however easy it may be on paper to "leave Mayence on the left" the arsenal at Frankfort would involve a sufficiently close proximity to the former to necessitate a collision with the hundred and eighty thousand men stationed there under Prince FREDERICK CHARLES, while the existence of a strongly intrenched camp in the neighborhood of Frankfort might probably interfere with the success of the Zouaves in their assumed programme of cutting the railroad communication "between Baden and the Rhine." At present it may safely be said, that there is next to no data for forming any opinion relative to the probable movements of the troops of either army, beyond what we have previously expressed.

The Republican State Committee, which met at Saratoga, yesterday, has complied with the predominating wish of the party by fixing an early day for the assembling of the Convention. The 7th of September is the date selected. The Committee disposed of the difficulties in the Seventh District of this City, by ordering a revision of the enrollment; the contestants from the Ninth District effected a compromise; and in regard to the Fifteenth District, no action was deemed necessary.

Not often has the Bank of England advanced its rate of discount so rapidly as now,—and never except in the presence of very grave emergencies. The minimum rate is now six per cent.—a fact that sufficiently indicates the force and extent of the financial complications, and the apprehensions that prevail in regard to the immediate future. Hope as we may, it is impossible to ignore the probable effect of such a state of things upon the finance and business of this country.

Dom FERNANDO, of Portugal, has been already so frequently mentioned in connection with the throne of Spain, and the difficulties attending his election have already appeared so insurmountable, that the present rumor of his acceptance of the candidature must be received with caution. An impression prevails in Europe that the revival of Prince LEOPOLD'S claims to the suffrages of the Cortes will be one of the results to be anticipated from the Prussian success in the present war. Unless it be to avoid the establishment by France, in the event of victory remaining with her, of Prince ALFONSO on the throne lately abdicated by his mother, the King-makers of Spain can have very little to gain, at the present crisis, by raising the question of their royal succession so soon after their late perilous experiment. Should the present rumor turn out to be a fact, it will, at least, show conclusively that France will look in vain either for allies or sympathies to her neighbors in the Peninsula.

The Evening Post is not unreasonable when it asks for an explanation of the reference to an alleged "United States protectorate of San Domingo," which has appeared in recent Dominican correspondence, that of the TIMES included. All the letter-writers convey an impression that BAEZ, and his friends, rely upon an American "protectorate" to sustain them against Dominican discontent; and the Post properly asks:

"Is it true that the United States have agreed to 'protect Dominica that we have established a 'protectorate' in San Domingo? When was this done? By whose authority? Why was it kept a secret? What does it bind us to? A good many persons would like to know something about this."

We cannot believe that a protectorate has been seriously contemplated, or that anything has been said or done by our Administration which can justify Baez in looking for American help as against his own people. The fate of the treaty in the Senate is mean while conclusive, and BAEZ must take his chance. If the Dominicans are eager for annexation, American protection is not required to shield him from his enemies. And if they are averse to annexation, we have no right to assist him in carrying out a policy at variance with their wishes.

Another instance of carelessness and fraud in corporate management! This time Baltimore and West Virginia are joined—not New-York. The President of the North-western Virginia Railroad, better known as the Petersburg Branch of the Baltimore and Ohio, has been in the habit of leaving blank certificates of stock, bearing his signature, in the hands of the Secretary. An over-issue of stock, amounting in round figures to three hundred thousand dollars, is the result. Would the President be cautious entrust his check-book, signed in blank, to one of his clerks? If he would, he is not a fit man for the office. If he would not, why should he act with less consideration as the guardian of stockholders' interests?

If President GRANT is willing that the recent Fenian trials, conducted with such a display of official entirety and judicial decorum, shall be reduced to a contemptible farce, he will comply with the request for the immediate pardon of O'NEIL and his convicted associates. To liberate them now, after having been sentenced to imprisonment for violating the laws of the land, would be to confess that there was no hostility in the effort to prevent the "invasion" of Canada. The punishment imposed upon O'NEIL & Co. is not excessive, and there can be no abatement of it without adding to the mischief they have already done. These men cannot plead ignorance of the law, nor can they divest themselves of responsibility for leading others to set its provisions at defiance. The President owes more to the nation's neutrality at this critical moment, than to Fenian impostors.

The authorities of the New-York Post-office are making arrangements to facilitate their business and add to the convenience of the public, but there are some points to which they do not appear, so far, to have given attention. There is much need of the greater diffusion over the City of the money-order system. There are many localities which are business centres in themselves, and between which small remittances are constantly being exchanged, in addition to payments to and from the country. A few branch offices at which orders might be issued and paid would be of great service. The facilities for the sale of postage stamps need also to be increased. Many tradesmen would be willing to keep a sufficient stock if a small percentage were allowed them. Newspapers, too, are now mailed by exposing them, like foundlings, to the tender mercies of the passers by, which does not seem a very sensible process. The Post-office chiefs would gratify many people if they would consider these things.

There seems to have been some negligence in framing the bill organizing the new Bureau of Justice at Washington. The plan of consolidation was a good one, and will undoubtedly work well as soon as the organization gets fairly in operation, but its authors should have known that the transition would be attended with difficulty. Provision should have been made for a gradual transfer of the old business, in all cases where the old officers were not transferred, as in the case of the cotton cases pending in the Court of Claims. In the absence of this the whole business—involving over 100 cases, and $15,000,000—is thrown into confusion, which will result in delay and useless expense, to say nothing of the loss to the parties—all of which a little forethought would have averted.

The old discussion concerning the proper relation of height and weight is revived by Nature, which furnishes some tables setting forth what the symmetrical and healthful ratio should be. A person five feet high, according to this and other authorities, should weigh 143 pounds, and there should be five pounds additional weight for each additional inch in height. Assumptions of this sort may have their use, and, as the collated results of a great number of observations, they are certainly interesting. Still, are such arbitrary formulas in any other sense trustworthy? Weight depends not on flesh alone, but on muscular and osseous development. A hardy and big-boned laborer of five feet four may, therefore, healthfully carry a greater weight of bone and muscle, and consequently likewise of flesh, than a strumous sedentary of five feet ten. Circumstances alter cases here as they do so often elsewhere; there is apt to be danger in laying down inflexible laws, a believe in which may cause needless apprehension or injurious practice. Obesity may be, no doubt, and has been, healthily cured; but there is a risk of spoiling digestion by the process which may often make the remedy more hurtful than the disease.

Report alleges that new complications are arising with reference to the municipal offices of Richmond. A remembrance of the calamity which ended the contest between the rival Mayors, might be supposed to distneline the people of that city for any further difficulties of that kind. The whole matter ought quietly and amicably to be submitted to proper legal adjudication.

The eastward movement of grain and flour, by canal, since the opening of navigation, has steadily fallen off from last year. At Buffalo, according to one report, the deficiency on the 1st of August was 2,238,383 bushels. The receipts of tolls are, of course, materially affected. At Buffalo, they are already $250,000 less than last year, and on the whole line of the canal there must be a decline of over half a million. The large foreign demand for breadstuffs, which is anticipated during the Autumn months, may prevent a further decrease; but it is hardly possible that, at present rates, the receipts can be brought up to last year's figures.

We are sorry to notice that JEFFERSON DAVIS has broken the decorous reserve which he has maintained since his release from prison, and that he has taken to speech-making. He has, as yet, said nothing particularly offensive; nevertheless there is a questionable taste in his acceptance of popular demonstrations, and in the fact that he makes speeches in response. When Southern people gather about him, and do him honor, it is as the official head of the rebellion that he is recognized. Such demonstrations cannot be ascribed to personal popularity, for no prominent Southern leader has less of it than Mr. DAVIS. With Gen. LEE it is different. He is thoroughly and personally popular all over the South; yet he is careful not to permit any public expression of feeling toward himself. Mr. DAVIS might advantageously follow his example.

Personal.

Ex-Senator J. R. Doolittle, of Wisconsin, is at the Hoffman House. Col. Phayre and Major Bell, of the British Army, are at the Brevoort House. Isaac Sisson, U. S. Consul at Matanzas; Gen. T. W. Francis, of Alabama; Judge Cochran, of White Plains; and Col. Mollins, U. S. A., are at the Metropolitan Hotel. Gen. Sorrell, U. S. A., is at the Clarendon Hotel. Lieut.-Commander Stirling, U. S. N., is at the Everett House. Mahlon Chance, U. S. Consul at Nassau; Hon. D. J. Morrell, Pennsylvania; J. H. Devereaux, Cleveland; and Gen. Hayden, U. S. A., are at the St. Nicholas Hotel. Gen. R. S. Roberts, U. S. A., and Gen. Levi Lewis, of Delaware, are at the Astor House. Col. H. S. McComb, of Delaware; Rev. Mr. Stinson, of Toronto; and Nathaniel Paige, Washington, are at the Fifth-avenue Hotel.

GENERAL TELEGRAMS.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

The British-American Provinces—Government Protection Denied—The Petroleum Trade in Jeopardy—An Absconding Cotton Broker—Proposed New Transatlantic Steam-Ship Line.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—A deputation from Newfoundland waited on the Earl of KIMBERLEY, yesterday, and asked that the British troops now in the Province be suffered to remain as a protection against a possible Fenian attack. The Minister returned a discouraging answer, intimating that the colonies must rely upon themselves.... The Ministerial white-bait dinner at Greenwich, the usual signal for the breaking up of Parliament, will be omitted this year.....It is said that the Petroleum bill pending in the House of Lords, if passed, will prove almost fatal to the trade.... A cotton commission dealer of Liverpool, said to be well known in America, has fled from the country, leaving liabilities to the amount of £30,000. His name is not given.

ANTWERP, Aug. 4.—Proposals for a new weekly steam-ship service between Antwerp and New-York, to take the place of that recently performed by the North German Lloyd and the Hamburg-American Company, (withdrawn on account of the war,) have been opened to bidders. The Belgian Government says it is prepared to accept the first satisfactory offer.

The British Parliament—General Business Transacted—A "No Popery" Debate—The Education Bill Passed in the Commons.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Aside from the war measures discussed, the following business was discussed, to-night, in the House of Lords: The bill removing the political disabilities of clergymen was passed; various Irish measures were advanced a stage. In the House of Commons, the Ecclesiastical Tests bill was debated, Mr. NEWDEGATE airing his "no Popery" sentiments. Other speakers opposed the bill, the second reading of which was finally permitted, with the object of giving it a thorough overhauling in committee. The amendments made by the House of Lords to the Education bill were concurred in, and the bill was passed. Other measures returned from the upper House were acted upon, and the House adjourned.

The Spanish Crown—Reported Acceptance by a Candidate—The Abolition of Slavery in Spain.

LISBON, Aug. 4.—It is reported that Dom FERNANDO has accepted a proffer of the Crown of Spain.....Manifestations have recently been made against the Duke DE SALDANHA in this city and at Oporto.

MADRID, Aug. 4.—A highly enthusiastic meeting was held early this week, at which the Society for the Abolition of Slavery was revived and reorganized. Señor CASTELAR was elected President, and Señor JULIS VIGARRONDO, Secretary.

THE INDIANS.

The Cheyennes—Leading Chiefs Striving for Peace—An Indian Census—Assignments of the Commissioners.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Information has been received that BIG HORSE, the Cheyenne Chief, with over twenty lodges, will be at the Agency in a few days; also, that BIG JAKE will soon follow, with all he may induce to accompany him. There is an abundance of Indian testimony that BIG JAKE has been unremitting in his exertions to restrain Indian hostilities. There have been repeated invitations sent to the Cheyennes, who are yet out, to come in. They have been encamped on the South Fork of Red River, some 300 miles from the Agency. LITTLE RAVEN is at the Agency, keeping a sharp lookout, lest he be taken by surprise by hostile Indians, who, he says, are very wise, and need close watching. He requested the agent to inform the Commissioner that it was unreasonable that he and his tribe should be deprived of arms while those tribes at war were able to obtain them in abundance. He also claims that the faith and promise pledged by the Government in regard to mules stolen from his people by white men have not been fulfilled. Agent DARLINGTON intends to proceed promptly and take the census of all the Indians in his department. The members of the Indian Peace Commission will be employed during the Summer as follows: Messrs. BRUNOT and CAMPBELL are appointed to see the Sioux of SPOTTED TAIL and RED CLOUD's bands; to get reservations for them and to superintend the distribution of their annuity goods. Messrs. STEWART and DODGE are assisting Commissioner PARKER in the purchase of annuity goods. Messrs. COLLYER and FARWELL will visit the Pacific slope in September and look after Indian matters generally in California, Oregon and Washington Territory.

THE EAST.

Vermont University—The Commencement Exercises—The Boston, Hartford and Erie Railway Again—Railroad Enterprise in Maine—Crime in Rhode Island.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 4.—The sixty-sixth Commencement of the University of Vermont took place today. There was a numerous attendance of the Alumni and friends, and there was a general rejoicing over the completion of a subscription of $80,000 to the fund of the College, the destination by President ANGELL of a recent call to the Presidency of Michigan University, the completion of the new chemical laboratory, which is second to none in the country in its appointments, and the general bright prospects of the University. Fifteen students were graduated. Honorary degrees were conferred as follows: A. M. on B. FRANK GILBERT, Esq., of the Chicago Evening Journal. Honorary M. D. on Prof. PETER COLLYER, Professor of Chemistry and LL.D. on Hon. ROBERT S. HALE, of New-York. All the exercises were quite interesting. The new class will be the largest since 1861. At the Alumni dinner, yesterday, Judge BENEDICT, of New-York, presided.

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—A. W. DAVIS, an attaché of the McLean Hospital, was struck by a train, in Somerville, last night, and killed....The money due for the lease of the Norwich and Worcester Railroad was raised and deposited today on account of the Boston, Hartford and Erie Company.

BELFAST, Me., Aug. 4.—By a large and almost unanimous vote this city, today, decided to raise five per cent. of its valuation in aid of the construction of the Moosehead Lake Railroad, the completion of the enterprise to be in time to meet the lease to the Maine Central Railroad.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 4.—WM. THOMPSON (colored) was, today, arraigned before the Magistrate, charged with the murder of CHARLES H. RICHARDSON, who died on Monday from the effects of a blow received Saturday night. He was held for examination....HART R. PIERCE, keeper of the Vermont Saloon here, was shot, this evening, by JAMES A. FOSTER, whom he had ejected from the saloon a few minutes before. The wound was slight.

A Noted Trotting Horse Probably Permanently Injured—Accident to Lady Thorne.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The famous trotting mare, Lady Thorne, met with an accident here this morning, which will probably disqualify her for the turf. She fell from a bridge by which she was being led, into a car, and dislocated a hip joint. She trotted here yesterday, and beat Gorge Palmer.

Base-Ball—The Athletics Defeated—The White Stockings Win a Game—Tour of the Olympics.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 4.—The game between the Athletic Club, of Philadelphia, and Forest City Club, of Rockford, was won by the latter. The score was Forest City 18, Athletic 10.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—The match game of base-ball today at Ogden Park, between the White Stockings, of Chicago, and the Lone Stars, of New-Orleans, was won by the former. Score: White Stockings, 49; Lone Stars, 6. This is the first victory of the White Stockings for a long time.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The Harvards, of Cambridge, played the Nationals, of Washington, this afternoon. The former won, the score being Harvards 89, Nationals 12. The Olympic Club, of this city, left today for the West. They will play the Red Stockings of Cincinnati, the White Stockings of Chicago, the Forest City of Rockford, and other noted clubs of that section.

THE WEST.

Textile Fabrics—Opening of the Exposition at Indianapolis, Ind.—Tobacco Fair at Cincinnati—Proposed Reception of a Catholic Prelate—Large Fire at Columbus, Ohio.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. Aug. 4.—Owing to some misunderstanding, the annual opening of the exposition of textile fabrics, which should have been held Tuesday evening, was postponed, and took place yesterday, at the Rink. W. C. TILLINGHAST, President of the Board of Trade, made the opening address of welcome. He was followed by Mayor MACAULAY, who extended a hearty welcome to the visitors on the part of the city. GEORGE S. BOWER, President of the Association, responded. Gov. BAKER next spoke briefly. He was pleased to see so great an exhibition of manufacturing skill. The people of Indiana welcome all manufacturers. And he was gratified to learn of the interest he saw manifested by the Southern manufacturers. The industrial interests of the South and West were one. He joined the Mayor in extending a hearty welcome to the city and State. Addresses were also made by J. C. STEVENS, of Augusta, Ga., President of the Woolgrowers' Association, and J. B. STEBBINS, of Detroit; T. B. NORTON, Secretary of the General Association of Home Industry; JOHN S. HAYES, of Boston, Secretary of the National Association of Woolen Manufacturers, and several others, made brief addresses. A considerable amount of goods and machinery arrived today. There is every indication that the Exposition will be a complete success. The attendance today at the Exposition was quite large. All the goods and machinery have arrived and been placed in position. The principal part of the machinery was put in operation in the rink this morning. The Eagle Manufacturing Company of Georgia exhibits new articles of cotton blankets, very superior in quality. The exhibition thus far seems to be a complete success.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 4.—The fifth annual Fair of the Tobacco Trade Association took place yesterday. The attendance was large, and the number of entries was up to previous fairs. Premiums were offered in thirteen classes.....The sales of tobacco today at the Fair were spirited, and higher prices were obtained than at the last Fair. All the tobacco has not been sold. The Catholic Society held a meeting last night to make arrangements for a grand reception to Archbishop PURCELL on his return from Rome.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 4.—The mills of the Columbus Woolen Factory were burned at 4 o'clock this morning. MARK NEWMAN was killed by a falling wall. The loss, by the fire is about $40,000; insurance $25,000.

The Sioux City and Pacific Railway—Election of Officers—An Injunction Against the Rockland, Rock Island and St. Louis Road.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 4.—A meeting of the stock-holders of the Sioux City and Pacific Railroad Company, was held at Cedar Rapids, yesterday, and the following were elected directors: J. I. Blair and D. C. Bloss, New-Jersey; W. F. Ghidden, Oakes Ames and F. Nickerson, of Boston; W. W. Walker, Charles E. Walker and George Douglass, of Cedar Rapids, and H. S. Cremton, of Pennsylvania. The report of the earnings of the road for the year ending June 30, foots up $3,349,108.....Judge POTTER, today, at Monmouth, Ill., granted a preliminary injunction restraining the issue of Warren County bonds to the Rockland, Rock Island and St. Louis Railroad to the amount of $200,000. This causes much excitement among the friends of the road.

THE SOUTH.

Railway Dishonesty—Over-Issue of Stock in Baltimore—A Singular Affair in Louisville—Reported Serious Riot in Kentucky.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 4.—There were rumors, yesterday, of an over-issue of the stock of the North-western Virginia Railroad Company, commonly known as the Parkersburg Branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, which is leased and worked by the latter Company. The over-issue is stated in the morning papers to amount to $200,000, made by the Secretary of the Company, JOHN L. CRAWFORD, who has resigned his office. The amount at which the over-issue is fixed as a supposition merely, as no statement has been made by Mr. CRAWFORD, and the directors of the road have not concluded their examination. The over-issue is all hypothecated in Baltimore at about $15 on the share, the par value of which is $50. CRAWFORD, the Secretary of the Company, was the confidential clerk of the banking-house of ALEXANDER BROWN & SONS for many years. Ex-Senator VAN WINKLE, of West Virginia, President of the Company, it is stated, intrusted to the Secretary blank certificates of stock bearing his signature.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 4.—About 10 o'clock last night, JAMES W. BREEN entered the office occupied by W. A. SANDICK and attempted to shoot him. SANDICK drew a pistol and fired three shots, one taking effect in the head and one in the body of BREEN. In all probability he will die. The cause of the attempt is unknown, as BREEN was a stranger to SANDICK....A special dispatch to the Courier-Journal, from Lexington, Aug. 3, says a riot occurred at Harrodsburg, Mercer County, Monday evening, in which one white man was killed and several wounded. Three or four blacks were killed and fifteen or twenty wounded.

Miscegenation—A White Senator of Mississippi Marries a Colored Lady—The Ceremonies.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 4.—An unusual event occurred here last night in the marriage of Hon. ALBERT T. MORGAN, (white,) a Republican Senator in the Mississippi Legislature, to Miss CARRIE HIGGARS (colored.) The ceremony was performed by a colored minister. The couple left immediately for Cleveland, Ohio, Mr. MORGAN's former home, via Louisville. The affair naturally creates a sensation in the community. MORGAN is a lawyer of some ability, is of temperate habits, and was Colonel of a Michigan regiment of the Federal Army. The bride is of a decidedly dusky hue.

Reception to Senator Fenton at Saratoga—The Guests Present.

SARATOGA, Aug. 4.—The private residence of Gen. G. S. BATCHELOR, here, was thronged this evening with prominent politicians from abroad, guests at the hotels, and citizens who were invited to meet Senator FENTON. The greetings were cordial. Among those present were Hon. E. W. Leavenworth, Horace Greeley, Lieut.-Gov. Woodford, Gen. Sharpe, A. T. Stewart, Hon. T. E. Stewart, Hon. A. Bookes, Sinclair Tousey, Gen. Cochrane, Rev. Dr. Woolbridge, Rev. Dr. Cuyler, Collector Daniels, of Buffalo; R. Nelson Gere, of Syracuse; Collector Rockwell, of Glens's Falls; and State Senator Wood, of Allegheny. It was a decided ovation.

Miscellaneous Telegrams.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 4.—HORACE BROWN, reported killed in a riot at Peekskill, Tuesday night, was only stunned. He is on the street today. He was on a spree and threatened to club his assailant who struck him down with a stone. The affair was only a drunken brawl, and the reported shooters' riot is untrue.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Aug. 4.—JOHN BARRY and WILLIAM DUNCAN, on trial for rape on a Miss JAYNE a few weeks since, have been convicted and sentenced to thirty-two years each in the Penitentiary and a fine of $2,000 each —the full extent of the law.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The tannery of C. M. BELL, near Windsor, in this county, was struck by lightning and burned this morning. A barn was also burned. Loss, $15,000; partially insured.

FREMONT, Nebraska, Aug. 4.—The Treasurer of Dodge County, today, advertised all the Union Pacific Railroad lands in that county for sale, to pay the delinquent taxes on them.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 4.—If the State Senate, today, the joint resolution for the payment of bonds loaned to railroad companies was taken up and lost. The house voted to adjourn on Friday.

POLITICAL.

THE FALL CAMPAIGN.

Republican State General Committee—Meeting at Saratoga—The State Convention—The New-York Republican.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The Republican State Committee had a six hours' session at Congress Hall, today. A State Convention is called to meet at Saratoga Springs on the 7th of September. HAMILTON HARRIS was appointed to prepare an address to be published with the call, which is the same in terms as the one issued last year. Regarding the contests between the Seventh, Ninth and Fifteenth Districts in New-York City, the Committee heard arguments and decided to have a revision of the enrollment in the Seventh District. The Ninth District contestants compromised, and each side will have half of the committees. In the case of the Fifteenth District no action is deemed necessary. On the occasion of the serenade, last evening, at the Grand Union Hotel, the following speeches were made:

SPEECH OF SENATOR CONKLING.

I am assured that the motive of this visit is personal in part. I hope it is. In the unceasing round of politics, nothing is so good as the kindness and regard of those whose esteem we value. In return for your presence, I offer my thanks and well wishes to you all. You are Republicans—I am a Republican. We were never more earnest Republicans than now. Your presence is gratifying because it means more than personal regard for any man. It means adherence to principles, and the old flash and determination, and to win the old victories. The unity of the Republican Party, concord and harmony among Republicans everywhere, is the meaning of us all. The work of the Republican Party is not finished, nor is there any other party able or willing to finish it. The Republican Party has done enough indeed, more than any political organization in history. It has rescued a great Government from conspirators and traitors; it has conducted successfully the greatest and most costly war of the human race; it has administered government and finance in a period of great storms and events more momentous, and novel, than any in the annals of recorded time. Beyond all this, it has emancipated four million slaves and placed them on their feet clothed with the garment of American citizenship. It has recreated half a continent, it has established liberty and right everywhere, and made the name of American respected, if not terrible, among the nations of the earth. War has gone from us; the bloody shadow fallen on France—its tyrant seeks thrones, and kings are sick now. Perhaps war has gone with avenging hand to smite the sick man who dominated the land of LAFAYETTE—perhaps war strikes the hour for the Emperor who plotted and schemed against us in the day of our trial. However this may be, God grant that no harm may come to Germany. Germany has fought with us, the sons of Germany fought for us, and cheers of victory went up in the German tongue from the burning battle-fields of our rebellion. Germany's Constitution is like ours, Prussia believes as we do, in education for all, and Republicans everywhere join me in the hope that no harm may be there to Germany. Returning to our own land, war as I said, has gone. A noble, blest with the opportunities and charged with the responsibilities of a dear-bought peace, is either to be crushed by the weight of her magnificent destiny, or to rise to a height of civilization and grandeur which the nations of the world have reached, and never surpassed, as we know. In the career before us, as in every free system, Government is to be directed by political organizations. The Republican party is now directing national affairs, and it has never failed in the presence of emergencies or events. It cannot be spared, the nation needs it yet. It is the Congress of which it has become my here to speak. It has a President who has never disappointed a just expectation, and who, as a patriot, a soldier, a President and a man, has earned the confidence and admiration of his countrymen. Turning from the greatest of military commanders and our military successes, he assumed the most responsible commanding of civil trusts, and he has so borne himself in his great office that every reasonable expectation has been realized. Were we ever stronger abroad than now? In what has the Administration failed at home? The revenue has been honestly collected—so honestly, that for fifteen months, with the sources of revenue curtailed by Congress, the receipts have exceeded by sixty-six millions the receipts for the corresponding period under the preceding Administration. The public debt has been rapidly diminished, the public credit lifted up at home and abroad, and yet taxes have been diminished nine times. Eighty millions of taxes have just been dispensed with, fifty-seven millions of internal taxes and twenty-three of customs duties. Is there more that men had a right to expect? Such stewardship deserves, and will receive the public approbation. New-York's great State should add its general approval, and with concord among members of the same household of faith, New-York's great seal will attest it. We have at last an act of Congress under which an election may once more be held in the City of New-York—a law seeking to substitute a fair election for that scandalous farce which has been called an election in recent days. The provisions, I speak of, will call into being inspectors to watch the registry, the vote, and, above all, the count, and the Marshal is empowered to preserve order and safety at the polls. With a fair election, and votes fairly counted, we need only conciliation and unity among ourselves, and then action, earnest action, and New-York will pronounce for the Republican Party and the Administration of Gen. GRANT. The people, I am sure, will do not mean to make a speech, and, renewing my acknowledgments, I bid you all good night.

SPEECH OF HON. HORACE GREELEY.

MY FRIENDS: I presume I am indebted to the kindness of one of your number only for this attention, or whatever it may be called, and I will simply say a few words to you in response. Perhaps the fact that I am rather an older politician, and an older editor, than some of my contemporaries, is the reason why I am singled out from among the great many here who are younger than myself. It is something like a personal compliment; and I will therefore speak to the younger persons who are coming after me in my long career, and will suggest some considerations which may be useful to those who are now coming upon the stage of action. It is commonly believed that the life of a inactive politician leads him to grasp some temporary reward or aggrandizement, but the end of it is dust and ashes. I wish to give my testimony, as that of one nearly sixty years of age, and who for forty years has been actively engaged in political strife, and that without holding office or attaining wealth or position, that I feel that my career has been a satisfactory one. I rejoice to think that my pen has had some little influence in effectually settling some of the great questions of the age. I rejoicingly feel that, if my name shall be known at all in the next century, men will say of me, "He was one of those who fought against human slavery until human slavery disappeared from this country." That is to me a proud satisfaction, that, in the turmoil and tumult of political strife, there has been something more than mere agitation. Through years of political contention there has been developed a sentiment which has swept human slavery out of our country, and will soon sweep it off the face of the earth. I feel also that the great subject of popular education has made substantial progress in my time—progress in that which I feel sure is the right direction. We have in this State, as they have in other States, come by slow degrees to a clear comprehension of the truth that the education of all men's children in this Republic is every man's interest and every man's duty—that I need a common school in my district, not because I have or have not children, but because it is my interest that all children should be educated. There is a truth, that I regard as important, probably not yet comprehended, even by its advocates. When I think of the large proportion of the American people who have banded themselves together in a common resolve not to drink and not to incite others to drink, because they believe one country better without strong drink than with it, I feel that there is in such action not a moral purpose merely, but a moral attitude which may well challenge the admiration of the intelligent and reflecting. It proves that there is in a Republic like ours elements of progress, and elements of improvement, which will send over and over in the purification and elevation of the masses. I twice in former years traveled over Europe, and I found there many things better than we have here; but when I had crossed the British Channel, I traveled, perhaps, two thousand miles on the Continent, yet never once heard of a public meeting to promote education or temperance, or any question of social reform. Now is it not something to be citizens in a Republic like this, wherein men and women in the humblest stations in life are considering by what means they may promote the good of their fellows, and make the world better for their having lived in it? I rejoice that so many good working have been promoted—some of them I may say completed—in my day. The success of these efforts has made easier and aware the triumphs which you in your time will be called to achieve. In the faith that you will be found equal to your high responsibilities, and that your victories will surpass in beneficence those which have been accomplished, I bid you good night.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Probable Republican Victory in Tennessee—The North Carolina Election.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 4.—The election returns received at the Chronicle office up to a late hour, show a general Republican triumph throughout East Tennessee in today's election for Judicial officers. The majorities in this district are very decided and foreshadow triumphs in the important elections to follow in November.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 4.—Though there was much excitement today the election passed off quietly. No returns have yet been received. There were some attempts made to intimidate Conservative negroes. An altercation took place this afternoon between an Englishman and a Negro, the latter a candidate for the Senate, during which the latter was knocked down by the former for calling him a European convict. Considerable excitement followed, but it was soon quieted by the Mayor. Both political parties are sanguine of success.

Temperance State Tickets in Michigan—The Kentucky Election—Politics in Virginia—Congressional Nominations in Illinois.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 4.—The Temperance Mass Convention of the State at Jackson, yesterday, put in nomination a full State ticket and adopted resolutions affirming the Chicago platform adopted last Fall, and favoring the gradual payment of the national debt.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 4.—The election returns from most of the counties are coming in slowly. As a general thing the Democrats have elected their ticket.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 4.—The Conservative Central Executive Committee have issued an address recommending the postponement of Congressional nominations until the State is redistricted. They oppose the entangling of the Conservatives in any party alliance, and recommend that the party in Virginia support that national party which upholds the banner of constitutional liberty, equal laws and a just administration.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—The Republican Congressional Convention of the Eighth Illinois District succeeded, yesterday, in nominating Col. JONATHAN MERRIAM, of Tazewell County, on the 186th ballot. The Democratic Congressional Convention of the Tenth Illinois District met at Carlinville, yesterday, and on the seventh ballot nominated Judge E. Y. RICE, of Montgomery County, for Congress.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 4.—Gen. R. C. SCHENCK was renominated for Congress by the Republican Convention of the Third District, which met at Middletown today.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Another term of MONTGOMERY BLAIR in Congress is apprehended.

The Democracy of Georgia hold their State Convention at Atlanta on the 18th inst.

According to the Cincinnati Commercial Judge WILKES, of Xenia, Ohio, declines a renomination for Congress.

The Republican Member of Congress for the Ohio Fourth District, Hon. JOB E. STEVENSON, has declined a renomination.

The Democrats of Colorado have nominated GEORGE W. MILLER, of Denver, for delegate to Congress.

CASSIUS M. CLAY is to speak in Colorado Territory, in advocacy of Republicanism, in the approaching canvass.

A working men's candidate for Governor of California, is among the possibilities; PHILIP A. ROACH is spoken of.

In the Sixth Ohio District, the Republican candidate for Congress is Hon. JOHN A. SMITH, the present representative, who has been renominated.

All the States except Oregon, New-Hampshire, Connecticut and Rhode Island hold elections this Fall. United States Senators are to be chosen in sixteen States.

The Democratic disposition to run HUMPHREY MARSHALL, of Kentucky, for Congress, is checked by the difficulty in finding "two districts to unite on him" as he would require two seats.

Hon. A. F. PERRY is spoken of as the nominee of the Republicans of the First Congressional District of Ohio, although a Cincinnati paper regards Mr. SAMUEL EGGLESTON as the favorite of the "ring."

The Massachusetts temperance "irreconcilables" propose a Convention in Boston, Aug. 17, to organize an independent prohibitory party, and name a State ticket, which shall be entirely disconnected from existing societies and party affiliations.

The Democratic newspapers predict defeat for Hon. A. W. TAYLOR, the Democratic candidate for Congress in the Twenty-first Pennsylvania District, (COVODE's,) based on the assumption that Mr. COVODE is the only man who can carry the district for the Republicans. We shall see.

The Republican Convention of the Fourth Congressional District of Missouri, which nominated Capt. HAYNES, editor of the Springfield Patriot, adopted the following:

Resolved, That we are in favor of the tariff to such an extent as will furnish a revenue to the Government, and of such a readjustment of the duties as will do justice alike to the agricultural and manufacturing interests of the country.

The succession to Gen. SCHENCK's seat in Congress from the Third Ohio District is said to be likely to fall upon Hon. A. G. MCBURNEY, formerly Lieutenant-Governor of the State. This gentleman, has, however, published a card declining to be a candidate, which the Dayton Journal interprets to mean so long as there is any possibility that Gen. SCHENCK may accept.

A Western paper makes up the following "slate" for the Republicans of Missouri: Governor—B. GRATZ BROWN, St. Louis, of Iron County. Lieutenant-Governor—S. W. BRADLEY, Green County. Secretary of State—S. HAYS, Buchanan County. Treasurer—W. Z. DALLMEYER, Gasconade County. State Auditor—D. M. DRAPER, Montgomery County. Adjutant-General—Gen. ISAAC F. SHEPARD, St. Louis County.

In addition to the names already suggested as Republican candidates for Governor, the Rochester Democrat proposes the following: E. G. Spalding, A. S. Upham, Peter Cooper, Hamilton Fish, E. W. Leavenworth, Geo. H. Andrews, Calvin T. Hulburd, Gen. James Wood, Noah Davis, R. G. Lapham, Horace Greeley, Ezra Cornell, Robert S. Hale, Freeman Clarke, Gen. J. H. Martindale, T. M. Pomeroy, John O'Donnell, Ira Harris.

The successor to the command of the Stonewall Brigade of the rebel army, during the waning days of the Confederacy, is a candidate for Congress on the Democratic ticket, from the Eighth Virginia District. He is known as Gen. WILLIAM TERRY, and his election is considered probable, as his district, which lies in the angle of the State between North Carolina and Tennessee, contains few white Republicans and a sparse negro population.

The renomination of Mr. PORTER, of Virginia, by the Richmond District Congressional Convention, on the 3d inst., does not receive the approbation of all the Republicans of the district. The State Journal's repudiation of the action of the Convention seems to be justified by the instructions to the delegates of at least one county, Chesterfield, who were directed to "use all efforts to defeat the nomination of CHARLES H. PORTER."

The Cincinnati Times says the Louisville Courier-Journal is intensely agonized about the "great army of insolvent and rapacious plunderers," and pathetically remarks: "To the repast set apart for these voracious myriads, not one Democrat is admitted either by popular election or Executive appointment." So, after all, it is not the plundering which fills the souls of the Democracy with woe, but the fact that they are not invited to participate.

The Democratic electors of the County of Albany, N. Y., "are respectfully requested to send the same number of representatives as composed the last County Convention to a County Convention, to be held at the house of JAMES B. HOGEN, New-Salem, on Thursday, the 25th day of August, 1870, for the purpose of fixing a new basis of representation for future County Conventions, made necessary by the increase of the number of Wards in the city of Albany, and the incorporation of the city of Cohoes.

A Monster Sentenced to Death.

The Baltimore Gazette of Aug. 4 says: "The trial of JOHN HENRY SALMON for the murder of his mother and brother, which has been going on for some weeks past at Charlottesville, Va., was concluded by a verdict of guilty against the prisoner. On Saturday last the final sentence of the Court was announced as follows: 'The judgment of the Court is that you, JOHN HENRY SALMON, be hanged by the neck until you are dead; and that execution of this judgment upon you, JOHN H. SALMON, be made and done by the Sheriff of this county, on Friday, the 4th day of November next, between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M. of the same day, at some suitable place in this county other than the yard adjoining the jail of this county.' The sentence was received by the prisoner with unusual calmness, he not showing the least sign of nervousness or confusion, but maintaining that stolid indifference which has characterized him ever since the crime was committed."

ITALY.

The Ecclesiastical Spoliation Scheme—Attitude of the Government Toward France and Prussia—The Lighting of Florence—Manufacture of Amercan Wines in Parts of Tuscany.

From Our Own Correspondent.

FLORENCE, Thursday, July 14, 1870.

A law has been voted this week supplementary to that of several years ago, called by the clergy the Ecclesiastical Spoliation Scheme. The present law sweeps into the public Treasury what is left of property—and it is in the aggregate considerable—upon which the clergy live, and by which worship is supported. The Church and its servants will soon be reduced to the smallest possible allowance, and the inducement to become a priest, for any money profit accruing, will be taken away. "As poor as a church mouse," instead of "as fat as a priest," will be the phrase to be applied to the ministers of the altar. The law also reduces the number of ecclesiastics, of various degrees, at present officiating in metropolitan and parish churches. The number of canons is fixed at twelve for each cathedral—an immense reduction of those at present getting their living by repeating official litanies. The Cathedral of Florence has actually not less than sixty of this class of priests. The new step taken excites extreme indignation among the clergy, manifested in their organs and in conversation; but there is no help. These changes must cause a rapid approach to the American system, which makes the ministers of religion directly dependent upon the people for their means of support.

FINANCIAL MATTERS.

The Revenue law, so long under discussion, was voted as a whole, by a small majority, without any new incident, this week—a question disposed of which has been the cause of as much anger as wearisome. The next important measure connected with finance is that of the proposed convention with the bank. The Government Party is exhibiting a little firmness, a degree of courage quite necessary, if the country is to be persuaded that there is a power somewhere ready to bear the responsibility of action, and make a trial of policy, even if it should be proved after-ward that wiser councils might have been planned. What may be called a mild agitation is that which has now for object a change in the directors of affairs.

THE ATTITUDE OF ITALY ON THE WAR QUESTION.

The Marquis VISCONTI-VENOSTA, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, was, this week, called upon in Parliament to reply to inquiries concerning the attitude to be maintained by Italy in case of a French-Prussian war, and the continued French occupation of Rome, in connection with the words alleged to have been used lately by the French Minister, OLLIVIER, to the effect that the Italian Kingdom is not yet well established. To the last of these inquiries, Signor VISCONTI-VENOSTA replied, that as soon as it was known here that such language had been attributed to Signor OLLIVIER, although in an unofficial conversation, that functionary was written to for an explanation; the response to which was, that the conversation was not correctly reported. But there is a lingering feeling of dissatisfaction, growing out of the suspicion that the opinion attributed to the Minister is that of official circles in France. Upon the Roman question, the Minister replied that the policy of the Government would still be that of waiting, as the one most in accordance with the dignity and the interest of the nation. Certainly the actual state of things cannot continue forever, and the Minister begged the Chamber to leave to the Government liberty of judgment and of action in dealing with a question to which its whole responsibility is pledged. Upon the Spanish King question, the Minister simply said that the good offices of Italy would be joined to those of the other Powers to the end of preserving, if possible, the peace of Europe.

THE LIGHTING OF FLORENCE.

The municipality and citizens of Florence are embarrassed with the question as to how half the city shall be lighted. A few years ago, when gas was introduced, the foolish step was taken of giving to a foreign company a monopoly for a hundred years of lighting the city within the walls. As those walls have been thrown down for the greater part of the circuit, and a belt of half a mile wide added to the limits, the municipality finds itself at the mercy of the company. Instead of accepting its terms it preferred to depend upon American and hundreds of petroleum lamps have been put up in the new streets. From the other side of the Atlantic have come two gifts to bless and cheer European populations—the sewing-machine and mineral-oil—gifts universally accepted and gratefully acknowledged. In hundreds of houses and shops the machine is introduced, and day is prolonged for its use by the cheap medium for illumination. All over this city the shops are placarded with notices of articles from America for sale. One of the latest novelties advertised is Vino d' America.

NEW KINDS OF WINE.

The late Marquis RIDOLFI, while Minister of Agriculture under the Government of LEOPOLDO, did much for the improvement of many kinds of field and garden culture, and being himself one of the most extensive vine-growers of the country, his attention was directed to improvements in its cultivation. He introduced from the United States cuttings from some of the varieties indigenous to that country, and with such success that now, in parts of Tuscany, considerable quantities of wine are produced known as "wine of America." The color is a fine garnet, and the taste and smell are strongly marked with the flavor of the strawberry. This wine is much in favor, and its production is extending to meet the demand; and the good results of the first attempt will probably lead to new experiments with American vines, for one great advantage is that they are not attacked by the European vine malady.

EFFECT OF THE WAR NEWS.

The incident of the Hohenzollern nomination has some opportunely to relieve the dullness of the hot Midsummer solstice. The grain harvest is cut and gathered in, and in fancy is heard the armed heel of the soldier crushing the dry stubble of the peaceful fields. The Bourse is agitated, and the funds are falling; those of Italy, with no part in the quarrel, falling most of all. This, because French blood is boiling within an ambitious, and what might become this time, not sterile rage. France seems determined to pick a quarrel with her neighbor; for the cloud in the sky does not seem big enough to bring on in the order of nature such a tempest. The French are doubtless thinking quite as much of the Rhine, and how to get there, as they are of the offense of a German Prince on the Spanish throne. As for the Italians, their love for the French does not increase, and more animated expressions of hostility are heard every day. The Government—that is, the Ministry and the Crown—are on the side of France, but the hearts of the people have not French sympathies. There is a disturbing consciousness of certain advantages enjoyed by France, not yet in the possession of Italy, and impatience of the slow processes by which alone the envied standard can be reached. To be patronized makes a proud spirit chafe.

ANGELICO.

Emigration to the South.

The Meridian (Miss.) Gazette says: "This subject has received a good deal of consideration by our citizens since the war; many efforts have been made to fill up the waste places of our State by a class of industrious citizens, who would assist in developing the agricultural resources of the State; but, as yet, little has been accomplished, owing perhaps, to some extent, to the plans and means to induce them to come. We are glad to learn, however, that Messrs. LIEB & GALLAGHER have perfected arrangements with the Vicksburg and Meridian Railroad Company, by which they have reason to believe the desired object will be accomplished. This places at the disposal of these gentlemen about 200,000 acres of land, belonging to the railroad, which they will dispose of to immigrants or actual settlers, on a credit of five years, and at a very low price; the arrangement enables all who desire to settle in the South to obtain a home. This scheme was first presented to the Company by Messrs. LIEB & GALLAGHER about two months ago, since which time it has been steadily gaining favor with the officers, when, at their meeting last Thursday, it received the approval of the Board of Directors. We are glad to learn that the Company exhibited a very liberal spirit in the matter, and will at once place all the necessary funds at the disposal of Messrs. LIEB & GALLAGHER, to enable them to carry out their plans. And arrangements have been completed with the Vicksburg and St. Louis Packet Company to transport immigrants from the latter place to Vicksburg. An office has been opened at Vicksburg, and Gen. LIEB is now in St. Louis, making arrangements to open one there. The principal offices will be at Meridian and Chicago. We wish the enterprise success."

A BLOODY FEUD.

The Latest Tennessee Tragedy—Murder of Col. Dickens—A Shocking Record of Crime.

From the Memphis Avalanche of Sunday.

Col. THOMAS DICKENS, well known to the people of Shelby County, and whose name is familiar to the readers of the Avalanche, was way-laid on yesterday morning by some fiend, and his life destroyed, in daylight, on a public road. The whole city was shocked and astounded by the news. The manner in which the terrible crime was done added to the horror that seized the public mind, and especially because the victim was Col. THOMAS DICKENS, whose feud with WADE H. BOLTON, and whose acquittal for the killing of WADE H. BOLTON is still fresh in the memory of our readers. Col. DICKENS had passed Friday night with his neighbor, JOHN C. JOHNSON, who lives on Col. Creek, about six miles north-east of Raleigh, in this county. Yesterday morning he mounted his horse and started for home, a distance of four miles, and while riding leisurely along, all alone, about 7 A. M., and not suspecting any evil or harm, he was suddenly fired on by an assassin concealed in the undergrowth near the public road. The fiend discharged the contents of a double-barreled shot-gun into the body of the old man, instantly killing him and mangling his body dreadfully. The work was deliberately done; both barrels were fired, one after another, with an interval of a few seconds. As the first shot left the old man a corpse in the saddle, and after he fell to the ground the second fire was heard. The gun was loaded with buckshot, and as the assassin was within ten paces of Col. DICKENS, the effect of the balls was terrible, mangling and tearing the body to pieces. The horse turned back and was caught at BOLTON'S store by the young man in charge of it. The shocking news was soon known, and in the direction from whence the shots came, and the blotches of blood on the saddle and rump of the horse at once spoke of the murder. But the horrible catalogue of crimes linked with the BOLTON and DICKENS families instantly appeared to the minds of the people at BOLTON'S store, and it was with difficulty that any one or more could be found brave enough to go to the scene of murder.

MOTIVE FOR THE CRIME.

"Who did the deed?" is the question asked by every one, and answered by no one. The bloody feud between WADE H. BOLTON and THOMAS DICKENS is involuntarily alluded to as furnishing an explanation. But how is it possible that this can be so, when WADE BOLTON is dead? Who represents WADE BOLTON? In May, 1867, ISAAC L. BOLTON killed a Kentuckian, named MCMILLAN. The deceased at the above mark

SPAIN AND THE WAR.

Strong Feeling in Favor of the French—The Attitude of the Republicans—Movements of the Agitators.

From Our Own Correspondent.

MADRID, Wednesday, July 20, 1870.

At a time when Europe is held in suspense and is anxiously waiting for the denouement of the great drama about to be played out on the banks of the Rhine, it is but natural that Spain should be keenly alive to what may be its probable results to herself. In official circles here, it is advisable to convoke the Cortes at once, so that the form of government of the country may be determined before victory may have granted, either to France or Prussia, the power of exercising any influence in favor of this or that candidate for the Crown. The Democrats devoted to Gen. PRIM, and also the General himself, do not consider it desirable to convocate the Cortes before the date already fixed upon, viz., the 1st of October next. In this way they would avoid the accusations and re-criminations that would be brought against them, and the arousing still more of passions sufficiently excited at the present moment.

FEELINGS OF PARTIES.

I must not conceal from you the fact, that a party of the Spanish Deputies are desirous of seeing the French armies victorious, in the hope that France would assist them in placing the son of the Ex-Queen on the Throne; but if ever that should happen the Republicans would take up arms and commence a struggle that would only terminate with the life of the last of their men. Another party, the one which supports PRIM, and which in return is petted by him, would like to see the Prussian arms victorious, for in that case PRINCE LEOPOLD, upon whom all their hopes now rest, would receive the Crown of Spain as a reward of perseverance granted to M. DE BISMARCK, and the reigning family of Prussia.

ATTITUDE OF THE REPUBLICANS.

In the midst of this discord produced by political passion, the Republicans protest with all their energy against what they call the conspiracies of the Monarchists, some of whom have a foot in the French, while others have one in the Prussian camp. Says the journal of M. CASTELAR:

"Unhappy Spain, your political position is deplorable. Your policy since the establishment of a constitutional Government has been but a mixture of terms of war, treachery and blood. The shock of violent passions agitates this poor country. The desire for the public good is dying out. In Spain the man who is patriotic and desirous of the public welfare is, so to speak, stifled. Patriotism is a chimera; truth and disinterestedness have a contrary meaning here. Loyalty, good faith and political honesty are but sarcasms. In Spain, among the generality of politicians, one only meets with pride, ambition, selfishness and apostacy. With all these patriots the country means the Budget, and that is why we are constantly witnessing useless insurrections and revolutions which can only end in a change of persons, and why the misfortunes of Spain, instead of coming to an end, go on increasing."

THE SPANISH MONARCHISTS.

At the present time all the Spanish monarchists turn their regards to the north of Europe, in order to be able to appeal to the strongest party to assist them in placing their particular candidate on the throne to the detriment of all others and the Republic. The Carlists are in despair at learning that their idol, DON CARLOS, has been forced to leave France by order of the French Government. I am assured that he has returned to Vevay in Switzerland. You will see that the Legitimist organs are constantly speaking of their party being about to take up arms. There is no serious intention of this kind, you may rest assured. These reports are only intended to keep up a state of alarm and uneasiness. Conformably with the expressed wishes of the Cortes, the Republicans are asking for a general amnesty for prisoners condemned for political offenses, and I believe it will not be long before the Ministry sets the political detenus free, and opens the ports of Spain to all who have been exiled.

A Runaway Match and What Came of It—The Bride Bound and Locked Up.

The Columbus, (Ohio) Journal of a recent date says: On Saturday, at 9 o'clock A. M., Mr. SHERDRACK NEEL and Miss SARAH EVANS were married at the house of J. H. DEMING, Justice of the Peace in Franklin township. Miss EVANS is about twenty years of age, and NEEL stated when he secured the license, that he was over age. The license was issued by Judge PUGH, on NEEL making affidavit to this fact. Miss EVANS' parents were opposed to the match, and ordered the young lady not to speak with the young man. The young lady showed her contempt for the order by going off with NEEL on Sunday morning and becoming his wife. After the ceremony at Justice DEMING's, the newly-married pair went to the house of Mr. BRADFORD, NEEL's step-father, at North Columbus, or near there. There they remained until Monday morning, when the two brothers of Miss EVANS made a raid on the Bradford establishment, carried their sister out of the house by main force, put her in the buggy, tied her hands and feet with the lines, and in spite of her cries and struggles and the resistance of the women of the house, carried her back in triumph to her father's home. There she was kept until yesterday, locked in a room. Yesterday Mr. NEEL made application for a writ of habeas corpus, claiming that his wife was forcibly detained by her parents. The writ was issued, served by the Sheriff, and yesterday evening the young lady was produced in Court. The marks were still on the woman's arms where she had been tied, and there were other signs of rough treatment. She told her story a little nervously, and with a defiant air; said she went away from home boldly, and took nothing but what belonged to her. After hearing the testimony of the different witnesses, Judge PUGH sustained the writ, discharged Mrs. NEEL, and ruled that the defendants in the case, the EVANS, should pay costs of prosecution, as they were the first offenders in kidnapping another man's wife. Mr. NEEL, the husband, was not in Court. The constable had a warrant for his arrest on a charge of perjury, and he had been warned of the fact. Mrs. NEEL was in charge of Mr. BRADFORD, and on the decision of the Judge went out of the room in his company. Mr. EVANS claims that NEEL is a trifling fellow, and that this action has been animated by the wish to secure the daughter's welfare.

A Murderer Arrested—He Confesses His Guilt.

From the Nashville (Tenn.) Union, July 30.

It will be remembered that some time during last Winter a murder was committed in Maury County in circumstances that excited considerable indignation and comment. The perpetrators of the deed, were published at the time. The name of the man killed was HENRY or HAL RAY, and the party who committed the act was a negro named DICK CUNNINGHAM. There was a reward offered at the time by interested parties of $800, and, we believe, an additional reward by the Governor. Since the transaction the negro, CUNNINGHAM, has been dodging about from place to place, eluding the officers and the vigilance of the law. Encouraged by the lapse of time that had intervened, and the hope that the deed had comparatively passed out of mind, he ventured to take a trip on the railroad. It was a fatal trip to him. Yesterday he was seen and recognized on the train coming this way at Franklin by Mr. LAWRENCE KHUN. Mr. KHUN boarded the train and came on to the city, also keeping a sharp eye on the darkey, whose suspicions, however, had evidently become aroused. On reaching the depot CUNNINGHAM got on a street car, followed by his lynx-eyed pursuer, and came on to town. Reaching the city without losing sight of his man, Mr. KHUN gave notice to Capt. EVERETT and Mr. CRUNK, of the Police force. CUNNINGHAM did not tarry long in the crowded parts of the thoroughfare, but went straight out to Park-street, where he was arrested and taken before Justice WILKINSON. The full measure of his offence was well known and his identification complete. He saw that his case was a desperate one, and confessed his guilt.

Shocking Case of Suicide—A Shoe-maker Blows His Brains Out.

From the Cincinnati Commercial, Aug. 2.

The usual quiet of Avondale was broken by a terrible suicide last evening. A shoe-maker named HENRY WITZLEBEN, aged forty-eight years, having finished his work, sought, as was his custom, a little frolic and fun at a neighboring drinking-saloon. He drank freely, and left the saloon in a drunken condition. In this state he wended his way to his home, muttering insane threats to those he met, but was not answered until he arrived at what he called his home—a place which his debauchery had made a den of misery. His ill-treated wife, who had prepared his supper for him, persuaded him to sit down and eat. As he ate, he began abusing her, using the foulest language, rewarding her kindness with his horrid curses, and her love with fiendish threats. Having finished his supper, he staggered to his shop followed by his wife, who entreated him to return home and go to bed. Her pleadings were of no avail, for, seizing an old musket which he had kept for the purpose of shooting birds, he put a load into it, and while doing so, in drunken accents told his wife which she must die first. Terrified at this speech and its accompanying action, the poor woman ran from the shop. She had gone but a short distance when she heard the report of the gun. Instantly she returned to the steps and remains of her husband. Around the mangled remains of her husband she placed the gun, great too to move the poor creature. The shot carried away the greater portion of his head, and therefore life was soon extinct. He leaves a wife and four children.

THE OIL REGIONS.

Latest Discoveries—A One Hundred and Fifty Barrel Well at Shamburg—The Allegheny Oil Fields.

The Titusville Herald says: "The Conaghy well, upon the McCray Farm, Petroleum Centre, has not decreased in production since striking, but, on the contrary, maintained nearly a steady production of between 200 and 300 barrels daily. The Delzell & McCray District carries the palm for large and productive wells, and another well upon the McCray Farm is about ready to strike, with a fleetness unsurpassed in any previous strike in this locality. A new well upon the Chicago Tract, at Shamburg, which was recently torpedoed, was doing 150 barrels yesterday, and promises to be as productive as any previously struck upon this territory. The Gerrit Thomas Well, at Pithole, is also doing a decent 15 barrels, having cut loose from its salt water.

The Oil City Times of Monday says that the well put down by OWSTON & BOWERS, on Shaffer Run, was tubed on Friday last, and is now producing fifty barrels daily. This locality is expecting quantities, and there are several more wells going down in that locality. Our townsman, COL. DUNCAN, has been exceedingly unfortunate with his well on this territory, the tools having been stuck in the hole for several months, and, so far, no results from his investment and exertions.

A well located on the Watson property between the point and the toll-gate, Franklin, was struck on Wednesday last, and we understand was on Friday last, pumping at the rate of ten barrels daily. Its pumping off the head it produced first day. Hoof!

A gentleman of Erie is willing to bet that, inside of five years, oil will be found in the vicinity of Erie, as abundantly as upon Oil Creek. He argues, "where there's smoke there's fire, and where there's gas there's the."

A new well on the Hoffman farm, West Hickory, struck yesterday, yielding forty barrels per day, owned by ARMSTRONG.

The East Brady Independent has the following in regard to the Allegheny oil-field: The following statement will show the progress making in development in this district: Walker well No. 1, 1,100 feet; Walker well No. 2, 600 feet; Moody & Jennings, on Jennings farm, 750 feet; Dr. James well No. 1, Jennings farm, 750 feet; Dr. James well No. 2, Meldren farm, 400 feet; Jennings & Gordon, Meldren farm, 650 feet. The Armstrong well is under the management of Mr. WALKER. They are drawing tubing with the intention of drilling it through the third sand and torpedoing. This will, we trust, prove a thorough test. A great anxiety is felt in regard to this well, and everything is hoped for from the efforts now being made to test it. In a few weeks a number of wells will be completed, when we look for important strikes that will equal if not rival the Armstrong. The well, after the new engine had been "set up" and everything put in working order, began steadily to produce oil at the rate of from ten to fifteen barrels per day; but they soon became dissatisfied with that for a production, and tore up screw, threw tubing, began drilling, and ordered ten barrels of benzine—which is now lying at the well—and began rapidly preparing for a torpedo. They seem to be right, and we hope they are. We favor the plan, for it will open the crevices which must be certainly clogged, or rather which must be partially filled, by the amount of brigading that has been done lately. We visited PARKER's on Wednesday last, and found matters somewhat dull owing to the downward tendency in the price of oil. But few new strikes have been recently made, and operators are waiting for an improvement in the market. The amount of oil in barrels. Oil is quoted at $2 to $2 25, and few sales.

The Fox farm wells are producing a good deal of oil.

The Kribbs well, on the Kelly farm, was torpedoed last week, and for two hours after pumped at the rate of seventy-five barrels per day. When the pump is in working order it will be a seventy-five barrel well.

Two wells are about to be put down at Rimerton; one in the village and the other on the opposite side of the river. Work is to be commenced immediately.

The Redbank Era says: A short distance below the mouth, in town down, 1,400 feet, with a good show of oil. It is to be tubed and tested this week.

The Clarion Democrat says: No oil has been found at Bryson or Deer Creek, or anywhere along the upper Clarion, though wells are not all tested. The new well at Bryson pumps salt water in fair quantities, and they (the Company) have commenced the manufacture of salt. The Alum Rock well is being drilled deeper. A number of good wells have recently been tested in Perry Township and up along the Clarion River.

Grant's Administration—Senator Harlan's Opinion of the General.

The following letter was written to a gentleman in Florida in reply to a communication addressed to Senator HARLAN, of Iowa, asking for information about the Administration of Gen. GRANT:

UNITED STATES SENATE CHAMBER, WASHINGTON, July 30, 1870.

My Dear Colonel:

In reply to your favor of the 18th I have to say that the criticisms of President GRANT and his Administration found in Southern papers, and supported by certain Republican papers, so called, in the North, are without sufficient foundation. President GRANT'S habits, as far as I am able to learn, and as I firmly believe, are exemplary in every respect. He is a gentleman in his family, officially and socially, always manifesting great intelligence, both in conversation and in the discharge of his official duties. He has not always appointed great men to civil stations, but very few can be named who are destitute of respectable talents, and as a rule they are honest and faithful. And in this connection allow me to say that our Government is so simple in its form and machinery that great talents are not absolutely necessary to secure success in its administration. Hence, honesty and industry, supported by medium talents in public station, ought to be satisfactory to the people. I think so, and I intend to vote, so far as my action can influence it, to continue this Administration another term, and I predict the people will so decide. That President GRANT has made some mistakes, I freely admit; but as they were mistakes, and not intentional errors, the presumption is that they will, so far as practicable, be avoided in the future. And it is by no means certain that any of our greatest and most experienced statesmen would not, if in his situation, have committed errors equally grave. That the Government is, on the whole, being carefully and prudently administered and the laws faithfully enforced, without bitterness, fear, favor, or affection," no one can truthfully deny. The honest and faithful collection of the revenue has enabled the Government to reduce the public debt at a rate below ten millions of dollars per month, on an average, since the close of President GRANT'S inauguration, and warranted Congress in greatly reducing the rate of taxation. This ought to be satisfactory. But there are those who desire to break down this administration for the purpose of advancing their own interests; and I regret to add that some of them are shining lights in the Republican Party. As to changes and proposed changes in office, to which you refer, I need only say that so far as they have occurred, I am of the opinion the service has been improved. There are, of course, some exceptions. I would not, with my limited information, have recalled Mr. MOTLEY; but no one can find fault with Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN as his successor. The latter is not probably the equal of the former in the field of battle; but Mr. MOTLEY is hardly the equal of the latter in jurisprudence and statesmanship. Personally, I am satisfied with President GRANT'S Administration. Taking it all in all, I doubt if any one of our leading statesmen of greater pretensions would improve it. I have felt such a sense of safety and security for all our free institutions since he came to the Presidential office, and a freedom from solicitude and anxiety, whilst pursued me day and night, for two years preceding, like an omen of evil, that I feel like protesting against a change, unless for the gravest reasons. It is true, as you state, that some influential public journals of Republican politics have assailed Mr. GRANT'S Administration, and have used Congress with equal recklessness; and in such case, as I think, without sufficient reasons. The conductors of papers are, like the rest of us, only human. They have their likes and dislikes, and are not always wise enough to suppress the spurs of party difficulty, especially when disappointed in their personal aspirations. I believe I have now traversed all your inquiries, answering them frankly as you requested. With great respect yours truly, JAMES HARLAN.

Col. THOS. J. SAUNDERS, Tallahassee, Fla.

The Evanston, Ill., Outrage—Sympathy With the Sufferers.

The Chicago Post of Aug. 2, says:

"A meeting of the citizens of Evanston was held last evening, to express the indignation of the inhabitants at the outrage recently perpetrated on Mrs. WOODRICK and her daughter. Judge SAMUEL DOUGLAS was elected Chairman. The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the outrage recently perpetrated in this village, in which two poor and unprotected women were cruelly and shamefully assaulted by a crowd of lawless men, was an act of cowardly brutality, deserving the instant and unmeasured reprobation of all who would shield the humblest home and the lowliest woman from ruffianly violence.

Whereas, By the recent outrage in our village, two helpless women have been reduced to a condition which calls for the sympathy and material assistance of the public; therefore,

Resolved, That Mrs. A. H. HOOD, Mrs. M. C. CLARK, Mrs. E. HASKINS and Mrs. JULIUS WHITE be a committee of vigilance whom their necessities may require distributed, consisting of wood and lawn, a great variety of evergreen and fruit trees; good garden. Will be sold for two-thirds of its value to settle an estate. Apply to W. G. TALMAN,

No. 16 Fletcher-st., New-York.

Subscriptions amounting to $660 were taken up, after which the meeting adjourned."

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

No transactions were effected at the Exchange, yesterday, and hardly any one was in attendance. Thus far this week but one sale has been made, and there is little chance now for any activity in the market. The fact cannot be denied, that real estate matters are "flat," for in public the only sales which are made are those ordered by decree of Court, while in private the transactions are few. A glance at the transfers recorded each day show each week a decrease in business, and in all branches of the trade dullness is the chief characteristic. Submarket sales up, for this time have been the only exception. But of these few are at present advertised. There is now but little hope felt, by those experienced, that any better state of affairs will prevail until Fall, when a general revival of business and the return of residents to the City will cause a demand for various classes of property, resulting, it is hoped, in an active market.

The auction of JOHNSON & MILLER, yesterday, of lots at Carlstadt, N. J., was well attended, eight cases of the special train being filled with parties from the City, principally Germans, who were interested in the sale. The day was fine, and the absence of the usual ocean breeze was the only drawback to the enjoyment of the excursion. After some sixty lots had been disposed of the storm set in, greatly to the disappointment of all concerned, and a postponement was rendered necessary. The day fixed for the next sale is the 16th instant, when the remaining lots will be struck off. Such as were sold brought good prices, full particulars in regard to which will be found below. Each lot is 25x100.

Supplementary Sale of Sales Yesterday.

CARLSTADT, N. J.
By Johnson & Miller.

BLOCK NO. 7.

4 lots, Nos. 21 to 24, 75th-st., 100x100	$720
4 lots, Nos. 25 to 28, 75th-st., and FORTY-SIX., 100x100	720
4 lots, Nos. 29 to 32, 75th-st., and FORTY-SIX., 100x100	700
6 lots, Nos. 9 to 12, 7th-st., 100x100

BLOCK NO. 8.

4 lots, Nos. 37 to 40, Germania-av., and 7th-st., 25x100	$600

BLOCK NO. 7.

2 lots, Nos. 25 and 26, 6th-st., near Germania-av., 25x100	$300
2 lots, Nos. 23 and 24, 6th-st., near Germania-av., 25x100	300
2 lots, Nos. 21 and 22, 6th-st., near Germania-av., 25x100	300
4 lots, Nos. 27 to 30, 7th-st., near Germania-av., 25x100	640

BLOCK NO. 5.

4 lots, Nos. 21 to 24, 7th-st., 25x100	$370
5 lots, Nos. 15 to 20, 7th-st., 25x100	450
7 lots, Nos. 8 to 14, 8th-st., 25x100	1125
7 lots, Nos. 1 to 7, 8th-st., 25x100	1,000

BLOCK NO. 7.

4 lots, Nos. 21 to 24, 8th-st., 25x100	$360
4 lots, Nos. 25 to 28, 8th-st., 25x100	360

BLOCK NO. 6.

2 lots, Nos. 21 and 22, 7th-st., 25x100	$280
2 lots, Nos. 20 to 22, 7th-st., 25x100	280
4 lots, Nos. 23 to 26, 7th-st., 25x100	360

Transfers of Real Estate.

NEW-YORK.

Beekman-place, e. s., 205 ft. s. of 51st-st., 25x100 } $20,000
100.

Bogert-st., s. s., No. 62, 21.4x75 block..... 2,000

Cherry-st., n. s., No. 402, 21.4x75 block..... 2,000

Cherry-st., n. s., No. 404, 21.4x75 block..... 2,000

Cherry-st., n. s., No. 406, 21.4x75 block..... 2,000

Forsyth-st., e. s., 100 ft. n. of Grand-st., 25x75..... 7,500

Houston-st., n. s., 112 ft. w. of Sullivan-st., 25.2x87.6 } 12,000
8th-st., s. s., 276 ft. w. of Avenue C, 20.1x97 } 14,000

10th-st., s. s., 400 ft. W. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 250 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 271 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 292 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 313 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 100 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 121 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 142 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 163 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 184 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 205 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 226 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 247 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 268 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 289 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 310 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 331 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 352 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 373 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 394 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 415 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 436 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 457 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 478 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 499 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 520 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 541 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 562 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 583 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 604 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 625 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 646 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 667 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 688 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 709 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 730 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 751 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 772 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 793 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 814 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 835 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 856 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 877 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 898 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 919 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 940 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 961 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 982 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1003 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1024 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1045 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1066 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1087 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1108 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1129 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1150 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1171 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1192 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1213 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1234 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1255 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1276 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1297 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1318 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1339 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1360 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1381 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1402 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1423 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1444 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1465 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1486 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1507 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1528 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1549 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1570 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1591 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1612 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1633 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1654 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1675 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1696 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1717 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1738 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1759 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1780 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1801 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1822 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1843 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1864 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1885 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1906 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1927 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1948 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1969 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 1990 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2011 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2032 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2053 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2074 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2095 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2116 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2137 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2158 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2179 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2200 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2221 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2242 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2263 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2284 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2305 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2326 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2347 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2368 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2389 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2410 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2431 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2452 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2473 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2494 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2515 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2536 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2557 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2578 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2599 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2620 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2641 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2662 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2683 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2704 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2725 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2746 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2767 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2788 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2809 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2830 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2851 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2872 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2893 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2914 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2935 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2956 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2977 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 2998 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3019 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3040 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3061 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3082 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3103 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3124 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3145 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3166 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3187 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3208 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3229 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3250 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3271 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3292 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3313 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3334 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3355 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3376 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3397 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3418 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3439 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3460 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3481 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3502 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3523 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3544 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3565 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3586 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3607 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3628 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3649 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3670 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3691 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3712 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3733 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3754 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3775 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3796 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3817 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3838 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3859 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3880 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3901 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3922 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3943 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3964 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 3985 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 4006 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 4027 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 4048 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 4069 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 4090 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 4111 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 4132 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s., 4153 ft. E. of 2d-av., 21x100.3..... 2,000

10th-st., s. s.,

SHIPPING.

THE ANCHOR LINE OF STEAMERS.
MAIL TO AND FROM GLASGOW AND DERRY.
EVERY WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAY.
Booking at all the LOWEST RATES, and forwarding them at REDUCED RATES to and from all railway stations in Great Britain, Ireland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Italy, Egypt, Syria, Turkey, Greece, Switzerland, Tyrol, Russia, Denmark, Sweden, Spain, Great Britain and Ireland. With a Railroad Map corrected up to 1869. For Passage, Freight, or Excursion tickets, apply at the Company's offices to HENDERSON BROTHERS, No. 7 Bowling-green.

ONLY DIRECT LINE TO FRANCE.
THE GENERAL TRANSATLANTIC COMPANY'S MAIL STEAM-SHIPS BETWEEN NEW-YORK AND HAVRE, CALLING AT BREST.
This Company reminds the travelling public that their Constantine will sail from Pier No. 50 North River as follows:
VILLE DE PARIS, Dumont.....SATURDAY, Aug. 6
PEREIRE.....DUCHESNE.....SATURDAY, Aug. 13
LAFAYETTE.....ROUSSAIN.....SATURDAY, Aug. 20
Whether or passengers embark in Paris, Southampton or Havre.
TO PARIS, (including carriage hire) 1st and 2d Cabin passengers do not carry baggage, which is examined through transit by English railways and the delay and trouble of crossing the Channel, besides saving expenses of carriage.
GEO. MACKENZIE, Agent, No. 58 Broadway.

STEAMERS VILLE DE PARIS FOR BREST AND HAVRE.
The Steamer VILLE DE PARIS will leave Pier No. 50 North River, foot of Morton-st., on SATURDAY, Aug. 6, at 12:30 o'clock. Passengers are requested to be on board at 11:30 o'clock A. M.
GEORGE MACKENZIE, Agent.

CUNARD LINE.
THE BRITISH AND NORTH AMERICAN ROYAL MAIL STEAM-SHIPS
BETWEEN NEW-YORK AND LIVERPOOL,
CALLING AT CORK HARBOR.

Russia, Wylam	Aug. 20	Scotia, Wylam	Aug. 31
China, Wotton	Aug. 27	Batavia, Thain	Sept. 7
Tripoli, Thain	Sept. 3	Palestine, Lott	Sept. 14
Abyssinia, Wood	Aug. 24	Calabria, Thain	Sept. 3
Samaria, Thain	Aug. 31	Russia, Wylam	Sept. 14
Cambria	Sept. 7	Java	Sept. 21
Africa	Sept. 14	Scotia, Wylam	Sept. 28
Abyssinia, Wood	Aug. 24	Caledonia, Thain	Sept. 3
Anglia	Sept. 10	Dacian	Sept. 7
		Dorian	Sept. 14

and every WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY thereafter, from Pier No. 20 North River, New-York.
RATES OF PASSAGE, PAYABLE IN CURRENCY.
First Cabin $80 and $90, according to location.
Excursion tickets, good for 12 months, $150.
Intermediate, $60; Steerage, $30.
Children under 12 years, HALF RATES.
Drafts issued, payable on demand, in sums to suit purchasers, at lowest rates.
Steerage passengers will be supplied with Bedding, Knives, Forks, Spoons, Tin Pots, Coal, &c., free of charge.
Steerage passengers landed at Queenstown, Cork Harbor, by tenders, which leave the steamers immediately on arrival.
Steerage passengers booked through to Liverpool, London, Glasgow, Londonderry, Belfast, Dublin, Queenstown, Cork, Limerick, Galway, Sligo, Ballina

THE LONG BRANCH RACES.

Fourth Day of the Sport—Large Attendance and Capital Racing—Enquirer Wins the Robbins Stake, McKinney the Two-Year-Old Purse, H. E. Connolly the Selling Race, and Neptune the Gentlemen's Purse.

Yesterday was the fourth day of the Long Branch trotting, and for the first time since it was instituted, the weather was favorable. The gathering clouds in the sky throughout the morning portended a storm, but this did not prevent some 3,000 votaries of racing of both sexes from patronizing the course. The programme of sport on the card was highly attractive, comprising four races, among them a two-mile-heat race, so popular among the general public. The management of the course was, as heretofore, irreproachable, and Mr. RAYNER, the energetic Secretary, deserves honor for the ability with which his arduous duties have been performed. The arrangement of the restaurant in connection with the grand stand deserves mention, for it differs altogether from the system of management adopted on other race-courses. Here the entire business of the department, including wines and other liquid refreshments, is in the hands of the Association, under the capable superintendence of Mr. CHARLES CHAMBERLIN, and everything supplied is of the very best quality, and at Broadway prices. By this method reasonable charges and refreshments of the highest quality are secured to the public who patronize the department.

The first race yesterday for the Robbins Stakes, two-mile heats, brought together three of the best three-year olds on the turf. These were: Kingfisher, the colt that Mr. BELMONT, who is confessedly one of the most liberal patrons of the American turf that we possess, did not hesitate to give $15,000 for after he had won the Travers Stakes at Saratoga, subsequent to his winning the Belmont Stakes at Jerome Park; Enquirer, the promising son of Leamington and Lida that Gen. BUFORD had and still owns, but is always willing to dispose of for $20,000; and Mr. F. M. RALEY'S ch. c. Major, who won the Mansion House Stakes at this meeting. Kingfisher on the strength of his two clever victories at Jerome Park and Saratoga, was made the favorite at the odds of $100 to $70, but before the race was run, and it was finally ascertained that Enquirer was going to run, there was a strong desire to back him, especially among the Western turfmen, who had seen him run two mile heats at Lexington this Spring and beat another great son of Leamington, JOHN HAPPER'S Lalleton, making the first heat in 3:38¼, and the first mile of the second heat in 1:43½. So anxious were they to back the Kentucky colt, that he speedily became a greater favorite than Kingfisher, whose main body of adherents were New-Yorkers. The track was tremendously heavy, which somewhat shook the confidence of Enquirer's partisans; his trainer, the veteran TOM PATTERSON, having openly declared in the morning, that if the course kept dry and good, his horse would run the two miles in 3:34, or less. Still, they backed him on the unbounded confidence they possessed, and the result justified their confidence. He made the running for the first mile and a half, with Major contending with him for the lead, and Kingfisher in waiting. When the latter made his run, he had Major safe in a few strides, and, eventually, Enquirer beat him a home by a length and a half. First good judges observed that Enquirer showed little evidence of fatigue after the heat, while Mr. BELMONT'S colt looked tired. Still the latter was backed to win at $100 to $40; many of the original backers of Enquirer hedging their money, and plunging on Kingfisher. The second heat put a different phase on the contest, for Enquirer led throughout, and, despite the whip and spur and all the skill of HENNESSY, Kingfisher could not even gain second place, for Major finished lengths before him. So badly had Kingfisher tired in the second heat that the odds of $1,000 to $200 on Enquirer were justified by the appearance of the two horses, and a good deal of money was bet as even that Major beat him in the third heat. But Mr. BELMONT'S colt, although doomed to be defeated, was far from disgraced, and he ran like the great race-horse that he unquestionably is, cutting down Major with ease, and finishing within a length of Enquirer after running in the finest manner throughout the heat. Whether he would have done better on a good track is only a matter of conjecture, but we have reason for stating that Kingfisher was not quite up to the mark, and that it will be folly to underrate his merits from this his first and only defeat.

The two-year-old race is not worthy of comment, for it afforded no test of the merits of the colts. Thanks to a wretched start, McKinney got away lengths before the others, and won easily. The only worthy part that we have witnessed through the meeting. The selling race was won by Richard H. Connolly, who, in the hands of his English trainer, seems to have commenced a brilliant and successful racing career. He got off far behind the others, but Hanlon speed brought him to the front, and he won cleverly. The splendid cup, a silver punch-bowl, of elegant design and massive structure, for gentlemen riders, was won by Rapture and Mr. BERGAFORD, beating St. Patrick, who was badly ridden by Lord WODEHOUSE, an English amateur rider.

To-morrow the great four-mile-heat race comes off, and this popular and now rare description of race will be certain to attract a vast attendance. There are fifteen entries, but probably not more than four or five will run. Two other interesting races are also on the card.

In connection with the subscription raised among the turfmen at Monmouth Park on Saturday, to compensate Major T. G. BACON for the loss of his valuable horse Lynchburg, who broke his shoulder-blade running the second heat, after winning the first, we gladly give place to the following letter of thanks and acknowledgment:

MONMOUTH PARK, Thursday, Aug. 4, 1870.

To R. W. Cameron and others:

Permit me, gentlemen, through the columns of the Press, to return you my kindest thanks for your generous conduct in so heartily bestowed upon me by my brother turfites at this place. At all times, and under any circumstances, such an act of kindness would have been duly appreciated. But coming, as it does, at a time when, for the last three years, misfortune had deprived me of the use of the services of some valuable horses, and when for the last two months sickness had prostrated me, you cannot imagine the high esteem I place on your generous act.

Permit me again, gentlemen, to thank you kindly.

Very respectfully yours, &c.,

THOMAS G. BACON.

THE ROBBINS STAKES.

The first race was for three-year olds, carrying 100 pounds, $20 subscription, $10 play or pay, with $2,000 added, of which the first horse took $2,000, the second $700, and the third $300. The distance was two-mile heats, and there were twenty-five entries, so that the stake was worth $9,200, net, to the winner. Three only came to the post, for the prestiged Kingfisher and Enquirer frightened others off, except Major, who had won the Mansion House Stakes, two miles, so cleverly two days before, that his owner thought he might have a chance against the two cracks in this race. Enquirer had won the opening race at this meeting, the Continental Hotel Stakes, and as he had run and won at two-mile heats at Lexington this Spring, in an extraordinary fast time, the first heat being run in 3:35¾, his party knew he could go the distance, and when it was finally decided to start him for this race the Western turfmen backed him in such earnest that he deposed Kingfisher from the premiership in the betting which he had previously enjoyed, and took his place. In the first pool Kingfisher sold for $800, Enquirer $650, and Major $150. In the second Kingfisher brought $600, Enquirer $510, and Major $140. The next pool saw Enquirer, although second choice, sell over Kingfisher, the latter bringing $550, Enquirer $610, and Major $160; and they sold in this proportion up to the start.

FIRST HEAT.—Enquirer was first away when the drum was tapped, with Kingfisher second and Major last. Before the quarter-pole was reached Major passed Kingfisher and was on Enquirer's saddle-girths at that point. They ran thus along the backstretch, past the half-mile pole, and along the lower stretch to the three-quarter pole, where Enquirer was still leading Major half a length, and Kingfisher, under whirling orders, two lengths behind. They ran thus under the string on the first mile being the next quarter Major got on even terms with Enquirer, and ran head and head with him to the half-mile pole. On the lower end Kingfisher ran up and passed Major, who had fallen back a little, and challenging Enquirer, deprived him of the lead, amid great excitement and the loud cheering of his backers, as the horses swung into the homestretch Kingfisher was leading Enquirer two lengths, and although the latter reduced the gap a little, when JOE applied the spur he could not reach Mr. BELMONT'S colt, who won cleverly by a length and a half, two lengths separating Enquirer from Major, who was third. Time—3:35¾. The jockeys could not be recognized for the deep coating of mud with which their faces and jackets were covered.

SECOND HEAT.—Kingfisher now was a great favorite, selling for $1,000 to Enquirer $110 and Major $50. Enquirer, with Major at his quarters, made the running throughout the first mile, with Kingfisher at Major's girths as they went under the string. At the turn Kingfisher fell into third place, and Enquirer, without ever being headed, came home an easy winner of the heat by three lengths, Major beating Kingfisher four lengths for second place. Kingfisher, although on the last half mile he got to within a length of Enquirer, could never fairly reach him, and tiring, was badly beaten. Time—3:34½.

THIRD HEAT.—Betting $1,000 to $150 on Enquirer, who made the running from the tap of the drum, and passed under the string on the first mile a length ahead of Major, who was as far before Kingfisher at the turn; the latter deprived of second position, but he could never overtake Enquirer, who won the heat and race in a canter by a clear length, Kingfisher twenty lengths before Major. Time—4:00.

FIRST RACE—ROBBINS' STAKES.—For three-year olds; to carry 100 pounds. Subscription $20, play or pay. Heats of two miles. Purse $9,000; first horse $2,000, second horse $700, third horse $300.

A. Belmont's b. c. Enquirer, by imp. Leamington—Lida.....1 1 1
A. Belmont's b. c. Kingfisher, by Lexington—Imp. Hidden Lake.....2 2 2
F. M. Raley's ch. c. Major, by Eugene, dam by Glencoe Mahomet.....3 3 3

Time—3:35¾, 3:34½, 4:00.

THE TWO-YEAR-OLD RACE.

The second race, for a purse of $700, three-quarters of a mile, had four entries—W. RANCOCK'S ch. f. Nellie Ransom, H. F. MCGRATH'S ch. c. McKinney, A. K. RICHARDS' ch. f. by Lexington, dam Sally Lewis, and L. W. JEROME'S ch. f. by Kentucky, dam Glide. RICHARDS' filly had the call over the others, selling for $600; Jerome $250, JEROME $200, Nellie Ransom $100; McKinney $90. It was a wretched start, for McKinney got away several lengths in front when the flag fell, was never caught, and won easily by four lengths. Time—1:23.

SECOND RACE.—Purse $700, for two-year olds. Three-quarters of a mile. The winner of West End Hotel Stakes to carry 5 pounds extra.

H. P. McGrath's ch. c. McKinney, by War Dance, dam Lucy.....1
A. K. Richards' ch. f. by Lexington, dam Sally Lewis.....2
W. R. Babcock's ch. f. Nellie Ransom, by Jack Malone, dam Young Widow.....3
M. A. Litter's ch. f. Raizan, by Lexington.....4
L. W. Jerome's ch. f. by Kentucky, dam Glide.....5

Time—1:23.

THE SELLING RACE.

The third race for a purse of $600, all ages, one mile and a quarter, had three runners—Richard H. Connolly, Dawnville colt and Norton colt. The latter was the favorite, selling for $600; Connolly $200, and Dawnville colt $100. The latter took the lead, Connolly being several lengths behind at the start, but gradually overhauling the two leaders, he challenged the Norton colt half way up the stretch, and after a rattling finish beat him to the string by three-quarters of a length. Time—2:09¾.

THIRD RACE—SELLING RACE.—For all ages. Purse $600. One and a quarter miles. The winner to be sold for $1,000; if entered to be sold for $750, allowed 5 pounds; for $500, 10 pounds. Any surplus over stated selling price to go to second horse.

J. O'Donnell's br. h. R. B. Connolly, by Lexington, dam Lucy Fowler, 6 years, $600.....1
J. W. Peasell's b. c. by Norton, dam Rebecca Tyler, 3 years, $500.....2
Carroll & Carr's br. c. by Dawnville, dam Canary, 3 years, $1,000.....3

Time—2:09¾.

THE GENTLEMAN'S CUP.

The fourth race, for all ages, gentlemen riders, the prize an elegant silver punchbowl, one mile, was contested by Mr. GREENE'S b. h. Rapture, ridden by Mr. BERGAFORD, and Gov. BOWIE'S gr. h. St. Patrick, ridden by Lord WODEHOUSE. The betting was $100 to $50 on Rapture, who got off several lengths behind, but overhauling St. Patrick before they had gone a quarter of a mile, she beat him home with the greatest ease by six lengths in 1:52.

FOURTH RACE—Gentlemen's Cup. For all ages. Welter weights. Gentlemen riders. Purse—an elegant silver punch-bowl. One mile.

J. K. Lawrence's b. h. Rapture, by Lapidist, dam Parachute, 4 years.....1
Gov. O. Bowie's gr. c. St. Patrick, by Stonewall Jackson, dam Chickamauga.....2

Time—1:52.

The Western Union Telegraph Company will open an office at the grand stand at Monmouth Park, Long Branch, on Saturday, for the reception and transmission of messages by telegraph.

The German Young Men's Christian Association's Farewell to a Valued Member.

A farewell complimentary entertainment was given at the hall of the German Young Men's Christian Association, last evening, by his friends in the Association, to Mr. FREDERICK WILLIAM BLEICHSCHMIDT, one of the most prominent, active and efficient members, who has endeared himself to his associates not only by his disinterested and sincere devotion to the cause of reform among the German young men of the City, but also by his kind and genial nature. Ample accommodation was provided, by a table extending the entire length of the hall, for the numerous guests. Rev. Dr. MCJILTON sat at the head of the table, Mr. BLEICHSCHMIDT on his right, Mr. PRESIDENT at his left, and Mr. ATKINSON at the opposite end. Prayer was offered up by Rev. Dr. MCJILTON, after which full justice was done to the delicacies bountifully provided. Speeches were delivered during the evening relating to the distinguished services of the honored guest of the evening, and expressing the deepest sorrow at his departure.

Among the speakers were Rev. Dr. MCJILTON and Mr. ATKINSON, who made addresses of considerable length, expressing their appreciation of the character and services of Mr. BLEICHSCHMIDT, and wishing him God-speed on his visit to the fatherland. Remarks were also made by Messrs. RENZ, PFERREN, and others. A set of resolutions, neatly engrossed, were presented to the guest of the evening by Mr. ATKINSON, expressive of the regret of the Association at parting with their friend, and of their appreciation of his many services. The exercises of the evening closed with singing by the choir of the Association.

Roughs in Catherine-Street—Passengers Stopped on Their Way to the Ferry.

A night or two since, about 10 o'clock in the evening, Mr. A. B. MILLER, who resides in Brooklyn, while passing down Catherine-street, on his way to the ferry, was assaulted and threatened with violence. Two men rushed out from a dark passage and one of them aimed a blow at the side of the gentleman's head, but fortunately it was warded off. He then, to preserve himself from further violence, struck at one of his assailants, when he saw a man rushing toward him with a glittering instrument in his hand, and not being armed, thought it best to take to his heels and run in Catherine-street, where he met with a rough reception, for no sooner did he ask for assistance than three men inside set upon him, and he was thrust out by the saloon-keeper, and encountered those who had first assaulted him. His only chance was then to rush for the ferry, and this he did, running at the top of his speed, and seeking protection of the ferry-men. No officer was on hand, nor are there any ever to be found at this hour, and the ruffians take advantage of their absence to assault every one who comes in their way, and abstract say valuables they can lay hold of. There have been similar cases almost every evening this and past weeks.

Mr. Ashbury at the Yacht Race.

The following courteous letter from the Secretary of the New-York Yacht Club to Mr. ASHBURY needs no explanation:

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF THE NEW-YORK YACHT CLUB,
NO. 41 WALL-ST., NEW-YORK, Aug. 2, 1870.

James Ashbury, Esq.:

DEAR SIR: I am instructed by the judges of the contest for the America Cup to express to you their desire that you select any position in the line formed for the start that you may feel disposed to take.

The Club steamer will be on the ground and aid you in assuming such position on the morning of the race.

Yours, &c.,
H. MORTON, Sec'y N. Y. Y. C.

Fire in the Swamps of Jersey—Heavy Losses.

During the present week extensive fires have been raging in the pine forests and swamps in Ocean County, N. J., near Toms River. According to the report of a correspondent well acquainted with the region of which portions were swept by the conflagration, the fire has occasioned severe losses to a large number of land-owners, and has been the most disastrous that has occurred in the county for many years. The flames first broke out on Sunday last, in a swamp near Quail Run. A large tract of land, 3,000 acres in extent, owned by Mr. A. P. STANTON, was the first to be overrun by the flames. It was covered with a young growth of pine timber, which was entirely destroyed. Mr. STANTON'S loss is estimated at $60,000, while the losses sustained by owners of adjoining tracts has also been heavy. At one time a sheet of fire three miles long lit up the heavens.

A Dangerous Guest.

JAMES SMITH, a laboring man, residing in Hudson City, was in Paterson on Wednesday night looking for work, and being destitute of a place in which to sleep he was taken in out of pity by a Mr. ROBINSON, in Morton-street. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. ROBINSON treated their guest to beer, and about midnight he became noisy and uncontrollable. Seizing a knife he stabbed Mrs. ROBINSON, inflicting a deep wound in the arm near the shoulder. His cries threatened the lives of the other inmates of the room, but was fortunately arrested before any more harm was done. He was yesterday committed to the County Jail for trial.

The Weather.

The following were the indications of the thermometer in the shade, yesterday, at the hours mentioned, at WILLIAM P. BYRNE'S mineral water "spa," No. 189 Broadway:

	Deg.		Deg.
9 A. M.	75	4 P. M.	90
9 A. M.	78½	6 P. M.	76
10 A. M.	80½	8 P. M.	76½
Noon.	86	10 P. M.	76
2 P. M.	88	12 P. M.	76

Fire in an Oil Refinery in Jersey City.

A fire broke out at about 4 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, in SOMMER'S Oil Refinery in Warren-street, Jersey City, which resulted in a loss of about $6,000 to the proprietors. It originated in the ignition by some unknown means of a small quantity of oil that had leaked from one of the vats. The building, which was of wood, and of little value, was destroyed. One hundred barrels of gasoline and oil were stored in the building. Forty barrels were saved by some extraordinary good fortune, the remainder being burned. The flames continued until about 7 o'clock, and at one time seriously threatened the adjoining sheds and oil-tanks. The property was fully insured.

A LAST APPEAL.

John Reed to the Public—He Considers Himself a Sacrifice, and Upbraids Gov. Hoffman and Tammany.

To the Public:

Gov. HOFFMAN has refused to reprieve me. I must die an ignominious death. I know this. I feel it; but my poor suffering sisters and my faithful father feel it far more than I. It is on this account as well as on my own that I feel it my duty to give the public the following facts.

I killed SMEDICK, but I did not murder him. He had repeatedly beaten me, and had repeatedly threatened my life. I killed him in self-defence. I shot him after he had struck me twice, and was following up his attack. I am able to prove this by the testimony of unimpeachable witnesses, but the opportunity has been denied me. Gov. HOFFMAN would not listen to these witnesses, but I am sure that the people will. Gov. HOFFMAN would not go behind the record of the trial, but I firmly believe that the public will. A few words regarding the trial.

I was tried, convicted, and sentenced within twelve hours. The public were excited over the Rogers murder, and I was offered as the sacrifice. Now, when the question of my reprieve comes up, the public are again excited over the Nathan murder, and I am again to be offered as a public sacrifice. These are harsh words, but the facts will bear them out. My counsel vainly asked for time to produce witnesses. Their testimony would have convinced the jury of my innocence of the crime of murder. They would have been in the Court-room if they had known the trial would have been finished on that day. But the Judge was inexorable. He refused to delay the trial. The record was made up without the testimony of the eye-witnesses who could have cleared me of murder, and I was doomed to death. Who were the witnesses against me? They were Officers LAMBRECHT and MEE, and men named CARPENTER and HYLAND. LAMBRECHT is now accused of perjury before Justice COULTER; HYLAND has been held for forgery; CRAWFORD is ridden by Mr. BERGAFORD, and Gov. BOWIE'S gr. h. St. Patrick, ridden by Lord WODEHOUSE. The betting was $100 to $50 on Rapture, who got off several lengths behind, but overhauling St. Patrick before they had gone a quarter of a mile, she beat him home with the greatest ease by six lengths in 1:52.

FOURTH RACE—Gentlemen's Cup. For all ages. Welter weights. Gentlemen riders. Purse—an elegant silver punch-bowl. One mile.

J. K. Lawrence's b. h. Rapture, by Lapidist, dam Parachute, 4 years.....1
Gov. O. Bowie's gr. c. St. Patrick, by Stonewall Jackson, dam Chickamauga.....2

Time—1:52.

The Western Union Telegraph Company will open an office at the grand stand at Monmouth Park, Long Branch, on Saturday, for the reception and transmission of messages by telegraph.

The German Young Men's Christian Association's Farewell to a Valued Member.

A farewell complimentary entertainment was given at the hall of the German Young Men's Christian Association, last evening, by his friends in the Association, to Mr. FREDERICK WILLIAM BLEICHSCHMIDT, one of the most prominent, active and efficient members, who has endeared himself to his associates not only by his disinterested and sincere devotion to the cause of reform among the German young men of the City, but also by his kind and genial nature. Ample accommodation was provided, by a table extending the entire length of the hall, for the numerous guests. Rev. Dr. MCJILTON sat at the head of the table, Mr. BLEICHSCHMIDT on his right, Mr. PRESIDENT at his left, and Mr. ATKINSON at the opposite end. Prayer was offered up by Rev. Dr. MCJILTON, after which full justice was done to the delicacies bountifully provided. Speeches were delivered during the evening relating to the distinguished services of the honored guest of the evening, and expressing the deepest sorrow at his departure.

Among the speakers were Rev. Dr. MCJILTON and Mr. ATKINSON, who made addresses of considerable length, expressing their appreciation of the character and services of Mr. BLEICHSCHMIDT, and wishing him God-speed on his visit to the fatherland. Remarks were also made by Messrs. RENZ, PFERREN, and others. A set of resolutions, neatly engrossed, were presented to the guest of the evening by Mr. ATKINSON, expressive of the regret of the Association at parting with their friend, and of their appreciation of his many services. The exercises of the evening closed with singing by the choir of the Association.

Roughs in Catherine-Street—Passengers Stopped on Their Way to the Ferry.

A night or two since, about 10 o'clock in the evening, Mr. A. B. MILLER, who resides in Brooklyn, while passing down Catherine-street, on his way to the ferry, was assaulted and threatened with violence. Two men rushed out from a dark passage and one of them aimed a blow at the side of the gentleman's head, but fortunately it was warded off. He then, to preserve himself from further violence, struck at one of his assailants, when he saw a man rushing toward him with a glittering instrument in his hand, and not being armed, thought it best to take to his heels and run in Catherine-street, where he met with a rough reception, for no sooner did he ask for assistance than three men inside set upon him, and he was thrust out by the saloon-keeper, and encountered those who had first assaulted him. His only chance was then to rush for the ferry, and this he did, running at the top of his speed, and seeking protection of the ferry-men. No officer was on hand, nor are there any ever to be found at this hour, and the ruffians take advantage of their absence to assault every one who comes in their way, and abstract say valuables they can lay hold of. There have been similar cases almost every evening this and past weeks.

Mr. Ashbury at the Yacht Race.

The following courteous letter from the Secretary of the New-York Yacht Club to Mr. ASHBURY needs no explanation:

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF THE NEW-YORK YACHT CLUB,
NO. 41 WALL-ST., NEW-YORK, Aug. 2, 1870.

James Ashbury, Esq.:

DEAR SIR: I am instructed by the judges of the contest for the America Cup to express to you their desire that you select any position in the line formed for the start that you may feel disposed to take.

The Club steamer will be on the ground and aid you in assuming such position on the morning of the race.

Yours, &c.,
H. MORTON, Sec'y N. Y. Y. C.

Fire in the Swamps of Jersey—Heavy Losses.

During the present week extensive fires have been raging in the pine forests and swamps in Ocean County, N. J., near Toms River. According to the report of a correspondent well acquainted with the region of which portions were swept by the conflagration, the fire has occasioned severe losses to a large number of land-owners, and has been the most disastrous that has occurred in the county for many years. The flames first broke out on Sunday last, in a swamp near Quail Run. A large tract of land, 3,000 acres in extent, owned by Mr. A. P. STANTON, was the first to be overrun by the flames. It was covered with a young growth of pine timber, which was entirely destroyed. Mr. STANTON'S loss is estimated at $60,000, while the losses sustained by owners of adjoining tracts has also been heavy. At one time a sheet of fire three miles long lit up the heavens.

A Dangerous Guest.

JAMES SMITH, a laboring man, residing in Hudson City, was in Paterson on Wednesday night looking for work, and being destitute of a place in which to sleep he was taken in out of pity by a Mr. ROBINSON, in Morton-street. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. ROBINSON treated their guest to beer, and about midnight he became noisy and uncontrollable. Seizing a knife he stabbed Mrs. ROBINSON, inflicting a deep wound in the arm near the shoulder. His cries threatened the lives of the other inmates of the room, but was fortunately arrested before any more harm was done. He was yesterday committed to the County Jail for trial.

The Weather.

The following were the indications of the thermometer in the shade, yesterday, at the hours mentioned, at WILLIAM P. BYRNE'S mineral water "spa," No. 189 Broadway:

	Deg.		Deg.
9 A. M.	75	4 P. M.	90
9 A. M.	78½	6 P. M.	76
10 A. M.	80½	8 P. M.	76½
Noon.	86	10 P. M.	76
2 P. M.	88	12 P. M.	76

Fire in an Oil Refinery in Jersey City.

A fire broke out at about 4 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, in SOMMER'S Oil Refinery in Warren-street, Jersey City, which resulted in a loss of about $6,000 to the proprietors. It originated in the ignition by some unknown means of a small quantity of oil that had leaked from one of the vats. The building, which was of wood, and of little value, was destroyed. One hundred barrels of gasoline and oil were stored in the building. Forty barrels were saved by some extraordinary good fortune, the remainder being burned. The flames continued until about 7 o'clock, and at one time seriously threatened the adjoining sheds and oil-tanks. The property was fully insured.

A LAST APPEAL.

John Reed to the Public—He Considers Himself a Sacrifice, and Upbraids Gov. Hoffman and Tammany.

To the Public:

Gov. HOFFMAN has refused to reprieve me. I must die an ignominious death. I know this. I feel it; but my poor suffering sisters and my faithful father feel it far more than I. It is on this account as well as on my own that I feel it my duty to give the public the following facts.

I killed SMEDICK, but I did not murder him. He had repeatedly beaten me, and had repeatedly threatened my life. I killed him in self-defence. I shot him after he had struck me twice, and was following up his attack. I am able to prove this by the testimony of unimpeachable witnesses, but the opportunity has been denied me. Gov. HOFFMAN would not listen to these witnesses, but I am sure that the people will. Gov. HOFFMAN would not go behind the record of the trial, but I firmly believe that the public will. A few words regarding the trial.

I was tried, convicted, and sentenced within twelve hours. The public were excited over the Rogers murder, and I was offered as the sacrifice. Now, when the question of my reprieve comes up, the public are again excited over the Nathan murder, and I am again to be offered as a public sacrifice. These are harsh words, but the facts will bear them out. My counsel vainly asked for time to produce witnesses. Their testimony would have convinced the jury of my innocence of the crime of murder. They would have been in the Court-room if they had known the trial would have been finished on that day. But the Judge was inexorable. He refused to delay the trial. The record was made up without the testimony of the eye-witnesses who could have cleared me of murder, and I was doomed to death. Who were the witnesses against me? They were Officers LAMBRECHT and MEE, and men named CARPENTER and HYLAND. LAMBRECHT is now accused of perjury before Justice COULTER; HYLAND has been held for forgery; CRAWFORD is now awaiting trial in Brooklyn for robbery, and CARPENTER has been found guilty of robbery and sent to the Penitentiary. I appeal to the sober sense of the people. Should a man be sent to his grave on the testimony of such men as these? Officer MEE was allowed to give only just testimony enough to weigh heavily against me. The few words spoken by me in the excitement caused by my arrest. He was not allowed to give further conversation with me, which would have destroyed the effect of those words. In his sworn affidavit before Commissioner WHITE he says, "He had another conversation with REED on the morning in which REED stated the reason why he shot SMEDICK was that he met him on the street and commenced to beat him, as he had often done before, and that he could not stand his clubbing any longer. He said he was on his way to his vessel which he was watching when SMEDICK assaulted him." JOHN THROOP, an old seaman, in a similar affidavit says, "I saw an officer strike a man twice in the head with a club, and then saw the man turn and give two shots, and then saw the officer fall." PHILIP COMSKY, a glass-blower, without a stain on his reputation, makes an affidavit that he "saw the officer in the act of using his club against REED, and saw him strike him or at him one or more times, and immediately after deponent heard two pistol shots." All this is evidence that Gov. HOFFMAN refused to consider, preferring the testimony of men who have since been sent to the Penitentiary, to men of character. Is Hospital number of inmates, 360, increase, 6; Nursery—Present number of inmates, 432, increase, 8; Asylum—Present number of inmates, 624. General Store-keeper—Remaining in store on 1st inst., $1,733 94; received during the week, $10 93; total to date, $3,524 07.

Ten of the Prospect Park lots, on Vanderbilt-avenue, were sold yesterday, at the auctioneering of COLE & MURRAY. The action will bring up the question of title to 126 acres of land in the vicinity of Flatbush. Should the Supreme Court decide that the Commissioners have the power of transferring the title to it, the entire tract will be sold, but if the decision is adverse, the land will have to be incorporated in the Park.

No new facts in regard to the Central Bank have been ascertained since yesterday. The investigation of its affairs, however, still continues. Many of the depositors expressed dissatisfaction with the appointment of Mr. SPARDEN as receiver. He must, they say, have understood all about the state of the finances before the crash came.

JOHN GRUMLEY, the man who was arrested a few days ago on a charge of stealing $135 worth of clothing from his boarding-house, at No. 30 Thomas-street, was discharged yesterday by Justice WALSH, there being no evidence to show that he committed the theft.

MARY BROWN, a resident of East Brooklyn, was arrested yesterday for kidnapping the child of CHARLES MCLAUGHLAN, of Jamaica, L. I. She had the child in her possession for two weeks.

LONG ISLAND.

The great fire which commenced in the woods near Speonk on Tuesday, has not been extinguished at latest accounts. Close inspections show the field burnt to have been at least 40,000 acres in extent. The fire yesterday was burning east and west from the original starting point. Wednesday night the Fire Department of Riverhead was called out to protect the place, but the wind changing saved it without any effort. Much of the territory burned over is worthless, especially that portion on the chain of hills running through the island. The district overrun is still smoldering and the roads impassable. A large part of the heavy timber is very valuable, at least worth $20 per acre. One man estimates 250 acres of land burned over per acre for his lumber. As there is no insurances on this species of property, the loss will fall heavily on the farmers. It cannot amount to less than $200,000.

At the meeting of the Common Council of Long Island City, yesterday, ten special Police constables for Sunday duty were appointed from each ward. Fifteen hundred dollars were appropriated by the Board to purchase badges for the Mayor, Aldermen, Police officers, &c. As the Mayor intends being absent for a few weeks, Alderman WILLIAMS was set apart to perform his duties during his absence. In the ordinances which were perfected, the one on ball-playing prohibits the playing of base-ball within the city limits on Sunday, under a penalty of $5 for each offense.

The ship Argonaut, whose spars and upper works were lately burnt at Jersey City, at the expiration of ten days will be towed to the ferry-boat James Watt, was towed, yesterday, into the dock at Hunter's Point, where she will be repaired and placed in good condition.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

Quite an exciting event, which came near terminating somewhat seriously, occurred at Washingtonville, in the town of East Chester, on Wednesday afternoon. It appears that WILLIAM WATTS, the Pound-master, had impounded the cattle and geese of sundry residents of the neighborhood, and as it is alleged, had shown some favoritism to other violators of the pound laws. An army of German and Irish women, armed with all sorts of weapons, resolved to make war upon the Pound-master, on the occasion of his next visit among them. Under these circumstances Justice MINER, aided by Constables WOOD, YOUNG and WATTS, Police Constable TOMLINSON and Special Officers BRETTS and MERRIOTT, repaired to the public pound, and undertook to remove a post which had been put down to prevent the opening of the pound gate, when they were set upon by the infuriated women and driven off the field. The Amazons then tore down the inclosure amid shouts of victory. One of the resisting party claims to have a lease of the ground, which may save her from prosecution.

NEW-JERSEY.

For a long time a young man in Newark has been in the custom of borrowing money and soliciting it for charitable purposes, and of appropriating it, when obtained, to his own use. His name is CHARLES STATON, and he lives with his parents at No. 17 Fair-street. Dr. GEORGE S. WARD, yesterday, complained of the young scamp for obtaining from him $6 to help a friend in trouble. It is an old game with the boy, and, after examination, he was committed to jail. Other complaints will, no doubt, be entered against him.

A young man called at a saloon in Newark, yesterday, and asked to have a $10 bill changed. The bill he presented was a counterfeit on the First National Bank of Poughkeepsie. He was arrested and taken before United States Commissioner WHITEHEAD, who committed him for trial in default of $5,000 bail. He gave his name as E. W. DAVIDSON, and said he resided at No. 340 Bleecker-street, New-York. A companion who was with him escaped to New-York.

The State rifle match of New-Jersey for the Major-General's Gold Medal will be held in October, probably at Newark. Many of the military are practicing for the occasion.

A well-known dry-goods dealer on Newark-avenue, in Jersey City, named JULIUS WEIL, closed up his establishment a few days ago, and has not been seen since. Before going he sent off a box in the company's name to his wife, telling her that she would hear from him again. He had become much involved in debt, owing to misfortune in business, and this last is generally accepted as explaining his disappearance.

The injuries of Mrs. MARY MCGUE, who was so severely burned, on Tuesday, by the explosion of some oil which she was at the time pouring upon a fire, in her residence, in Jersey City, has resulted in her death. An inquest will be held by Coroner VOLHARDT.

The Union-street M. E. Church, of Newark, will make an excursion to New-Haven today, on the steamer Magenta. Reinhardt's Band will accompany the excursion, and a dinner will be served on board.

JAMES P. COLE, a sewing-machine agent in Newark, left his house more than a week ago to go to New-York, since which time no trace of him can be obtained, though the New-York hospitals, the Morgue and every disagreeable place has been searched. He leaves in Newark a wife and child, and an aged father.

The members of Hiram Lodge F. and A. M., of Jersey City, held their annual picnic at Dudley's Grove, yesterday. A large party, numbering 600, accompanied them.

The insurance upon the property destroyed by fire in Newark on Wednesday night is $13,000, an amount fully sufficient to cover the losses. The insurance were effected mostly in Newark companies.

A new lodge of Odd Fellows has been instituted in Hoboken.

ARMY AND NAVY RECORD.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Lieut.-Commander SUMNER has been detached from the command of the Tuscarora and granted sick leave. Major RAMSEY is ordered to report to Louisville, for the purpose of giving evidence in the claim of Mrs. Ward for damages alleged to have been done to her house while occupied as Headquarters of the Department of the Cumberland. Capt. HENRY JOHNSON is ordered to San Francisco as medical store-keeper.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The market for American Securities and Stocks opened steady; 66 1/8 P. M. Securities were firmer and higher, and Stocks weak at the close Bonds were quiet and railroad stocks heavy. The course of the markets during the day is shown in the following list of prices:

	11¼ A. M.	1¼ P. M.	3 P. M.
Consols for money	93¾		93⅞
Consols for account	93		93⅞
U. S. 5-20s of 1867	87¾	88¼	88⅜
U. S. 5-20s of 1865, old	88	88⅜	88⅝
U. S. 5-20s of 1867	91¾		91⅞
U. S. 10-40s	89¾		89⅞
Illinois Central shares	101	102	101
Erie Railway shares	14¾	15	14⅜
At. & G. W. R. R. shares	20		20

FRANKFORT, Aug. 4.—American Securities are firmer and higher; five-twenties 84⅞ for the issue of 1862.

PARIS, Aug. 4.—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows a decrease in the specie reserve of 27,000,000 francs for the week ending yesterday. The Bourse opened firm at 69f. 80c. for Rentes, and is now buoyant. Rentes have advanced to 69f. 85c.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 4.—Cotton opened and closed quiet; Middling Uplands opened at 9d. and closed at 8 7-16; Middling Orleans opened and closed at 8 9-16. The sales of the day foot up 8,000 bales, including 1,000 bales for speculation and export. Corn 34s. 3d. for mixed. Spirits Turpentine 34s. 6d. Rosin 4s. 9d. Petroleum 1s. 6d. for refined. Tallow 44s. 6d. Pork steady. Lard steady at 61s. 6d.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 4.—Cotton opened and closed quiet; Middling Uplands opened at 9d. and closed at 8 7-16; Middling Orleans opened and closed at 8 9-16. The sales of the day foot up 8,000 bales, including 1,000 bales for speculation and export. Corn 34s. 3d. for mixed. Spirits Turpentine 34s. 6d. Rosin 4s. 9d. Petroleum 1s. 6d. for refined. Tallow 44s. 6d. Pork steady. Lard steady at 61s. 6d.

ANTWERP, Aug. 4.—Petroleum opened declining at 44f. 50c. for Standard White, and closed quiet at 45¼ f.

BREMEN, Aug. 4.—Petroleum closed dull yesterday.

HAMBURG, Aug. 4.—Petroleum closed firm, yesterday, at 14¼ thalers.

HAVRE, Aug. 4.—Cotton—Tres